Complete Recital of the Daily Doings Compiled From Various Sources.

Happenings Over the City and News From the Country Roundabout.

The Woolen Mill Proposition.

At the council chamber last night there was an enthusiastic meeting of the citizens and the report of the water power committee was heard. There were no additional proposals to dispose of sites and the purchase of the Gray power for $16,000 was discussed thoroughly.

The committee was enlarged by the addition of Squire Farrar, H. W. Cottle and Hendrix, with instructions to inquire farther into the desirability of the several sites and to gain definite propositions from all, as well as one from Thomas Kay, late of the Brownsville woolen mills, who it is expected will build the mill.

It was the sense of the meeting that these performances be executed with the greatest possible speed. The meeting adjourned to meet at call of the chairman, immediately after the holidays if favorable option can be secured on the purchase of the building sites.

Beet Sugar Possibilities.

Claus Spreckles came to take a look at the site selected for the proposed beet sugar factory in Salinas. A committee representing the Salinas Board of Trade, and Mayor Hill, representing the city, met Mr. Spreckles at the depot with a carriage and accompanied him to the proposed site which embraces twenty acres of land bordering on the north side of the southern Pacific track, a short distance west of the Salinas flour mill. Mr. Spreckles expressed himself well pleased with the spot selected and assured the committee that he would build a factory here in time to commence crushing beets by July 1, 1890. In the meantime he says that he will buy all the beets that our farmers will raise and deliver at the Watsonville factory.—Salinas Weekly.

She Wrote to Santa Claus.

Among other letters deposited at the postoffice for mailing last night, was one bearing the address of "Santa Claus, care of Ben Taylor." It was a neat affair, and carried the burden of a little one's wish in these words:

"Santa Claus, please send us some mittens and something nice for Laura, Myrtle and me."

There was no signature to the epistle, but perhaps the authorship can be traced by the names. Her request is an easy one and no doubt Santa Claus will hear the prayer of this little worshipper at his shrine.

Moody at Albany.

Evangelist Moody announces that he will address the students of the state convention of the college branch of the Y. M. C. A. which will assemble at Albany, Jan. 2nd. The Herald expects a hundred or more visiting students from Portland, Salem, Eugene, Corvallis, and other places will be present.

A Busted Company.

At Eugene Thursday as there was only $11 in the house, the Libian Drew Dramatic Co. gave it up and disbanded. The members of the orchestra are stranded there. The others got away.

The Machinery is All Here.

After so long a time the complete machinery for the Salem steam laundry has arrived. It is now being placed in position and the laundry will be prepared to commence work by Wednesday of next week.

Their Great Success.

Wherever the celebrated Drs. Darrin go they perform such wonderful and so many cures that the people upon whom the results are wrought are only too glad to put their names in print and let the world know that others may receive like cures. Under date of Dec. 21st, D. B. Baldwin of Buena Vista says:

"I wish to relate my case to the public, that others may be benefited as I have been. Ever since I was 18 years old, I have been deaf. It was caused by whooping cough. I am now 55 years old. I had also a ringing in my head and ears, so bad that, at times, I could not rest at nights. In this condition I came to Drs. Darrin, now stopping at Salem, Or., and consulted them. They said they thought they could cure me. I have taken five days treatment, and the ringing in my ears was virtually cured by the first treatment, and my hearing is now restored. I can be seen and referred to at my home at Buena Vista, Or."

PREPARING FOR MOODY.

He Will Positively Visit Salem on January Third.

Extensive preparations are now under headway for the revival meetings in this city. They will begin on Thursday of next week and will be conducted by Messrs. Studd and Burke, revivalists of great ability.

Mr. Moody will leave Portland on January first, going to Astoria, where he will devote a day to the sailors. He will arrive in this city on the third of January, according to present schedule, and will be here for at least three or four days. His promise is for this many, but the executive committee have hopes of prevailing upon him to extend his visit a few days longer.

The M. E. church is being made in readiness for his reception and the accommodation of the multitudes that are expected to come to hear him. Wednesday night rehearsal of songs will be conducted at the M. E. church. The book used is the regular No. 5 and the following have been selected: 5, 21, 23, 32, 38, 40, 42, 43, 49, 57, 61, 64, 65, 66, 69.

THE MILLERS' TRUST.

Is There a Trust?—Conflicting Opinions—Yes And No.

To illustrate that there are different opinions as regards the existence of a trust among the millers of Oregon, the following are submitted. The former is from the millers, via the Portland News, while the latter are among several resolutions passed by Marion County Pomona Grange during a meeting at Woodburn on the 13th inst.

THE MILLERS SAY NO.

