ELEGANT SUMMARY

Lost in the Storm. BEATRICE, Neb., June 3.—When last night's storm came up, the wife of A. F. Bickett, who lives on a farm south of Odell, in this county, fearing that the creek would rise on which they lived and carry the house away, started for a neighbor's with her five children, one a crippled little girl. In the dark they lost their way, and fell into a gully which was running full of water. The mother and three children were rescued by neighbors, who heard their cries, but the crippled girl and a boy five years old were drowned. The bodies were found this morning. Black and his Pension. General Black, now commissioner of the pension bureau, is said to be a candidate for nomination for vice-president at the democratic convention, and a "boom" of some sort has been set on foot for this purpose, either by himself or some of his friends. We think the public is entitled to ask for more moderation at Gen. Black's hands in matters of this sort. It is not very long since a bill was pushed through congress giving him a pension of $100 a month—the highest ever bestowed on any body—on the express ground that he was a complete "physical wreck, incapable of any effort, helpless in both arms," and that "it was only a question of how long he would live." After he got the pension, however, his condition did not prevent his seeking and obtaining and administering, with much politics, the office of commissioner of pensions, which he now holds. No man drawing a pension of $1200 a year as a "physical wreck" ought to hold any salaried public office. If Gen. Black is well enough to hold the office, he ought not to draw the pension; if he is ill enough to draw the pension, he ought not to hold the office. We trust that he is not now going to cap the climax of his absurdity by asking for the vice-presidency of the United States. The president ought in some way to discourage Gen. Black. He is evidently too little of a wreck either for his own good or that of the public.—New York Evening Times. Weary and Worn. When the tired factory operator, the weary out-door laborer, the overtasked bookkeeper or clerk seeks a modicum of repose for expenditure of bodily force, where shall he find it? Could the recorded experience of thousands of workers be voiced, the verdict would be that Hostetter's Bitters renews falling strength, stimulates the jaded mental powers to fresh activity, and relaxes undue nervous tension as nothing else does. Digestion, a regular habit of body, appetite and sleep are promoted by it, and it is an admirable auxiliary in the recovery of health by convalescents. A fastidious stomach is not offended by it, and to persons of both sexes in delicate health who occasionally feel the need of an efficient tonic, the whole range of the pharmacopoeia and the catalogue of proprietary medicines does not present a more useful, safer or more decisive one. It is also incomparable for fever and ague, rheumatism and kidney troubles. Nipped in the Bud. Is it not better to nip consumption, the greatest scourge of humanity, in the bud, than to try to stay its progress on the brink of the grave? A few doses of California's most useful production SANTA ABIE, the king of Consumption, will relieve, and a thorough treatment will cure. Nasal Catarrh, too often the forerunner of consumption, can be cured by CALIFORNIA CAT-R-CURE. These remedies are sold and fully warranted by D. W. Matthews & Co., 106 State street, Salem.

THE FUNERAL MONTH OF MARCH.

An observant metropolitan barber says that he can tell one's physical condition by the state of the hair! The Bible tells us that with his hair gone Samson lost his strength. The Romans considered baldness a serious affliction and Julius Caesar was never quite satisfied with himself because his poll was bare. The face, however, is the open book and one can readily trace in its various expressions, lines, changes and complexion the state of the system. The eye that is unusually bright and yet has a pallid brightness, the face upon whose cheeks nature paints a rose of singular beauty and flush, more marked in contrast with the alabaster appearance of the forehead and nose and lower part of the face, is one of those whom the skilled physician will tell you will some day dread the funeral month of March, because it is then that consumption reaps its richest harvest. Consumption they tell us is caused by this, that and the other thing, by microbes in the air, by micro-organisms in the blood, by deficient nutrition, by a thousand and one things, but whatever the cause, decay begins with a cough and the remedy that will effectually stop the cause of that cough cures the disease of the lungs. That is all there is of it. The cough is an evidence of a wasting. To stop it effectually, a remedy must be used that will search out the cause, remove that and then heal the lung and do away with the cough. This is the power, special to itself, possessed alone by Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy. It is not a mere cold-dryer. It is a system-searcher and up-builer and a consumption expellant. Where others fail, it wins, because it gets at the constitutional cause and removes it from the system. J. W. Henshaw, of Greensboro, Pa., on Jan. 15, 1888, reported that "he had derived more real benefit for the length of time, from Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy than he had for years from the best State physicians."

To stop it effectually, a remedy must be used that will search out the cause, remove that and then heal the lung and do away with the cough. This is the power, special to itself, possessed alone by Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy. It is not a mere cold-dryer. It is a system-searcher and up-builer and a consumption expellant. Where others fail, it wins, because it gets at the constitutional cause and removes it from the system. J. W. Henshaw, of Greensboro, Pa., on Jan. 15, 1888, reported that "he had derived more real benefit for the length of time, from Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy than he had for years from the best State physicians."
