The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, overcomes That Tired Feeling, creates an Appetite, strengthens the Nerves, builds up the Whole System.

LATEST BY TELEGRAPH

SWEPT BY A FLOOD.
Johnstown, Pa., Destroyed and Hundreds of Lives Lost.
DERRY, Pa., May 31.—A flood of death swept down the Allegheny mountains this afternoon. To-day and to-night almost the entire city of Johnstown is swimming about in a rushing, angry tide, dead bodies are floating about in every direction, and almost every piece of doomed timber is carrying from the doomed city helpless humanity, drifting with the raging waters, God knows where. The disaster overtook Johnstown about six o'clock this evening.

PITTSBURG, May 31.—The flood at Johnstown has resulted in an awful catastrophe.

It is said that the reservoir above the town broke about 5 o'clock this evening, and an immense volume of water rushed down to the city, carrying with it death and destruction. Houses and their occupants were swept away and many people drowned.

There is no communication with Johnstown, but the telegraph operators in the Pennsylvania railroad tower, twelve miles this side of Johnstown, say that at least seventy-five bodies have floated past. The wires are all down, and no trains are running east of Blairsville, which is about twenty-five miles west of Johnstown. There is no way to go to the scene of the disaster, and full particulars can hardly be obtained to-night, although every effort is being made to do so.

NEW FLORENCE, June 1.—After a long, weary ride of eight or nine miles over the worst of country roads, the associated press correspondent arrived in New Florence, six miles nearer Johnstown, and along the scene of the awful disaster.

The details at this hour are rather limited. Everybody seems to be dazed, the calamity seeming to overwhelm the natives. The road between this place and Bolivar is washed out in many places. Track men and wrecking crews are working with all their might on the most dangerous portions of the road.

The reports at this point substantiate wilder reports than have yet gone out. The last man from Johnstown brings information that scarcely a house remains in the city. The upper portion above the railroad bridge has been completely submerged, the water dammed up against the viaduct by the wreckage and debris finishing the work that the torrent had failed to accomplish.

After night settled down upon the mountains the horror of the scene was enhanced. Above the roar of the water could be heard piteous appeals from the unfortunates as they were carried by. To add also to the terror, a brilliant illumination lit up the sky. The location can be plainly seen from this place.

A message received from Sang Hollow, a few moments ago, states that the light comes from a hundred burning houses that are piled up on Johnstown bridge.

A supervisor from up the road brings the information that the wreckage at Johnstown is piled up forty feet above the bridge.

The startling news also comes in that more than 1000 lives have been lost. This cannot be substantiated. It is known by actual count that 110 people were seen floating past Sang Hollow before dark. Forty-seven were counted passing New Florence, and the number had diminished to eight at Bolivar. This will give an idea of the terrible fatality. Darkness coming on stopped further count, and it was only by the agonizing cries that rang out above the roar of the waters that it was known that human beings were being carried to death.

The scenes along the river are wild in the extreme. Although at this hour the water is gradually subsiding, still as it dashes against the wreckage that fills the narrow channel of the Conemaugh its spray is carried high up on the shore. As pieces of houses and wrecks strike the rocks, it carries with it vividly the idea that another unfortunate has met his fate.

An Atlantic Tornado.

MARTINSBURG, Va., May 31.—A tornado struck a section of this country about ten miles east of here this afternoon, and after demolishing a vast amount of property passed down the Potomac river, uprooting trees, overturning staves and playing havoc generally with small buildings near the banks of the stream. The storm traveled over an area of ten miles and then passed out to sea. Very few trees were left standing on the banks. Those that were left were twisted out of shape.

Albany Points.
ALBANY, June 1.—The contract for the construction of two cars for the Albany street railway line has been let to A. J. Anslyn & Co., of this city. The cars will be 18 feet long outside and 12 feet in the clear, being large enough to be propelled by motor power if desired. The contract price for the cars is $950 for each.

The first 700 feet of the street railway has been accepted by the company and that portion of the road paid for.

Dead and Drunk.
NEW YORK, May 31.—One of the most revolting cases that ever came to the notice of the police is that of Bridget Hanrahan, who was found dead in her bed in a tenement house at 319 East Sixty-sixth street this afternoon. She had apparently been dead a week or ten days, while her son John, a young man eighteen years old, had occupied the same room with the corpse in a drunken condition ever since his mother's death.

Hits the Nail Squarely.
This "don't publish it" business is getting to be something of a chestnut. A man will give you an item of considerable import perhaps, with request that you don't publish it, another wants you not to publish the real estate transfers, because someone might get onto his scheme. Don't publish this, and don't publish that, is ding-donged in our ears twenty times a day. News belongs to the public, and it is entitled to have it and shall have what the editors deem proper to publish, regardless of the "don't publish" crowd.—Astoria Transcript.

The brother is striking a popular chord and the next fellow whose team runs away while he is out riding with his girl must take the consequences or show reason why the court house should not fall upon him.

Speaking of Bustles.
Not long since the friends of a popular matron decided to give her a surprise party. Her husband was let into the secret in order that madam might be gotten out of the way while her friends took possession of the house.

"My dear," said hubby on the evening in question after supper, "let's take a little walk."

"No, I can't," said madam, thinking at once of her personal appearance. "I haven't my bustle on. Never mind," she added, on second thought, "I'll just put it on over my dress and under my cloak, and no one will know the difference."

So they started on their walk. When the proper time had elapsed Mr. Husband led the way home. On arriving Mrs. Wife was bemingly surprised, and her thoughts immediately flew to the enjoyment of her guests. Apologizing for her absence, she threw off her cloak, and there was her bustle. Of course everybody saw it and laughed, and the mean things never told her what they laughed at! When all had gone, and the wife and other half of the firm had gone to their room, she congratulated herself on the merry time everyone had had.

"Wasn't it nice?" she exclaimed. "They all enjoyed themselves so much!" And then she saw the bustle!

163½ acres, 7 miles southwest of Salem, near Prospect Hill, all fenced and crops fenced. 145 in cultivation, 16 seeded to grass, balance timber, plenty good spring water, good 9-room house all finished near a seven hundred dollar school-house, fair barn and other out buildings. Good grain, grass and fruit lands, slightly and healthy location, good neighborhood and good road to Salem. Can be divided into smaller fruit farms with pure spring water on each. Don't monkey with the real estate agent's buzz-saw, but come right to the farm (it will cost you nothing to stay all night), see my neighbors, get the unfaded facts and save fees. Price $30 per acre. Terms reasonable. For particulars see Charlie Robertson, Orange store, Salem. JOHN P. R. HERRON, 5-25-11
