DETECTIVES AS SPOTTERS.

The New York Times has the following: "Leaders of trades unions and Knights of labor have come across a secret circular sent by Pinkerton's national detective association to corporations and individuals employing large bodies of working men, which they regard as of the greatest importance to their interests."

THE STATE GRANGE OF ILLINOIS.

Through its executive committee, offers $10,000 to be paid to any one who will invent a machine or device to attach to reapers that will bind wheat and oats with straw. Said device may work and twist its straw direct from the reaper, or it may be a separate machine that will twist the straw and wind on large spools that may be reeled on smaller spools by the farmer and set in place in the reaper when wanted.

GENERAL MEADE, the architect of the pension building, has addressed a letter to the commissioner of pensions, suggesting that the flags borne in battle by the soldiers of the United States, and those captured by them in war, be hung around the walls of the pension office building.

He says, also, that the intent of all the acts of congress regarding the captured flags is that they shall be displayed from some public place. The commissioner has replied to General Meade that he will readily assist in the project, if the pension building be made water proof. The roof of the building leaks badly in several places.

The Astorian, expresses the belief "that a subscription paper for stock in the South Coast railroad circulated in Salem, Albany and McMinnville would meet with satisfactory response. Their interest and our interests are identical. They need railroad outlet to the sea, and will, doubtless co-operate in any practical means toward such desirable end."

There is good sleighing yet in some districts in Manitoba, but the papers announce that July will probably break the backbone of winter and pull the vegetation out of the earth by the hair of the head.

An effort is to be made in Iowa to strip the law of its nonsense. Lawyers declare that deeds, warrants and all other legal papers can be cut down one-half in the amount of wherewages and wherewares.

A Cincinnati divine told his congregation the other Sunday that there were men within sound of his voice who rented houses to gamblers and bad women—who did not pay their debts—who were liars and cheats. He will, of course receive a call to go elsewhere. He is too blunt for that city.

John's Mother.

There was a timid knock at the country printing office, or rather at the room which I dubbed the "sanctum" of the Weekly Palladium, over whose destinies I presided. After the usual "come in," there entered a faded and bent old lady, whose dress immediately proclaimed her as a resident of the far back townships. She had a frightened, and bewildered look, and her bombazine dress was dusty and wrinkled with the long ride she had taken over the Kansas prairie in her trip to the county seat.

I regretted having called out so roughly and apologized. She did not notice my apology, but asked in a trembling voice: "Is this the printin' office?"

"Yes, ma'am," I replied; what can I do for you?"

"I saw ye didn't have nothin' about John in the paper."

"I didn't know John from Adam and was about to tell her so, but was glad a moment after that I did not."

"I told the undertaker" she went on, "to see that the paper knew about it; but I s'pose he didn't."

"No, he never told me, I am sure."

"Ye see, we live out in Cheever Township, an' ye prob'ly didn't hear of John's dyin'." I looked for it in the paper, but didn't see nothing.

"I'm sorry but if you will give me the facts, I'll see that it goes in next week," was the only reply that I could make.

"John was an awful good boy," she began. "He was good to me an' that's what counts. When we came out west we had kinder poor luck. My husband died an' the other boys left me an' with debts on the claim an' no money ahead, I don't know what I'd a done 'cept for John. He worked night an' day, plowin' an' sowin'. He never had a harsh word for his mother—never."

She stopped a moment to wipe her eyes and I found it convenient to look in another direction.

She continued: "He was 25 years old but he looked ten more—he worked too hard. I guess it killed him, but I didn't know he was everidin'." He never complained. He wasn't sick long—just a few days. I done all I could. I'd have given my life for John, if the Lord'd heve it that way. You don't know how lonesome the claim is now. Jest me alone in that sod cabin; I can't die, and it's only sorrow to live. I had John buried on the prairie so I could go to him. I'll go to him for good pretty soon, I hope."

She sobbed a little and then recovered sufficient to give me the full name and age of the dead youth, after which, her errand accomplished, she left me to ride home across the sun-beaten prairie to the lonely cabin set among the billows of green, far from the rush of the world's highways.

If I did not give John a suitable death notice the next week; if I did not feelingly portray the unselfish heroism of the boy whose word was his mother and whose ambition was to aid her in her necessities, it was not because I did not try earnestly and faithfully. I hope I succeeded in bringing a little comfort to the heart of John's mother, who may yet be waiting to join the noble son buried beneath the carpet of sod stretching away from her door.

Didn't Know Him.

The local staff of the Chicago Tribune is having great deal of fun on the quiet over a break recently made by a young reporter who doesn't know the ropes very well.

The other evening the young man was assigned to report a reception among the upper ten. Inasmuch as it was a very exclusive affair, the reporter knew that the names of those in attendance were especially desired, and he went to work to gather them in. He was doing first rate when he ran against a fine gray-whiskered old gentleman, who happened at the moment when the reporter tackled him to be in the center of a group of ladies and gentlemen in a corner of one of the parlors. The young man had jotted down the names of the others, and asked the gray-haired old gentleman very politely:

"Will you kindly give me your name, sir? I'm making a list of the guests."

"Eh?" said the old gentleman, putting his hand to his ear.

"I would like your name, if you please?" repeated the reporter.

"Eh? What?" And the old man inclined his ear attentively.

The young man thought: "Well, here's a nice old guy to be turned loose in decent society. I wonder why he doesn't carry an ear trumpet?" but he only gathered a tangle of wind and said in a voice that startled the dancers:

"I'm a reporter, and would like your name."

