Oregon Peach Bitters About eighteen years ago I received a hurt in my back from a pile of lumber falling on me, and ever since had been troubled with weak kidneys more or less, and the last year very much. Through the recommendation of Henry Keene, I bought a bottle of H. Kias's Oregon Peach Bitters and before I had taken half the bottle I found a great relief from it. I believe it to be a splendid remedy for the kidneys, and heartily recommend it for the same. J. H. PORTER, Astoria, January 12, 1886.

LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS

Itimized Account of Doings in City and Country. A DISASTROUS FIRE. The Chair Factory, one of Salem's Leading Industries, Burned to the Ground. About 1:30 o'clock this morning Policeman H. Barnardrick while standing on Commercial street near the corner of State, noticed a lurid light in the sky in the northwestern part of the city, and thinking that the coeprage back of the State Insurance office was on fire, he immediately gave the alarm. The department responded with its usual alacrity and on arriving at Center St., it was discovered that the large chair factory of Mount & McMillen, on the river front and Union streets was the building on fire. In less than ten minutes No. 3's had a stream from the hydrant and Capitals and Tigers several streams from the latter's engine upon the burning building, but the fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to save it. Reports as to where the fire started are conflicting, some claiming that it originated in the north end while others insist that it was in the southwest corner of the building when they arrived on the scene. The cause of the fire is unknown, although the general belief is that it was of incendiary origin. The building was full of dry wood, shavings and other combustible material and burned very rapidly. Two hundred dozen finished chairs were stored in the north end of the building and of this number 31 dozen were saved. There were 200 dozen more under way in the shop and material for about 400 dozen more. The efforts of the firemen were successful in saving the engine and the dry house, but the building with its machinery and contents, with the exception of that stated above, was a total loss. The factory was owned by a joint stock company, the members of which and the amount they had invested in it are as follows: Mr. Stahley, $5000; R. M. Wade & Co., $1000; R. M. Wade, $1000; A. Bush, $1000; Nez Bush, $700; Oren Barker, $800; Williams & England, $1300; Wm. Wade, $500; Chris Fieldner, $3300; James Wells, $2000. The factory cost $14,500 originally and has since been improved. There was no insurance on the building. The lessees, Messrs. Mount & McMillen, commenced operating the factory last January and were building up a good business. Their loss is about $5,000, insured for $1,500 in Gilbert Bros. agency. The burning of this factory may be considered in the light of a public calamity, as it gave employment to from twenty to twenty-five hands, several of them being skilled laborers. The factory has never been a paying venture, and although the lessees were confident of building up a good business, it is not probable that it will be rebuilt.

Suit Decided. A suit brought by the Oregonian Railway company through its receiver, C. N. Scott, to compel payment by the O. R. & N. company of the former's taxes, amounting to about $5,000, in Marion, Lane, Polk and Yamhill counties was on Tuesday decided by Judge Deady, of the United States circuit court, against the defendants, as former ones have been. As is well known the O. R. & N. Co. has a ninety-nine years lease on the narrow gauge, but kicks at paying its taxes. The point raised this time by the O. R. & N. company was that the taxes were not due till they became delinquent, on the first Monday in April, and that plaintiff could not maintain suit to require taxes for one year to be paid, but must sue to oblige the payment of all the taxes arising during the pendency of the lease. The court overruled the demurrer and held that the taxes were due from the time the roll was put into the sheriff's hands for collection, and might be collected before they were technically delinquent, by sale of personal property, and that the party was not bound to apply for an order to pay taxes in the future, which were not yet assessed, and which it could not be known whether the O. R. & N. Co. would be called upon to pay or not.

