

CAPITAL CITY NEWS.

Recital of the Daily Doings Compiled From Various Sources.

Happenings Over the City and News From the Country.

A Cowardly Act.

A CAPITAL JOURNAL reporter, while looking for news, was told the following fact, which is true, and reliable. The whole occurrence is cowardly and far below the dignity of a gentleman.

Last evening, as people were going home from church, our informant says, he passed two little boys, and two little girls, the oldest being over ten years of age, standing on the walk just south of Postmaster Dearborn's house. One of the little girls was crying, and on being asked what the trouble was, the little one said that "the man just ahead yonder, had just grabbed our umbrella and broken it and thrown it over in the field." We are informed that the statement of the little ones is true. Such being the case it is hard for a persons to deal justice to a culprit, that would molest little children after dark, when there was no one to protect them.

Sales of City Property.

Several good sales in city real estate have been consummated and it is thought they will result in the construction of several new bricks before the season is well commenced. One is the purchase by J. I. Thompson and W. F. Boothby of the Stewart brick, next to the new building going up on Commercial. Another is that by A. Bush of the property occupied by Miss Sperry's gallery and the meat market.

Two New Firms.

Yesterday evening the real estate firm of Moores & Manning dissolved partnership. Each member of the firm will, however, continue in the same business. Mr. Moores will remain at the old stand, while Mr. Manning has secured a suite of rooms in the new bank block up stairs, where he may be found. Success is sure to attend each of these active gentlemen.

No License Worse Than One.

It is a fact that since Silverton refused to renew the license for their saloon more drinkable are sold than formerly. Now it sells by the quart and everybody who wants a drink must take a quart. Beer goes out by the load and the proprietors have hard work keeping enough of the ardent on hand to supply the demand.

Two New School Districts.

Prof. Yoder has formed two new school districts in Marion county. They are known as Nos. 112 and 113 and are located respectively in the Darby and Layman neighborhoods near Muelkeny. It is expected to organize the districts at once and build school houses as soon as possible.

Loose Once Again.

The grand jury failed to return a true bill against Al and Willis Jordan, the two young rascals, and the boys in consequence are once more turned loose. It will be surprising if they are not in jail again in a few months for some offence. They are tough citizens.

A Race War.

A Chinaman and a colored man, both employed at the Chenekete, had a fist-cuff this morning. His Celestialship hurled a pigeon English epithet at the colored man, who responded by knocking his opium smoking friend down with a water picher.

A Rare Treat.

Grand concert and literary entertainment at the opera house Wednesday evening. This is given by the young people, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. church. First-class in every respect. Reserved seats fifty cents, at Patton's book store.

Can you imagine any ailment that will make a good natured person so peevish, dissatisfied, ill tempered and cranky as biliousness? There is no reason, whatever, why anyone should suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia, torpid liver and loss of appetite, when Dr. Hensley's Dandelion Tonic, which everyone knows is a certain cure, can be so easily obtained. Sold by D. W. Mathews & Co.

Business Property.

Near depot on Commercial street, forty feet front and only $3000; and whole blocks in West Salem, one hundred dollars.

THOMAS & PAYNE.

The Crazy Sociable.

Last night the ladies of the Relief Corps gave what was very appropriately termed a crazy sociable. The program as enacted was full of interest, following which the assemblage listened to a few volunteer stories of the fight. Mr. Bell of Dallas made a few remarks, taking for his subject matrimony and climate and reaching the climax with the statement that Oregon was the true garden spot. Mr. Kimball of Douglas county though not a public speaker, as he declared, made a neat speech of several minutes, during which he recounted some bloody scenes of the cruel war. D. C. Sherman said he couldn't make an address, much as he would like to, but he was loud in calling for the commander of the Lakeview Post, W. T. Boyd. Mr. Boyd gave an interesting talk and drew great attention in the narration of a war romance in which he was one of the actors. While lying, half-starved and half-naked with 3000 other prisoners, in prison at Columbia on rations of sorghum, one day they received a quantity of wearing apparel from the sanitary commission. It fell to his good fortune to receive among the others. In the toe of one of the stockings received by Mr. Boyd was a note which told the recipient that those socks had been knit by the hands of a Northern girl whose heart was loyal to the Union. She hoped they might keep his feet warm and that the words might cheer his depressed heart. "Addie," Washington county, N. Y., was the signature to the little scrap. Mr. Boyd treasured the message and wore it next his heart for years and years. Finally, after many years, when grim visaged war was over, he happened, impelled perhaps by the romance of the affair, to find himself at Salem, Washington county, N. Y. To make the story short, at a dance there he was introduced to a Miss Addie Green, and in conversation learned that she had written the note. The romance here ends, much to the disappointment of all, for it was expected "Addie" would turn out to be Mrs. Boyd.

