

LATE CITY NEWS FOUND

By the Reporters on Their Round of the Town.

A Cat Tale—Minor Mention—County and State News.

A Change. Band of Hope meets Monday at 4 o'clock in the W. C. T. U. rooms instead of Saturday as formerly.

A Rightful Recognition. The following from a more or less esteemed morning cotemporary is gratifying indeed:

"We are glad to note the prosperity of the highly esteemed CAPITAL JOURNAL under its new management and editorial control. It is pushing rapidly ahead and contains much good news served in excellent style.

The New Steamer.

The steamer Caracas, formerly of the Red line, has become the Yaquina Bay. She has undergone thorough repairs, and as she is to round Cape Horn, she has been strengthened and braced up every way.

Two Old Veterans.

This morning it was our pleasure to be entertained for a few moments by two old veterans of 1840—Adam Stephens and G. B. Wagon, who voted for Old Tippe in 1840.

Settled Now and Happy.

A few days ago the writer, in coming into Portland from eastern Washington, got into conversation with a man from Minnesota who had his ticket through to San Francisco.

LIKES OREGON BETTER.

Our townsman, D. D. Prettyman is up in Eastern Washington Territory and from a recent letter the following points are taken:

"We made a run through the Puyallup Valley; the great hop fields here are simply immense and were the wonder and admiration of all on board. But we missed one thing in our travels, and that was a look at a fine orchard—a thing seldom ever seen in this part of Washington Territory.

Commissioners' Court.

The commissioners to-day granted dramshop license for period of one year to J. W. and J. R. Worden of Lincoln precinct; also to A. Geer of Butteville precinct.

Miss Ida Esson of Gervais was granted scholarship in State University at Eugene City.

Aside from this nothing has been done save the auditing of accounts, etc. Court will continue in session to-morrow.

Wanted at Salem.

- A tannery. A paper mill. A bag factory. A woolen mill. A soap factory. A rope factory. A chair factory. A wagon factory. A furniture factory. A beet sugar factory. A pall and tub factory. An earthenware establishment.

For the River Traffic.

The Lucrea Mason has been leased by the owners of the Latona and will be put at once on the Oregon City and Portland route.

The Oregon Pacific people have not yet decided when to begin running their boats, but probably will start the Three Sisters next week.

Of the Oregon Pacific boats, the Wm. M. Hoag and N. S. Bently have been repaired at Corvallis, and are in readiness for the fall trade.

The Three Sisters looks jaunily in a fresh coat of paint, and the addition of twenty feet, which has been given her, adds much to her appearance.

She has been launched and registers the extremely low draft of thirteen inches.

Points in Fruit Drying.

H. S. Jory of this city, who has had extensive experience in hauling fruit, tells the Pacific Express that fruit—and especially prunes and plums—in order to dry well must be picked ripe and put into the dryer at once before any wilting takes place.

We had the pleasure lately of looking through Mr. Jory's drying establishment, and while we were examining the fruit he showed us a specimen of prune dried when ripe and fresh, and another of the same variety that had been picked before thoroughly ripe and allowed to lie in boxes a day or two before being put into the dryer, and the latter seemed at least twenty-five per cent inferior.

There is a right and a wrong time for everything, and this appears to be emphatically true in the matter of drying fruit.

A Passion For Cats.

The story comes to us from Silverton. It is well vouched, else the circumstance would not be mentioned. It is said in that fair city there lives a prominent but eccentric man who has an antipathy to cats. He has a loving wife and a sweet little daughter. The little girl dearly loves a cunning kitten, but the pleasure of owning one has always been denied her.

Mars is Covered With Ice.

A celebrated French scientist thinks there is a vast development of glaciation, and immense mass of ice on the surface of Mars, where, as the seasons are relatively longer and the temperature much lower, the conditions must also be more favorable for these manifestations than they are on our own planet.

"Wood-Blooms."

John Vance Cheney has a new volume in press that bears the attractive title of "Wood-Blooms." The chief features of Mr. Cheney's verse are its simplicity and its suggestiveness, reminding one more of the best work of Aldrich than of any other American poet.

MY CASTLE IN THE AIR.

Or in the east or in the west, Where shall I build my bird's nest? Or north or southward—whither roam To build my little love a home?

Up yonder, in the clear sweet air— I think that I could keep her there; Too much an angel to be ground, For heaven, somewhat too—warm and round.

MY CHILDREN.

My precious buds of flesh and blood, That cling about my knee, I dread the passing thoughts that dwell Upon the years to be.

They say, more kind the early night Than are the ripening suns; They say, to blossom is to fade, My sweet unfolding ones.

"Only the children's hidden hearts Go down, unhurt, to rest"; I tremble at the voice, and fold You closer to my breast.

IN TWILIGHT LAND.

A mouth like hers you cannot doubt, That love himself designed; The lips away a little only, From pushing sweet, behind.

The quiet moon rules yonder blue, Lave lights her bluer eye; Which heaven, which choice betwixt the two? For me—the nearer sky.

The face Hope sees leamed from above— That is her kind of face; Movement to music born of love— That may suggest her grace.

Soft up and down the twilight lawn, From all the world apart, Although I hold her little hand— I lead her by the heart.

An Old Superstition.

The belief that warts in aybe charmed away or removed by various superstitious practices has a certain attraction for many people of a non-scientific turn of mind, to whom it may be a pleasure to know that so eminent a man as Lord Bacon was not without a little weakness in this direction.

After telling in one of his works that he had a wart on one of his fingers from early childhood, and that when a youth in Paris at least a hundred grew upon his hands in a month's time, he adds:

"The English ambassador's lady, who was far from superstitious, told me she would get away with my warts; and, in order to do it, she rubbed them all over with the fat side of a piece of bacon with the rind on—and, among the rest, the wart I had from my childhood—then nailed the bacon, with the fat toward the sun, upon a post of her chamber window, which was to the south; and in five weeks' time the warts went away, and the wart I had so long endured for company. At the rest I did not wonder, because, as they came in a short time, they might go away so too; but the vanishing of that which had remained so long, sticks with me."
