

CAPITAL CITY NEWS.

Recital of the Daily Doings Compiled From Various Sources.

Happenings Over the City and News From the Country.

Col. Lee Removed.

The telegraph to-day announces that W. H. Beadle of Yankton, Dakota, has been appointed superintendent of the Chemawa Indian school, vice Col. John Lee, removed. The simple announcement will be a surprise to a few, while to many it is but the long looked for result of the investigation conducted during the fall and winter by Gen. Gordon. The Chemawa Indian school is an institution of no mean proportions or importance and should have for a superintendent one who is a leader and of executive ability. Mr. Beadle's appointment is on the last days of the waning administration. It may be that he will not retain the honors for long.

We Have No Band.

No matter what her reputation may have been in the past, it is a shame that Salem now has no brass band. We have good talent, fine instruments and uniforms, but are without a band. This is not as it should be and it is hoped those who are interested in the matter will move in the direction of effecting a re-organization of this kind and we trust to see a good band here before many days.

A Mean Thief.

Everybody terms a mean thief the person who steals a newspaper from its owner's door. John Veatch says this class of petty thieves is giving him lots of trouble. They have selected several boxes from which they abstract the CAPITAL JOURNAL every evening. Justice will be meted out to them if discovered in the act. The subscriber to a paper wants it and the law protects carriers.

Lots of County Seat Talk.

There is no news at Dallas, and all on account of everything else "giving way" to the battle for retaining the seat of justice of Polk county. Dallas people are ready to fight at the drop of the hat when anyone presumes to say the court house should be re-located. They have the center of the county in their favor.

They Come Both Ways.

Fully one-third of the new-comers arriving in Salem are from the South. They come from the Eastern States to California and in the natural course of events they drift northward to where rolls the Oregon. A great many people are arriving in Salem every week and many of them find homes here.

A Probable Line.

An extension of the street car line that is being talked of and will no doubt be made next season or sooner, is that to South Salem. The property owners are interested largely and will no doubt give a good bonus. The line to the south would be a great feature for that popular suburb.

A Temperance Conclave.

The State Temperance Alliance will meet in Albany next week, beginning on February 20th. Each church, Sunday School and Temperance organization within the state, is entitled to one delegate for the society, and one additional delegate for each fifty members or major portion of fifty.

Completing the Curves.

Workmen are to-day engaged in placing the north Commercial street switch on the street railway. This will enable the cars to run north on Commercial street as was originally intended. The road is receiving a liberal patronage and the company feel highly encouraged at the outlook.

Sold at a Good Figure.

Moore & Manning yesterday sold the four and three fourth acre Burnett tract on Asylum Avenue to Thomas Holman. The consideration was $2800. Property in the vicinity of the capital city is steadily appreciating in valuation as prices paid of late indicate.

The Wheat Market.

In Salem buyers are paying sixty-seven cents per bushel for wheat. The market is picking up in the cities and it is not improbable that a rise will be experienced here before many days. At the present prices not many sales are being made.

The Fish Ladder.

This matter is of interest to all who live above the falls. It is truly wonderful to think how matters of such importance are neglected in this region. The following from the Portland Welcome is timely, and the Albany Democrat seconds the motion: A few years since the Oregon legislature appropriated $10,000 to construct a fish-ladder at the Oregon City falls, and placed the sum by law in the hands of the then governor for disbursement for that purpose. The money came to his hands, and there never has been such fish-ladder constructed, other than a pretended attempt by a contractor for $1350, and lasted only a few weeks as a show, which we are informed has not been settled for within $300. Those interested in the culture of salmon in these waters, especially of the upper Willamette, should agitate the present legislature to investigate this omission and demand an account of this fish-ladder fund.

Salem Ice Works.

Mr. Bushnell, the man who heads the movement looking to the establishment of an ice manufactory in Salem, telegraphs that it is his intention to have the buildings erected, machinery here and everything ready to begin the manufacture of ice by the first of April. Salem will be the disporting point for a large scope of country and much ice will be required. The plant will have a capacity of seven tons per day. It is proposed to have in connection a cold storage and refrigerating cars. These cars will run on the line of the O. & C., and will supply all intermediate towns with ice. The plant will cost $50,000.

The Latest Rumor.

