ORDER AND LAW TRIUMPHANT.

A sermon to a congregation of 60,000,000 of people was preached last Sunday at two widely distant points of the country. It taught the nation that law must be respected at whatever cost, and that this land of well regulated freedom is no place for force.

At Chicago the anarchists were given fair notice not to defy the law. Good citizens, and all who were not anxious to risk their lives foolishly, were warned to keep away from the Haymarket. The police were there, armed from top to toe, and after this open and repeated warning they were thoroughly, prepared to open fire on any gathering that showed itself determined to attack the peace and good order of the commonwealth.

As a result the anarchists roared as gently as sucking doves. On the same day, at Birmingham, Ala., a mob attempted to forestall the law by lynching an odious criminal, and was fled on at the probable cost of a dozen lives, this lesson had been taught in Chicago, and did not need to be taught again. It will probably not have to be repeated at Birmingham.

Yes, force is wrong and barbaric. This is a free land, ruled by a lawfully expressed majority of people, who, in general, mean to do justice and right, and peaceful agitation will accomplish every reform really needed. Force must go. It has no place in this country.

HIGH LICENSE.

The liquor question is now being agitated in New York. The following from the Press indicates how the matter stands there:

As to high license, there is practical unanimity among republicans as to the need of some further restriction of the liquor traffic, and every evidence of sincerity in the demand for a measure that can become a law and be enforced without reasonable excuse for resistance. There is equally significant and unanimous democratic opposition, that party is not quite ready to admit that it belongs to political blackmailers, bootleggers, strikers, and others who want public office to be a rich man's trust, but it would seem to make no bones of its championship of the rum power and its willingness to have it corrupt the morals and control the politics of the whole State.

There is a decided leaning among the republicans to a high license bill on the just and successful Pennsylvania plan. Pennsylvania has four grades of retail licenses, based on population, and they have worked well, cutting down saloons most where they were thickest—in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh—reducing the total number in the State one half, doubling the revenue received, and giving half of it to the State and half to the cities and counties. This law has also greatly reduced arrests and commitments.

THE Chilean Government has contracted with the North and South American Railroad and Bridge Company of New York to build six railroads on estimates agreed on.

CHIEF, the big elephant connected with Robinson's Circus, is to be killed by electricity, as he has become so vicious. He has recently killed two men.

It is said the democrats of New Jersey intend repealing the High License Local Option law.

AN OPEN QUESTION.

CLERK CLARK of the House has received the certificates of but 121 members elect of the fifty-first Congress, but he attaches no significance to the delay, as it is yet early to receive certificates. He has learned how the election has gone in all but two districts in West Virginia and one in Tennessee, and says the Republicans may claim a majority of five, but if the certificates in disputed districts are given to Democrats they will have a majority of one. General Goff still asserts that the Republicans will have two Congressmen from West Virginia, but if all are Democrats the Republicans will still have a majority of one if a certificate is issued to a Republican from the disputed Tennessee district. If a Democrat receives it they will have a majority, prima facie, and demand the right to organize the House. No certificate has yet been issued from the Cherokee district, but Judge Hand says the Supreme Court will certainly give it to the Republicans. There is a chance between the Governor and Secretary of State as to the issuance of the certificate, the latter insisting that it be given to the Democrats, yet, by his own fingers, in a pamphlet printed by him, he admits Evans, Republican, had 228 majority in the district.

MILLIONAIRE HERMIT.

E. H. SCHERMERHORN of New York is one of the richest of the many millionaires who have mansions there. He is a recluse, and all through disappointment in love. It is said that Mr. Schermerhorn is safe for at least $20,000,000. He never reads an American newspaper; English papers are good enough for him. He has not been outside of his house for years. Every window has its storm sash, and every crack is stuffed up to keep fresh air out. He does everything by the clock. He is called at 6:30 every morning, and from that time until 9 p. m. he moves by the clock. He begins to dress at a certain time; he shaves precisely at 7:30; he breakfasts at 8; he writes at 9; he reads at 10; he walks around the house corridor at 11, receives his man at 12, and so on during the day. He does certain things at the half hours. He has become a perfect machine. The lady with whom he was in love is a widow.

THE summit of Mount Tacoma, in Washington Territory, was recently reached by a party of explorers who found themselves at the highest elevation, 14,444 feet above the sea level. The craters differ considerably in appearance from their aspect in the years of 1870 and 1883. There is less eruptive heat and a larger accumulation of snow, though the lower steps of the mountain are now much bare than then.

SPOOKS AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL. Mrs. Shea, living on Delaware avenue, has been haunted of late by curious manifestations which no one has been able to explain yet. Her house is constantly bombarded by stones, sometimes a score or more falling on the roof at the same time. The more the police investigate the matter the more they are mystified.

C. C. BLAKE of Kansas predicts that the next year will produce the greatest extremes of weather which have been known in America for more than sixty years. It is claimed by Mr. Blake that he has predicted every drouth and wet season, and every ordinary or cold winter which has occurred in the past fourteen years.

FRANK H. BATES of Chicago, a trusted clerk of "Old Hutch," has disappeared with $20,000 of his employer's money. John Lanagan, "Hutch's" settling clerk, has also disappeared.

PROFESSOR WIGGINS, who is exulting over the verification of his earthquake prediction, now prophesies an earthquake for the Southern States, to occur within a few days.

