Imre Kiralfy has received a letter from Chevalier Blondin, in which he says he wants to cross Niagara Falls once more before he dies.

W. J. Florence has purchased of Mr. Palmer the right to play "Heart of Hearts" next season, and will produce the piece as part of his repertoire throughout the country.

At the close of Fanny Davenport's New York season she will leave for the Pacific coast, where she will rest until the last week in May, before she plays "La Tosca" in San Francisco.

Lawrence Barrett's life is insured for $12,000 and he will leave a very pretty bank account beside. He and Mr. Booth drew over $9,000 in two performances in Salt Lake City.

Salvini will begin his American season in October next. The engagement is for twenty weeks, and but two pieces, "Otello" and "The Gladiator," will be presented. Young Salvini will support his father under A. M. Palmer's management.

It is said that when Edwin Booth was a boy in white trousers and black jacket he appeared at a school examination with John S. Clarke in the quarrel scene between Brutus and Cassius, his father listening, unobserved. In 1851 the future tragedian was an actor, earning $6 a week.

A southern genius is to send out a fleet of floating theatres. They will draw only a foot and a half of water, will be 100 feet long, 40 feet wide, made up in the same way as shore theatres and furnished with stock companies. They will tie up at promising towns, not only along the Mississippi river, but beside the still waters of smaller streams, and the manager even hopes to paddle up north and play along the Plate and Ohio.

The fleet will leave New Orleans about May 1.

FANCIES IN JEWELS.

Massive chain bracelets, heavy in appearance only, are among the latest designs offered.

A duke's coronet of gold, completely covered with seed pearls, makes a dainty scarf pin.

Uralian emeralds, or green garnets, mounted in trefolds, make odd and attractive brooches.

A pansy of tiny seed pearls, having each of the petals edged with turquoises, makes a tasteful brooch.

A Cape garnet within a setting of braided gold wire makes an attractive top for a single prong hairpin.

An enamel peacock feather scarf pin in natural tints, recently seen, had a sparkling sapphire for an eye.

Two silver horseshoes, one pendant from the other and behind which is a nail of polished gold, is a pleasing pattern in scarf pins.

A handsome design in brooches consists of two bent horseshoe nails of silver, inclosing a crystal covered horse, in enamel, standing before a peacock gate.

Lacework brooches, showing various patterns in different colored enamels on the gold, and set with pearls, diamonds, sapphires or rubies, are much in favor.

An oval brooch of white enameled lacework, having in the center a pattern of diamonds and small, pear shaped carbuncles, is a pleasing and popular design.

A miniature tailcoat, the gas bag of which is represented by a pear shaped pearl, from which the four of gold hang suspended by tiny golden cords, is an attractive scarf pin.