Supreme Court. SALEM, March 29, 1888. Mary J. Weber, resp., vs. Emil Weber, app.; appeal from Multnomah county; judgment of the lower court reversed; appellant to pay the costs; opinion by Strahan, J. Following is the syllabus: 1. Divorce—Power to Grant Statutory.—The power to grant a divorce and such other relief as is usually incidental thereto is purely statutory. 2. Divorce—Pleading.—Wife's separate property.—In a divorce suit by a wife her pleading ought to allege what personal property of hers the husband has in his possession or control to enable the court to make a decree in her favor therefor. 3. Divorce Suit—Pleading.—In a divorce suit by the wife, when she alleges that certain personal property is the property of her husband, a decree finding the same is her separate property will be reversed as unauthorized and contrary to the pleadings. J. H. Steffen app., vs. C. H. Hill et al., resp.; appeal from Multnomah county; argued and submitted. Frank B. Jolly, attorney for appellant. Emmet B. Williams, attorney for respondents. W. Wirt Saunders' Brother. Mr. Bob Wilson, son of the popular county clerk of Benton county, now attending Bellevue Medical college, New York city, writes home that he recently made the acquaintance in that city of Dr. Bacon Saunders, a brother of the notorious Wirt Saunders. Bob says that Dr. Saunders is a genial and accomplished gentleman and that he spoke very regretfully of his brother's unfortunate career. He denied Wirt's fanciful stories about his father's immense wealth, and attributes these stories and the rest of his deeds to mental aberration induced by excessive use of opium. He also stated that Geo. H. Williams received $1,000 for his services as counsel in Wirt's last trial.—Corvallis Times.

PROHIBITION CONVENTION. 200 Delegates in Session who have a Good Time Together. The state prohibition convention met in Portland at 10 o'clock yesterday a. m. The delegation from Marion county was only exceeded in number by that from Multnomah. At 10:30 Prof. G. M. Miller called the assemblage to order. As the train bearing the delegates from Marion, Linn, Lane and Douglas counties was three hours late, he recommended that an adjournment be taken till 1 o'clock. A motion to that effect prevailed. Shortly before 2 o'clock the delayed delegates arrived, and the convention reassembled. Rev. O. Taylor was chosen temporary chairman and N. R. Gaylord temporary secretary. A committee on credentials was appointed, and a recess taken to give the committee time to report. On re-assembling the committee reported the names of those delegates entitled to their seats, which report was adopted. J. W. Webb, J. H. Amos and G. W. Dimmick were appointed a committee on nominations for permanent organization, who retired to prepare their report. The committee on platform was composed of one member from each county, J. M. Dick, from Marion county, being placed on the committee. The committee on permanent organization reported in favor of C. C. Hogue, of Benton, for chairman, and E. E. McKinney, of Marion, and C. H. Stockton, of Clatsop, for secretaries. The nominations were as follows: For congress, T. W. Davenport, of Marion; supreme judge, to be selected by the executive committee; presidential electors; Dr. A. C. Kinney, of Clatsop; B. F. Rapp, of Douglas; and O. D. Taylor, of Wasco. Among the delegates selected to the national convention, Samuel Rapp, of Marion, was named. While waiting the report of the committee on nominations, Walter Thomas Mills, the little giant from Ohio, made an address. His speech was eloquent and forcible, and aroused his audience to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. The convention adjourned till 11 o'clock this morning.

MORNING TELEGRAMS. Lightning Flashes of What the World at Large is Doing. THE CHINESE TREATY. The Terms upon Which the Celestials may Enter and Leave our Shores. WASHINGTON, Mar. 28.—The new Chinese treaty, which was made public to-day, provides that for a period of twenty years, dating from the exchange of ratifications, the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States is prohibited. This does not apply to a Chinese laborer who has a lawful wife, child or parent in the United States, or property therein to the value of one thousand dollars, or debts of like amount due him. Every Chinese laborer, on leaving the United States, must, as a condition for his return, deposit with the collector of customs of the district from which he departs, a full description in writing of his family or property or debts, and shall be furnished with a certificate showing his right to return to the United States. Should this statement prove false, he forfeits his right to return. Such right of return shall be exercised within one year from the date of leaving the United States, but may be extended for an additional period which must not exceed one year. The existing privileges of travel and sojourn in the United States to Chinese officials, teachers, students, merchants and travelers for curiosity and pleasure remain undisturbed. Chinese laborers shall have for the protection of their persons and property, all the rights given by the laws of the United States, except the right to become naturalized citizens. It is agreed in the treaty to pay $275,019 as full indemnity for all the losses sustained by Chinese subjects, who have been victims of injury in person and property at the hands of wicked and lawless men. If within six months before the expiration of a period of twenty years, neither government formally gives notice to the other of its termination, the treaty shall remain in force for another period of twenty years.