Who has not heard that there would be built a branch line of railway from Stayton to Turner (for connection with Salem and the world) has not heard the latest rumor. A gentleman from Stayton tells the CAPITAL JOURNAL that the survey will be made in the early spring and that the construction of the line will follow almost at once. What there is in the rumor we are unable to learn. But it is probable that such a line will be built before many years. It would open up a vast fertile country. The distance is short and the cost of construction would be small in comparison with the benefit that would accrue.

A Fire at St. Louis.

Yesterday morning the house of V. A. Manning near St. Louis was completely destroyed by the flames. Nothing was saved. Mr. Manning was not at home and his wife at the time the fire was started was at the stable milking the cow, having left the children in the house. By some means they set fire to some clothing and began to scream. The fire spread rapidly they escaped with nothing but their lives. The loss will reach nearly $1500.

Woolen Mill Subsidy.

The soliciting committee continued their labors yesterday afternoon and a part of this morning. They are meeting with quite good success and think they will be able to raise the required amount. This afternoon they are not soliciting. When their work is resumed the CAPITAL JOURNAL will report their doings. Over one-third of the amount needed has been subscribed already.

To-Morrow Night.

Without attempting particularization, it may be said in brief, that Mr. Helme's playing is highly artistic and brilliant, and his skill certainly miraculous. He was deservedly applauded to the echo, and was recalled.—Boston Paper.

One More Prisoner.

From Umatilla county last night came George H. Kelley, sentenced to three and one-half years to the penitentiary convicted of seduction. This makes 384 convicts in the penitentiary.

The Revival Conventions.

Burke and Studd will hold services again this evening at the Presbyterian church. Last night's services were full of interest and the attendance was large. Much good will result from these meetings.

A Crazy Sociable.

The ladies of the Woman's Relief Corps will give a Crazy sociable at the G. A. R. hall Monday evening, Feb. 18th. All are invited to come and have a good time. Admission twenty-five cents.

A Marriage at Scio.

Yesterday afternoon at Scio occurred the marriage of Wm. H. Bagley of Salem and Miss Edith P. Reynolds of Scio. Rev. B. F. Moody of Scio performed the ceremony.

SUPREME COURT.

He has the largest stock ever brought to the state and will sell at prices as low as the lowest. For honest work give him a call. 2nd w

A Tricky Fish.

"See here," said a lady to a vendor of the factual fluid, "I believe you are in the habit of watering your milk. Now, sir, I want you to understand that unless you bring me good, wholesome milk I shall be forced to dispense with you entirely."

"My dear madam," expostulated the man, "the milk is as pure and as fresh as the morning dew. I am aware that other dealers are addicted to the vile habit of putting water in their cans on their way to town, but I never do. To show you how pure my article is, allow me to fill your vessel," and the milkman began to pour the contents of the large can into the lady's pail, when to their mutual surprise out jumped a live fish about two inches long. Hastily climbing into his wagon, the man drove away as rapidly as only a milkman can. The above is absolutely true and actually occurred in this city.—Portland Telegram.

—Rev. M. J. Savage of Boston, says Dr. Abbot of the church of England, who on account of his great learning was selected to write the critical article for the Encyclopedia Britannica on the composition of the Gospels, is out with "Husk and Kernel," in which he strips off as husk the bible story of the creation, the garden of Eden, the fall of man, the trinity, the miracles and a place of eternal punishment. This subject will be reviewed by Mr. Rork in the opera house on Feb. 24, at 7. p. m.

Look Out For Him.

There is headed this way, from California, one of the most bare-faced swindlers of the age. He has in his overcoat pocket a few bunches of lampwicks, colored a light bluish tint, which he claims possess a chemical property that when placed in a coal oil lamp will cause a brilliant light and keep the oil from consuming. He claims that with one of the wicks placed in the lamp the oil will not burn out for six months. He is a smooth oily tongued talker and succeeds in disposing of a large number of the wicks at twenty-five cents apiece. He "could sell no more than six in one house," according to instructions from the company manufacturing the wick-ed swindle. At night, after the lamps are lighted, the anxious housewife watches in vain for the oil not to disappear in the lamp as of yore, but it is no use, it burns out just as fast as ever and no better light is given.

A Seasonable Hint.