NAMING JOHN DAY RIVER.

Narration of a Pioneer Incident and Fact of History.

John Day, one of the finest streams of Eastern Oregon, rises in the Blue Mountains and running west and south, empties into the Columbia river some forty miles above The Dalles. John Day was so named after an old trapper, a native of Kentucky, who died at Astoria about a century ago. Mr. Day was an employe of Mr. Crook of the Northwestern Fur Company and who, in company with employe had crossed the plains along with the first voyagers. Day becoming sick on Snake river about Fort Hall, Mr. Crook refused to leave him and remained by his side some twenty days before he was able to travel. During that time their companions had made such headway that it was impossible to overtake them. They followed on but snows overtook them and their exposure was terrible. They finally reached Walla Walla. The Indians there treated them very kindly and assisted them on the way. At the mouth of the John Day river they were overpowered by a band of Indians, robbed, stripped and turned loose to starve. Not even permitted to retain their flint and steel, the mountaineers match, with which they might make a fire to keep warm during the chilly March nights. In this pitiful plight they attempted to get back to the friendly Walla Wallians and had made about eighty miles along the river, when fortunately they met Mr. Stewart and followers in canoes on their way to Astoria. They took the unfortunate men in, clothed, fed, and carried them down the river.

In June 1812, Robert Stewart was selected to carry dispatches from Fort Astoria to New York, across the continent. This was a dangerous enterprise and he selected four trusty and well-tryed men as companions in the voyage. They were Ben Jones, John Day, A. Vallar and F. LeClerc. The company left Astoria on the 29th of June and on the morning of July 2, John Day began to show some strange freaks and in a few days became so crazy that he several times attempted his own life. When they had proceeded as far inland as the stream that now bears his name it became evident to his companions that he would be no better and that thus burdened it would be impossible for them to proceed. They therefore contracted with some friendly Indians to convey him back to the fort. His frank, brave and loyal qualities had made him a universal favorite and it was with the utmost concern and tears of regret that his comrades saw the poor fellow tied in the canoe and carried away. The Indians performed their task faithfully and turned him over to his friends at Astoria. But his mind was completely shattered and his constitution broken and he soon after died, and was laid to rest where the Columbia and Pacific join in singing his eternal requiem.

NO LONGER ANY DOUBT.

Woolen Mills For Salem Are an Assurance.

Slowly but no less surely the woolen mill subsidy is growing. Yesterday morning the bonus had reached the sum of $14,193 and the voluntary contributions of yesterday amounted to $415. The new additions to the list are: Geo. H. Turner, $300; D. W. Matthews, $25; R. D. Holman, $25; F. P. Tower, $25; C. N. Churchhill, $20; S. E. Howard, $10; J. H. McCormick, $10. This completed the list for yesterday and the total amount this morning was $14,608. This leaves but $5,392 still to be raised. The committee are sure to succeed in making the subsidy reach $20,000 within a very few days. There is now no longer any doubt but that woolen mills will be established in Salem very soon.

The soliciting committee to-day are working separately, and are meeting with the same good fortune

If your face is marked with blotches, and eruptions mar the skin, you may bet your bottom dollar there is something wrong within. 'Tis the blood. To purify it there is nothing half so good, as the G. M. D. is—try it! To be clearly understood I will explain that G. M. D. means "Golden Medical Discovery" (Dr. Pierce's) the popular remedy for debility, lung-troubles and weak, impoverished blood, which, like scrofula, shows its presence in the system in blotches and eruptions, and pimples. Perfection is attained in Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

An eminent physician says: A healthy liver secretes from two to three pounds of bile every twenty-four hours and disposes of this secretion where it will do the most good. Now if the liver is out of order, the whole system is in trouble, the spirits are depressed, the mind is not clear, and a person whose liver is not performing its duty is very soon suited for regular business. Dr. Hensley's Dandelion Tonic rouses the torpid liver and enables it to perform its proper functions, thereby regulating the whole system. Sold by D. W. Mathews & Co.