THE ground on which Philadelphia is built is one of the richest gold fields in the world. This is a fact. The only difficulty is that the field cannot be worked.

THE Department of State has been informed by the United States Consul at Martinique that yellow fever has appeared in an epidemic form on that island.

THERE is trouble between the railroads centering at Chicago and the live stock industries over a new system of weighing stock.

The Mistakes of Young Men.

It is not infrequently that a young man of respectable parentage, who has been well educated, has had good home counsel given him by a careful father and mother, and good example set him by a fond brother, has shaken off all restraints and sought the society of the drinking class and freely indulged with that class and become their boon companion, till all conscience has lost its power to work in him a reform. He loses his sensitiveness of honor, by his disposition to inebriety, reckless bad faith in his every day dealings with his fellows. He does not make the effort to extricate himself from the meshes of his growing infamy. The strong appeals from either father or mother, nearly heart broken, seem to make no more than a temporary impression upon his darkening intellect and understanding, till finally hope departs from the bosom of father, mother and kind friends, who would gladly make any sacrifice to restore him to the pale of honesty, and the full confidence of his fellows. But he will not be advised to do right by others or change to do his own, but seem surely to tread the downward road to ruin, as the sun goes steadily down in the western horizon leaving the darkness of the tomb to close the scene upon mourning kindred and friends, where might have been happy hearts and honor and plenty, and the highest respects and human consideration. We advise all young men to beware of this downward road. It leads out by many narrow by paths, at first, but becomes much broader as you travel it, and soon slipping, and seldom slips backwards to the place of safety. Beware! Beware! The eye of the whole community is on your watch, not to injure you but to help you save your self.

Where is My Girl To-Night?

There are quite as many girls lost and wandering as boys; as many girl children who answered once to the name of daughter, with golden locks, violet eyes and lips which mock the cherry's scarlet, and cheeks where the rose plays hide and seek as the color softly comes and goes. Ah, these beautiful girls—these fatherless, motherless, sisterless, outcast and homeless girls. Suppose we write a song, or transpose the song "Where is My Wandering Boy, etc.," and write instead:

Where is my wandering girl to-night? My heart o'erflows, And I love her she knows, Oh! where is my girl to-night?

Who cares for these girls? Is there any voice or song calling them back to love and home? Are there any open doorways to honor, to forgiveness and reform open for them? Call them back as much as you please as "Magdalenes," and leave no open door of hope, of respectability, or love and life; and they will not come at your most persuasive bidding.

You call your sons back to all things good and high—to useful lives and society's arms, no matter to what depths of infamy they have fallen—your girls you brand for like sins to hopeless despair through this life, and to eternal damnation in the other.

Where do you get such one-sided idea of punishment and religion? Not through the teachings of Christ nor any other humanitarian. Out with such a Christianity, we have no more use for it. Give us equal rights to life and all its benefits, man and woman; equal rights to sin if sin is a necessity to man, and equal rights to repent and be received into society's dear arms once more with men, and upon the same basis of justice and mercy accorded to men.

Keeping Quality of Apples.

It is said by those who have observed that there is a difference in the keeping qualities of apples in different years that nobody has been able to account for. Occasionally a year occurs, to all outward appearances not exceptionally different from others, when windfalls will keep better than choice picked apples in former ones. Such a difference cannot be laid to the handling of the fruit, but must be owing to atmospheric influences.

Apples will endure without injury a lower temperature than will potatoes, and the cooler they are kept without freezing the better. Dry, cool cellars, are generally preferred by farmers as a store place for apples, but of late some growers claim that this fruit keeps better in moist than in dry places, always providing said place is cool.

When kept in cellars, good ventilation is necessary in all cases. When barreled in an orchard and not shipped away at once, the apples are better to be put in tiers under the tree than to be put in buildings. Some persons leave the barrels on ground in the shade and uncovered, claiming that they keep cooler on ground than when piled up. Apples raised on rich alluvial lands will prove poor keepers. For the best keeping the orchard should be high or hilly lands and not too rich.

The postoffice department it soon to have a new style of postal card. It is very much like the double card of the present pattern. The back folds are split diagonally and open out like a four-pointed star. The four corners are folded and joined together in the center, when the card is all ready for mailing, with a piece of gummed paper. The card weighs less than an ounce and will contain no more writing than the present card, the only advantage being greater privacy.

Digest and be Jolly.

Did ever anyone see a jolly dyspeptic? We trow not. What natural cheerfulness is proof against the almost ceaseless annoyance of chronic indigestion? People whose stomachs are constantly disturbed exhibit the utmost peevishness and nervous irritability. Happily for them—since the irritable and nervous prematurely fret themselves into the grave—tranquility of the stomach and renewed good temper await them in a sure quarter, if they will but seek it. The genial stomachic, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, breeds cheerfulness by insuring its essential pre-condition—easy digestion. Billiousness, too, and constipation, malevolent companions of the banishes, dyspepsia, vanish after a brief but steady course of the alternative. Many a temper naturally sweet, but continually soured by the combined attack of the trio of liver, passes the boundary of moroseness. Prevent this possibility with the Bitters. Malaria fever, rheumatism, kidney complaints and debility are truly relieved by this standard medicine.

Christmas will soon be here and still there is no snow on the hills, but abundant of grass.
