CHAS. A. SEHLBREDE OF MARSH-PIELD ANNOUNCES HIMSELF A CANDIDATE.

His Platform Embraces Strict Construction of the Constitution, an Anti-Pass Law and Several Doctrines Expected

Judge Charles A. Sehlbrede, for seva position which he resigned to return and T. R. Berry. to Oregon, and for the past two years announced his candidacy for the governorship before the Republican primaries, making a lengthy declaration of the principles upon which he bases his claims. The shieing of Mr. Schlbrede's eastor into the ring brings into the contest an element that if solidified and serious in its demand would have a decided bearing on the result. Should Mr. Sehlbrede beceme recognized as the candidate of southern and southwestern Oregon and receive the united support nglas, Coos, Curry, Jackson and Josephine counties, he would become quite formidable. The Marshfield Mail, M. C. Ament, Grants Pass, Or. which brought out his name, and in which his letter appeared accepting the proposal, makes it understood that he will be the candidate of that section. After making specific announcement of his candi lacy, Judge Schlbrede deprecates the existence of such wholesale frauds as have been revealed in horror that the public conscience has Chas. H. Chance, Sumpter, Or. become so indifferent to right that official fraud and grafting are too often the rule rather than the exception. He charges this condition to the open disregard for the provisions of the Oregon constitution by the law-making powers! and the office holders, and he announces himself as a strict constructionist of the old document as to salaries of governor and all other officials working no right to take or receive more than banks. He believes in using convict labor on the public roads; is heartily in favor of the child labor law and its inforcement; wants the primary law fairly tried in all its provisions and will help to elect all Republican candidates nominated under it; believes that nembers elected to the next legislature should consider themselves bound by the primary vote on United States senator; favors the creation of a corporation commissioner, with authority to investigate all corporations, protect the good ones and annihilate the wildcat schemes.

He says he is not the candidate of any faction, and says: "If nominated and elected I will be free to, and will, give the people a clean, aggressive and economical administration, believing that all of the laws of the state should be strictly enforced, as the best way to get rid of bad or obnoxious laws is to enforce them. I am now, and always have been, a Republican from principle, and am in favor of a united Republican party in Oregon, and in the United States, and whether elected or not I will make every effort to bring about and maintain that result."

FORGED LAND CERTIFICATES CON-TINUE TO ACCUMULATE FROM WISCONSIN.

Mr. Goddard Arrives But Does Not Know What to Do-Suspicion Abroad Some Wisconsin Men Are in Position Where They Fear to Squeal,

Another chapter of the land fraud istory was rehearsed yesterday. R. H. Goddard, son of Hiram Goddard, the La Crosse, Wis., capitalist, who was badly bitten by the Puter and McKinley gang of swindlers, was in the city vesterday accompanied by an uncle who lives in Portland, to consult with the state land officials in relation to future procedure. The young man had been engaged at a logging camp on Puget sound up to the time of the exposure, when he immediately went east to apprise his father of the situation and see what could be done. He was on his way back to Oregon when Kay McKay was arrested at Seattle through Land Agent West's efforts and later released because the elder Goddard sent word that he expected the Oregon officers to prosecute and intimated he would not take any steps himself.

Young Goddard was surprised that his father would consent to McKay's release, because it is known that he was with Puter and McKinley in La Crosse when the fraudulent deals were consummated and it is also known to the satisfaction of the officers here that McKay was one of the principal movers in the various transactions, and that he possesses documents that would be of great value in the prosecution of the gang. Since he has been released, it may be more difficult to locate the incriminating evidence, as he will probably have as many of such papers as possible destroyed before he is rearested, if taken at all,

Another one of S. A. D. Puter's Land Agent West informed the Godeastern victims reported to the state dards and other eastern parties who

It is considered a little singular that the Wisconsin people are showing such hesitaney in proceeding toward the arrest and prosecution of McKinley and Puter, and they are suspicious that some of them may fear the result of thorough investigation. Many certificates are held by eastern timber speculators which are genuine in their issuance, but the parties in whose names they were issued were probably fietitious, the first assignments being made by "dummies," and if all these should be shown up, as they would be if Puter and McKinley should be prosecuted, the eastern fellows might stand a show of losing their land under the genuine certificates as well as under those that
