MORE OF FRAUDS

PUTER'S RASCALITY CONTINUES TO SHOW UP FROM EAST FIELDS OF WISCONSIN.

Another batch of forged certificates, this time accompanied by genuine receipts—Puter's style of work is fully explained—bold and shrewd.

The rascality of S. A. D. Puter and his gang of swindlers continues to arise like miasma from the charnel house. When fully revealed their schemes will stand unrivaled in the annals of land fraud for comprehensiveness of detail and shrewdness of manipulation.

Thomas N. Strong, a Portland attorney, appeared before the state land board yesterday, representing the Fenwood Lumber Company of Wausau, Wis., having in his possession fifteen of the forged certificates, numbered from 11974 to 11985, inclusive, covering lands in Jackson county, Issued January 23, 1903, and Nos. 12499, 12490 and 12504, covering lands in Malheur county, issued April 19, 1902, in all, 4219.37 acres. These certificates were issued respectively in the names of Harry Merkle, Thomas R. Cook, J. R. Osman, A. R. Cooley, Al. D. Mackenzie, John Jones, Jack Powers, E. J. Wise, F. Murry, Minnie E. Parker, Miss A. C. Smith, Mrs. G. H. Brown, Otto Karki and R. Beard, and assigned to D. R. Murphy, then deposited by Murphy as collateral for a loan with the Fenwood Lumber Company, which was also given an option to purchase, jointly with S. A. D. Puter.

It is now pretty well settled that the assignments on all these forged certificates passed directly to and from Puter, no matter what name was used, and that H. H. Biggs in many of the cases, and D. R. Murphy in this case, was Puter himself working in different places. The scheme was this: Puter would go to Chicago, or La Crosse, or Wausau, as the case may be, select his victim and tell him that he had a friend named Biggs at St. Paul who held a certain number of land certificates that were for sale, but that he wanted money right away and would deposit them as collateral for a loan, giving an option to purchase later if satisfactory. When the deal was negotiated Puter would return to St. Paul, fix up the assignments with the name of his friend Biggs, deposit them with the requisite notes in a bank agreed upon, where he would leave his identification and signature as Biggs, and when the papers went through and the money was sent to St. Paul, Puter would draw it as Biggs. By substituting any other name and other cities the plan followed will appear in full. Accompanying these forged certificates held by Mr. Strong's clients are a batch of genuine receipts for partial payments which have been made on the land in Murphy's name, and about the only hope which Mr. Strong sees for them is to get back from the state the money covered by those receipts, so as to recoup themselves for their loan. They claim the receipts as a part of their collateral, and inasmuch as the other documents are deposited there, they cannot obtain title to the land, they consider themselves entitled to the money which has been paid. The land board is undecided on this point and has asked the advice of Attorney General Crawford.

It is not known at the land office who holds the genuine original certificates to the lands included in this list, but the presumption is that they are hypothecated or sold somewhere else, and are probably accompanied by forged receipts for partial payments, because the only payments that have been made or offered on them have been for which the genuine receipts are with the forged certificates. This makes the flunniest mixture which has been so far developed. Should the state refund the money that has been paid on the land by the parties holding the forged certificates, then the genuine certificates will have lapsed and are forfeitable, by reason of failure to make payments within the time specified by law, and the holders will be compelled to buy the land over again and at double the original cost, which is $1.25 an acre, while now the minimum is $2.50.

Investigation has left no doubt that the name of P. H. Ward, the Portland notary, which appears on all the first assignments of the forged certificates, and his seal also, were forged. That gentleman always signed his name Peter H. Ward and his seal contains the same way.

It is probable that during the next twenty-four hours there will be some tangible developments in the prosecution of the gang, as the machinery for rounding them up is now in operation.

THERE'S NOTHING DOING.

That is the Word From the Hop Market and the Same Comes From the East.

