HOP PICKERS ARE SCARCE

Hop Growers Finding Some Difficulty in Securing Help to Harvest Their Crops.

With the hops approaching a stage of maturity that will make their rapid harvest an absolute necessity if the rop is saved, the growers now find themselves confronted with an apparent shortage of pickers. It was thought some time back that their would be plenty of harvesters for the hop fields but since the growers have begun to scramble for them it is found that the supply is limited and some little anxiety is felt by some of the most extensive growers who are obliged to employ several hundred pickers to get their crops out of the way in due sea-

The hops are ripening nicely and the prospects are bright for an excellent quality of produce, but, if the scarcity pickers becomes more serious than is at present anticipated, the quality will not be depricated materially, but their is danger of the hops becoming over ripe before they can be gathered in. Picking in this section of the were as follows: Fred A. Stein and valley will begin Thursday, in some yards, but generally the first of the Same Condition at Aurora.

Aurora, Sept. 6 .- Hoppicking has commenced in most yards but as yet there has been a scarcity of pickers and the work has been retarded. It is too early to make a correct estimate as to the yield but enough has been picked to show that it will be very uneven. E. M. Bracket has finished picking and according to the number of boxes, his rop is almost double as compared with last year. On the other hand, Henry Muessig, who finished Monday, reports that his crop will be sess than 50 per cent of last year's yield.

It is found in every district where cotton is tion is concerned, the market is staggrown and effectually prevents the crop nant, and all hops that are changing from assuming any particular proportions. It has been suggested, however, that Cuba has one advantage over the tainty of the situation and are letting south, in that for at least a part of the year the boll weevil is unable to work. During the rainy season, which comprises the months of July, August, September and October, the heavy rains and extreme heat keep the weevil from damaging the plants, so that if the crop were planted prior to July 1, instead of April, as in the southern states, by the time the boll weevil begins to work in 4 November, there would be a good crop on the producing plants. It is estimated that by this method of raising cotton, the yield should be, of the long or short staple, from one to one and a half 1 bales to the acre. Of course, for the succeeding four months-the dry seasons-the weevil would have full sway, but with one erop fully matured the planters would not be so badly off. Until some sure extermination for the weevil is found, however, men will prefer to invest their Cuban dellars in sugar and tobacco, but the possibilities of cotton growing in the island still remain
