PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Robert Garrett is on his way to Russia. Paul de Chaffin has settled for good in England. Robert Louis Stevenson was paid $8,000 for his last novel.

Senator Stanford affects the low cut vest of olden times. Gladstone is said to have got £250 for a magazine article.

The Duke of Marlborough is again in pecuniary difficulties. Speaker Carlisle has just paid $24,000 for a house in Washington.

Minister Phelps will not return to England until the middle of June. Tennyson is again at work, and, it is stated, at a poem of some length.

Governor Rusk, of Wisconsin, stands six feet three in his stockings. Postmaster General Dickinson is extremely fond of the game of tennis.

"Ferdinand the Silken" is the nickname at Vienna for the prince of Bulgaria. Ferdinand de Lesseps, the great engineer, is extremely fond of taking cold baths.

Mr. Halfour, the Irish secretary, used to be nicknamed "Clara" at school and college. Governor Hill's first business venture was selling apples on a train, at the early age of 14.

President Ingalls uses a sand glass to time speakers when the senate enforces the five minute rule. Frank Saltus, brother of Edgar Saltus, the novelist, has command of twenty-one different languages.

The sultan went into mourning for Emperor William, although it is contrary to Turkish custom. The papal jubilee has turned out to have been very expensive. It cost the Vatican about $1,000,000.

Louis Kosuth, the Hungarian patriot, now in his 86th year, is very feeble, and his end is fast approaching. Confucius is visiting England. He is a Chinaman and claims to be a direct descendant in the seventy-second generation of the famous Confucius who gave China a religion.

Karl Formes, the famous basso, who has lived in America for the past thirty years, has been engaged to sing at the approaching London season of Italian opera. He is 73 years of age. Justus Lamar and Harlan are the only members of the United States supreme court who do not own houses in Washington. Mrs. Lamar, however, is wealthy, and intends to buy or build a house at the capital.

Dr. Carlo Gardini, husband of Mme. Gerster, the opera singer, has received the order of the Crown of Italy from King Umberto in recognition of the value of the doctor's work on the United States—two large volumes. California papers are holding Isiah Matthews up as a simple case. Ten years ago he found a $2 bill on the streets of San Francisco and restored it to its owner. Today he is worth $80,000 and runs the biggest faro bank in Montreal.

Senator Isaac G. Harris, of Tennessee, was first sent to congress in 1830. There is not a man in either house whose congressional career dates back so far as his. He has served two terms in the senate and is ready to run for another. Mr. Isaac Pitman, the "father of shorthand writing," is now 70 years old. He is almost an ascetic, using no wine, beer, spirits, tobacco or animal food of any kind. In religion he is an earnest Swedenborgian. He is an early riser and a hard worker. Now that Gen. Boulenger has been turned out of the army, he is entitled to a pension of 10,000 francs a year and 2,000 francs additional as a grand officer of the legion of honor. His parliamentary salary will be 9,000 francs, leaving him 21,000 francs in all.

A Very Serious Subject.

For my part I never see an ugly man or woman that I do not immediately decide that either his or her ancestors were either sinners or bigots, because deformity and disease follow sin to the third and fourth generations, as surely as destruction follows fire. It is a delicate subject, but one well worthy of consideration, that farmers and stock breeders take the trouble to study and understand all of the laws of breeding, rearing and training to produce perfect animals, while the glory and dignity of perfection in human offspring are overlooked. From the conventional point of view it is bad form to give thought to developing a perfect human animal, but from a sensible standpoint it must be admitted that there is danger that the spread of disease and sin will so weaken the human hold on life as to threaten the perpetuity of the race. Indeed, I know an eminent scholar who believes that it is only a question of time when this planet will become depopulated, not from chemical inadaptability to sustain life, but from the physical inability of the human family to go on reproducing; and one inclined to ridicule the theory has only to remember that where formerly ten children were welcomed as a good family, five are now considered a large family, and many mothers consider themselves sufficiently blessed when two children are born to them, while still others cannot, or will not, have children at all, and this change is taking place among the higher, more cultured and intellectual races; large families remaining the rule with the poorer and peasant classes only, and be it confessed with sorrow and regret that these latter are those best adapted physically to the important functions of paternity and maternity, when instead the relation of physical development to mental endowments should be so exquisite that men and women of beauty and brains should be the parents of gods.—Annie Jenness Miller in New York Mail and Express.

Girl's Physical Health.

Massage, the Turkish bath (used judiciously), plenty of walking and riding and towel rubbing, will make most any girl a handsome, sprightly, wholesome, radiant picture of health. Powder and paint for young faces are not in fashion, since a much better complexional effect can be produced by a daily tepid bath, followed by a cold water douche or plunge and vigorous rubbing. A girl who is too lazy to walk, too lazy to properly groom herself, is the girl who acquires the sluggish skin, the listless eye, the listless, nervous manner. Who are the popular girls, the most admired and the most attractive? Those who are in the best physical health, whose step is elastic, whose cheeks are blooming, who are alive with energy and who never whine over affected headaches or other imagined ills. The girl who "enjoys poor health" is beginning to find out that she will have to go it clean.—Detroit Free Press.