The hop market in the Salem district is exceedingly dull and is liable to remain so until January is well advanced in. "Nothing doing" is the answer from every buyer and every grower questioned, and the same seems to be true of all the markets east and west, though in England there has been some activity. Conditions prevailing in other places may be seen by the latest expressions received:

Portland Journal, Dec. 19: A rather quiet feeling was shown in the hop market today. Unfavorable weather kept most of the buyers at home and orders are not quite so plentiful as a few days ago. With the exception of the late purchases by the Klaber, Wolf & Netter company and E. Clem Horst company, there is but little to the market. Some of the shorts are holding off in anticipation of a decline early in the new year.

Otsego (N. Y.) Republican: The market has been very quiet the past week. The purchases of the past week amounted to 190 sales at prices of 14 to 14 1/2 cents.

Producers' Price Current, Dec. 9: A very large clearance has been reported this week of the hops lately purchased for English account. The market for states is now practically at a standstill as exporters have discontinued buying, and a steady let-down in prices has to be reported; we hear of several good lots having been handled in the state at 13 to 13 1/2 cents. Transactions in Pacific have been reported on the local market, mainly in Yakimas at 10 1/2 to 11 1/2 cents; we hear of an offer of 12 1/2 cents refused for one lot of choice shipping Oregon, and 13 cents has been paid. Strange to relate, the New York market is bare of 1905 Pacific at the moment. Advice from Germany report an easier market on reddish low grades than choice grades. There certainly is no improvement in the prices offered. The lower grades are receiving some attention but at low prices. Some of the lots left are being bought as low as 10 cents and 16 cents about the highest price paid for the best grade now left. J. J. Bennett, one of our largest hop growers, shipped his 1905 crop of England this 19th and recently received returns from 130 bales, the larger portion of his crop, which netted him 16 cents per pound.

New York Tribune, 13th: Receipts for the week, $506 bales; exports, 2447. The local market continues quiet. Some few sales of Pacific coast hops have been made. Mostly Yakimas at 10 1/2 to 11 1/2 cents, and one lot of choice shipping Oregon sold at 13 cents. Exporters have ceased operations and state hop buyers also sales, with some very good lots and reports sold in the country at 13 to 14 cents. The German market is easier on the reddish low grades, but choice green hops eagerly sought for. The English market shows little change. We quote: State, 1905, choice, per pound. $17@19 State, 1904, choice. $12@13 State, 1904, prime. $10@11 Pacific coast, 1905, choice. $14@15 Pacific coast, 1904, choice. $10@12 Pacific coast, 1904, prime. $7@8

Cobleskill (N. Y.) Index, 7th: The local market is dull, very little business having been transacted since our last issue. Hutt has purchased a few small lots around 13 cents and several lots of previous purchases have been shipped by other dealers. Very local hops are of high enough quality to be sold, as shippers and brewers are not buying extensively, preferring coast hops to states at current prices. The result is a dull market and it is not likely that business will be resumed on a large scale until after the holidays.

Kentish (England) Observer, Nov. 30: Merchants have advanced their prices for the new crop of Goldings, which are now held for $3 1/2 to $4 1/2, and choice Fuggles are also dearer at $2 1/2 to $3 1/2. The prices paid for growers, however, are practically the same as last quoted, though the useful copper grades from the Weald of Kent and from Sussex are fetching a little more money than they were a week ago. There has been remarkable activity on the market of late, many large growths having been taken from the growers' hands.

VERY EXPENSIVE

COST OF LIVING IN WASHINGTON IN SOCIAL SEASON IS VERY HIGH INDEED.

Population of National Capital Jumps 20,000 During the Sessions of Congress—Visitors go There to See Celebrities.

Special correspondence to the Globe-Democrat.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—There are not more than 450 members of the two houses of congress—not many more—but the winter population of the national capital is greater than its summer population by 20,000, and it's the most interesting and busy and expensive place in the United States and will be from now until after the social season is over and almost until the time when the congress adjourns in June or July.

There is a certain glamor about the men who are great or who are accounted great. Greatness to those who come to the National capital for the season is in direct proportion to the number of times they see the name of their chosen one in the daily press or the number of times his picture has appeared in the Senate by the strangers, who have but little interest in their own representatives. In the house, Mr. Speaker Cannon and Cushman of Washington divide honors with Champ Clark and John Sharp Williams in the house of representatives. When folks come from the west they always want to meet their own representatives. If they are from the east, they don't seem to care for any but the national celebrities. It's a fact that most people from New York city and New York state have no interest at all in their house members and but little in Depew and Platt. It's also true that there are few members of the delegation from that state.