"We printed the other day an extract from a farmer's letter to the Salem CAPITAL JOURNAL in relation to an alleged Millers' Trust in this State. Since then we have received the assurance of a large stockholder in flouring mills in the neighborhood of Salem, that there is no foundation for the statement that there is in Oregon any 'Trust' among mill owners. On the contrary he assures us that the millers are at all times in active competition with each other for sales of their products. And that furthermore, instead of making money last year on flour all the merchant mills lost money; and that with the present downward tendency of prices the prospects are good for them to lose more money this year."

THE GRANGERS SAY YES.

WHEREAS, There exists in Oregon a combination composed of the millers of Oregon, through whose control flour has been advanced in price not less than one dollar per barrel more than is reasonable. Therefore, Resolved, That the attention of the next legislature be directed to the matter of extending the law regulating tolls to exchange wheat for flour.

Dedicatory Services.

The A. O. U. W. held their dedicatory services in their new hall last evening. Prof. S. A. Starr was master of ceremonies. Hon. Wm. Armstrong delivered the address of welcome. A variety program of music, declamations and recitations was then had and a half-hour spent in general hand-shaking and introductions, after which the folding doors were thrown open and all were invited to partake of the splendid repast provided by the ladies—wives, daughters and friends of the order. After this an hour or more was spent in conversation and a general good time was had by all present. This office acknowledges the receipt of one of the twelve baskets full that were gathered up, and must add that the contents were good enough for any king. The order has demonstrated many times in the past by timely relief given the needy and especially the widows and orphans, that it is a success and now since they have secured such magnificent and capacious quarters the order ought to double its present membership inside of the next quarter.

Salem Illustrated.

An artist of the West Shore Magazine has spent several days in Salem making a number of sketches for the January number of that magazine. This number will be chiefly devoted to engravings of the capital city, and will be accompanied by a large supplement showing the state capitol in the center, surrounded by portraits of members of the legislature. The whole will be executed in the artistic manner which has given the West Shore its great reputation.

FIRST DEATH FROM SMALLPOX.

Sorry Situation of the LaChappels—Salem's Quarantine Raised.

Judge Shaw last night received information from N. S. Todd of Woodburn that one of the LaChappel children had died yesterday afternoon of smallpox. He further related that Amadi LaChappel, the head of the family and the first one to be attacked, was lying at the point of death. The several members of the family are all down with it and are in very serious conditions. It is expected death will result in one if not several instances.

The family, being so long sick and under quarantine, are in really distressing circumstances and the county is a second time appealed to for aid. The one nurse furnished is nearly worn out and a new one is a necessity. This wants will be looked after by the authorities and they will not be allowed to suffer for nursing and the necessities of life.

This morning quarantine which has for so many weeks rested upon North Salem was raised, the Schawb family having all recovered. The fear of an epidemic here has fled, and with the complete recovery of the five persons who were afflicted the affairs of life and business are entered upon with their usual wont.

Lumber and Fuel.

In the settlement of many of the western states the settlers were of ten many miles from any lumber supply and fuel had to be hauled a great distance, consuming a great amount of valuable time. Here we have timber on every section and there is scarcely a township without its saw-mill, giving us an abundant supply of building material at low figures. Material for making brick is to be found in every locality; limestone from which a most excellent quality of lime is made very abundant. Comfortable houses can be built at a small cost compared to that of many localities.

An editor is human. He is reliable to grammatical blunders, toothache, typographical errors and loss of memory, and usually has twenty-five thousand people watching to catch him napping. He is a man of sorrow and acquainted with grief, the landlord, the fellow who cashes sight draft for the city bank, the tax collector, the intelligent compositor and proverbs. His children sport in "rags" while the man who deals out the "ardent" next door dresses his kids in giddy height of the latest cuts from Paris. He walks home with a piece of liver or a 10-cent cut from the stem end of a ham for his breakfast, while the Dago who sells peanuts from a goods box in the streets can feast on wines and savory meats; and yet the woods are full of people desirous to become editors.—Ex.

The officers of the Oregon Pacific railroad are promising to give the bunch grassers of Crook county, railroad connection with the outside world within the next twelve months.

From Waterloo, Iowa, two men have been taken to the insane hospital at Mount Pleasant recently who went insane over the election. One wagered $1000 on Harrison several weeks before the election. After he had made the bet the possibility of losing it preyed upon his mind until his wife became tired and tried to get the man with whom he bet to withdraw it. She only succeeded in getting one $100 bet withdrawn. Her husband won $900, but before the election came he had lost his mind and has since become insane. The other man took part in the campaign extensively and became mentally unbalanced soon after the result was known.
