LATEST BY TELEGRAPH.

Important Events of the Whole World for Twenty-four Hours.

A Coal Handlers' Strike. CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 15.-The coal handlers, who last year were paid fourteen cents per ton, demanded sixteen this year, while the employers reduced the price to twelve. They struck, and this morning with sticks and stones drove the new men from all docks, causing a complete suspension of business.

On to Oklahoma. KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 15.-A special from Wellington, Kansas, says "Pawnee Bill" was in that city to-day, completing preparations for the invasion of Oklahoma on April 22d. His colony numbers several thousand, and will start from Miller's ranch, just south of the state line, on Thursday morning, and will locate at once and file afterwards. Soldiers have been withdrawn from the state line, and posted around Oklahoma. Constant streams of wagons pass through here.

Tea Cigarettes. SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.-A London special to a local paper says: "The ingenuity of the women of London and Paris in inventing new dissipations is without limit. To the morphine habit the devotees of sensationalism have now added the practice of smoking tea cigarettes. Special grades of the finest tea are used, and the effect of the cigarette is said to be delightful for fully an hour after one has been smoked. After that comes the reaction in the form of a nervous trembling and excitability which is best endured, according to a woman of title, who rather goes in for all these things, by drinking a thimbleful of frozen absinthe.

A Cowboy Bank Robber. CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 15.-This afternoon a young fellow riding a spirited horse stopped opposite the Commercial bank, dismounted and entered, throwing the reins over a hitching post. He walked directly to the window of the cashier. The fellow was as polite as a drummer. He smiled as his shooter mammoth machine swept the inclosure inside the desks and rested on a level with the cashier's eyes. "He inquired," says the cashier, "If I would be kind enough to hand him about all of the cash on hand, I counted him out five hundred dollars in gold and bills. This seemed satisfactory, and my visitor was profuse in his thanks. Seeing a Winchester rifle near the vault, he demanded the weapon, which he placed against the outside wall, placed the revolver in his holster, landed in his saddle by a leap from the ground, and, putting spurs to his horse, was off."

Thinning Out White Caps. EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 15.-The White Caps, untroubled by recent prosecutions, and rather emboldened by the release and acquittal of a number of the band, have commenced fresh depredations in Warrick and Dubois counties. John Ainsford is a Road Supervisor in Madison township, Dubois county, and one of his duties is to impound stray hogs. He received a notice from the White Caps in the regulation style to the effect that some of the hogs he had impounded were the property of poor people, unable to pay the fines, and if the hogs were not promptly released he would be visited and compelled to surrender them. On Thursday morning at 1 o'clock Ainsford was awakened by a body of twenty masked men, who demanded the hogs.

He refused to give them up, and the men proceeded to go through his premises. He warned them to dismount, and when they disregarded him he opened fire with a double barreled shotgun, wounding two at the first shot. The White Caps immediately returned the fire through the windows of the house, wounding a young son of Ainsford. The old man took down a brace of seven-shooters after discharging his gun and continued to pour lead into the ranks of his assailants. The latter, after discharging their weapons, retreated, bearing three of their wounded comrades out of the yard.

No News From Sea. NEW YORK, April 15.-Still there is no news of the missing passengers and crew of the Thingvalla line steamer Denmark, though several steamers arrived to-day.

Negro Immigrants. COCKTON, April 15.-Two coaches of the overland train which passed here this evening were filled with negro immigrants from North and South Carolina, en route to Northern California.

A Big Syndicate. WASHINGTON, April 15.-It is stated here that John Swinford, ex-governor of Alaska, is organizing a syndicate of moneyed men to contest the Alaska commercial company's claim to a renewal of the lease of the fur fisheries in Alaska.

Torn in a Sawmill. McMinnville, April 15.-Ivan Powell, a young man working at Jones's mill, was killed at that place to-day. While standing over the saws, oiling them, his coat was caught, and he was thrown from his position on the circular saws, which had just started and were running at the rate of about sixty revolutions. His arm struck the saw first; then he fell on his neck, severing the jugular vein and cutting deep into his neck. He died twenty minutes later.

Oakland's Bad Water. THE JOURNAL'S correspondent at Oakland, Cal., has this to say about Oakland's poor supply of poorer water: "Last any one will think my remark about the water used by the public here to be unjust I enclose this clipping from the Times of Oakland, from a report of the proceedings of the local board of health: 'Dr. Pardee said [that thousands of strangers were driven away from Oakland by the horrible water, and many filled drunkards' graves rather than be poisoned by our water. He believed in showing up the water company. West Martin said that one of the water company had seen him and said that the company felt a change of heart and was willing to give the public a change of water. He said the board had better wait, but Dr. Crowley assured Mr. Martin that this was only a favorite lie resorted to by the water company, which professed a desire to be honest every time of a new political deal. He had been led to that way and nothing ever came of it. He got three big bottles full of water out there at the works, and many of the specimens of animal life therein were larger than the microscope and too large for the microscopists to view at all. The water committee was ordered to dig up the water question and give the company the benefit of a thorough expose.'"

It may be practicable to supply this people with other water, but I doubt it unless the companies go back to the highest ranges of mountains. Bad as it is, the supply is often insufficient. Big sheds are built to catch the rain and run it into the pond or slough whence comes the main supply. It must soon happen that there will come a water famine. The San Francisco water is no better to the taste and I doubt if it be any better in reality. And as the country around the sources of these supplies increases in population one must shudder at the possibilities of filth and poison drained into the ponds that furnish the drink."

The Present Status of the Bustle. It may not be a matter of much moment, but it is a fact that while Mrs. Harrison herself wears a generous-sized bustle, Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Russell Harrison are following the tide of fashion and wear little if any. Mrs. Blaine still clings to the loved possession of the same kind, while Miss Blaine, whose street dresses are stamped with all the quiet elegance of Continental good style, is not hampered by either a bustle or reeds in her dress.

Two or three weeks ago C. S. Winsor secured a salmon egg from the hatchery and placed it in a teacup of water in the store. He soon forgot it, and it remained unnoticed for over a week, when he happened to think of it, and on examination found that instead of the egg he had a fine plump young salmon. The little fellow is quite gay and frisky, and is growing so fast a good-sized bowl will soon be required to hold it. -Gold Beach Gazette.