But it's not alone to look on greatness that the people crowd into Washington for the social season, nor is it that alone which makes the population so much in excess of the summer season, when congress is in session. Each member of congress has at least one clerk for whom the government gives him an allowance of $100 a month. In the senate, in addition to the clerks, there are from one to three stenographers and secretaries assigned to each senator who has the chairmanship of the big committees. These are paid by the government, too. But even allowing for these men who come here only for the session and for the employees of the capital, that immense pile, with its hundreds of rooms and its miles of corridors, the number will not be made up.

It is becoming more and more a fact that the rich of every part of the country find Washington the Mecca of their hopes and ambitions. They are not only crowding into the old-fashioned colonial houses on the old streets of Washington, but they are yearly building great palaces along K street and Connecticut avenue, and each year are extending the area of the fashionable quarter, and by the prodigality making it a city where it is difficult for people of limited means to live in ease. Then there is the office hunting class. His number is legion. He comes with his senator or member and he settles down at a first-class hotel, if he has means, or at a quiet boarding house, if he has not, and begins a campaign of many months, and the expenditure of hundreds of dollars, for the procuring of himself a place which does not pay him in the end more than $1000 or $1500. He sometimes brings one or two "political strikers" with him, who usually live off him, and are supposed by their presence, to enhance his chances of appointment. No less than five scores of Missourians of this class now inhabit Washington.

Add to the number of these people already indicated the men who come to Washington to represent special interests before the government departments and the congress and its committees, and you can see where the 20,000 winter population comes from.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is more than a fat food. There is no animal fat that compares with it in nourishing and building up the wasted, emaciated body. PARVER BOUND OVER.

Married Man Who Eloped With Lillie Howard Must Answer Circuit Court.

Orin Howard, father of Miss Lillie Howard who eloped from near Junction City on Saturday evening, arrived in Salem Tuesday, and swore out a complaint against John W. Farver, the man who ran away with the girl, charging him with the crime of adultery. Farver was given a hearing in City Recorder Moore's court in the afternoon and was held to the circuit court under bonds of $500, which he furnished.

Farver, who has a wife and five children, denied having had improper relations with Miss Howard, but the latter took the witness stand and gave testimony which convinced the court to the contrary. The evidence of Miss Nellie White, the chambermaid of the White House lodging house, where Farver and Miss Howard occupied a room on Sunday night, also gave evidence which was damaging to the defendant.

Miss Howard returned to her home near Junction last evening with her father.

CAPT. GRAHAM'S GRATITUDE

Suffered from Sores on Face and Back—Doctors Took His Money But Did No Good—Skin Now Looks Clear as a Baby's.

Another Cure by CUTICURA REMEDY

Captain W. S. Graham, 1321 E. St., Wheeling, W. Va., writing June 21, 1905, says: "I would like to thank God that a friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment to me. I suffered for a long time with sores on my face and back. Some doctors said I had blood poison, and others that I had carbuncles. None of them did me any good, but they all took my money. My friends told me my skin now looks as clear as a baby's, and tell them all that Cuticura Soap and Ointment did it."

STILL ANOTHER CURE

Neck Covered With Sores, He Fell Out, Wild With Itching

Mr. H. J. Spalding of 104 W. 10th St., New York City, says: "For two years my neck was covered with sores that drove me crazy. None of the doctors which fell out, leaving an unsightly bald spot, and the sores, inflammation, and merciless itching made me wild. After a few applications of Cuticura the sores subsided, the sores disappeared, and my hair grew thick and healthy as ever."

AND STILL ANOTHER

"For over thirty years I suffered from painful ulcers and an eruption from my knees to my feet, and could find neither doctors nor medicine that helped me, until I took Cuticura which cured me in six months. (Signed) C. M. Moss, Gainesville, Tex."