"Oh, reporter, eh? What paper?"

"The Tribune. Will you give me your name?"

The old gentleman stroked his gray whiskers tenderly, looked at the reporter calmly and said quietly: "Joseph Medill."

The reporter concluded his list of names right there and made his escape. I submit that thing of being so exclusive that your own hired men never get a chance to know you, even by sight, is all wrong. It is calculated to discourage sensitive young men that naturally gravitate to the newspaper vineyard and to drive them out of the business.

A Woman's Story.

Ay, 'twas thirty years ago— All the garden was aglow; Ruddy hollyhocks, red roses, Margold and salva postes, Stately sunflowers, humble panicles— "Heartsease as true as little Nan's love," Quoth my lover, speaking low.

In the orchard trilled a robin, Ah! how my heart was throbbing, Those long happy years ago.

Well, the tale's been often told; Two things, pure love and pure gold Do not wane with passing fashion. Life's cold without human passion, Pick me that blue pansy yonder— Thoughts for pensive, say you— fonder Grow our thoughts as we wax old. Happy, as the rough path steepens And our feet lag, true love deepens— Just because the tale's retold.

—Lady Lindsay.

"SCRAPS."

Typewriters were the first women to enter business offices, that is, in any great number, and it may be said to be the beginning of their business career.

A young man just from the east bought a business in Seattle at 2 p. m., Thursday, and paid $2,500 for it. At 2:30 p. m., the fire broke out and swept his and other businesses away.

Perkiomen Junction, Pa., claims to have the youngest telegraph operator in the world. He is a boy of 11 years, who began manipulating the keys when only 3 years old. He is an expert operator.

The Utrubide, in the City of Mexico, is probably the grandest hotel in the world. It was built by the governor for his palace and cost $3,000,000. It contains a room used by Governor Utrubide for a chapel that is frescoed in solid gold.

A Kingston (N. Y.) minister married a couple one night recently, and when signatures were asked to the certificate it was found that neither the bride, groom, best man nor bridesmaid could write their names. They all signed by making marks.

It was a Connecticut boy who surprised his teacher in reading the other day by his interpretation of the sentence "There is a worm; do not tread on him." He read slowly and hesitatingly, "There is a warm doughnut; tread on him."

"Well, well, mused the love-lorn youth, I'm in a fix. If I marry Mabel people will say that I married her for her money; and if I suddenly give her up, from conscientious motives, people will say she jilted me because I am poor. I guess I'll brave opinion and propose to her."

Texas women are working on canvas a huge map of that huge state. The name of each of the 264 counties will be worked "with some beautiful product made in the county." One county—Tom Green—is larger than Massachusetts and Connecticut combined.

Irate father—I suppose you remember you wanted to marry that book-keeper of mine about a year ago?

Daughter—yes, father. "A pretty sort of a man you picked out. He has decamped with my whole fortune."

You remember father that you told him he could not have me until he got rich, don't you?"

"Of course the young"— "I have just received a dispatch from him at Montreal saying he is rich now, but is perfectly willing to marry a poor man's daughter."

"Miss Brown would be a charming girl. I heard a young man say, 'If she had a good complexion and those spots would go away, I'd marry her.' But they spoil her looks completely." If Miss Brown would only take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery what a happy change it would make. It would drive out all the humors from her blood and make it pure. And the blemishes complained of disappear, be very sure.

This medicine is the great purifier of the blood, and discharging eruptions and blotches will soon vanish when it is used.

The immediate symptoms of Dyspepsia, or indigestion, are a distressing sense of weight, oppression and fullness in the stomach, heartburn, loss of appetite, foul breath, belching, flatulency, nausea, pains in the shoulders and breast. Dr. Henley's Dandelion Tonic promotes healthy digestion and removes all unhealthy symptoms. Sold by D. W. Matthews.

There is more research in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven contrary to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only remedy that cures out the system. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollar for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, overcomes That Tired Feeling, creates an Appetite, strengthens the Nerves, builds up the Whole System. Oregon is one of the most productive states in the Union. Its vast mineral regions contain gold, silver, copper, iron, and coal. Its immense tracts of grazing lands support thousands of cattle and sheep, and its extensive agricultural regions produce all the cereals in abundance, the yield per acre being, in some instances, the largest in the world. Among the useful and valuable products of the Web Foot State may be mentioned Oregon Kidney Tea, which has proved a boon to thousands afflicted with pain in the back and kidney difficulties. It is purely of vegetable composition and never fails. Sold by D. W. Matthews.

The Paris Academy of Science is just now excited over a plant called colocasia. This plant often exhibits a trembling or vibrating motion without any apparent cause, and as many as 100 or 120 vibrations have been observed in a single minute.

It should be generally known that Dr. Henley's Dandelion Tonic invigorates a hearty appetite and increased digestion, dispels nervous depression and low spirits, overcomes lack of energy and wakefulness and will infuse new life and strength into the weakest invalid. Sold by D. W. Matthews.

Sister Theysay—I grievously regret that you are to leave our church, dear pastor. Pastor Peaceful—You should not grieve. No doubt the Lord will send you a better servant to fill my place. Sister T—I have no such hope. Of the last thirteen pastors we have had every one has been worse than the other.

A SCRAP OF PAPER SAVES HER LIFE. It was just an ordinary scrap of writing paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. For fuller particulars send stamp to W. H. Cole, Druggist, Fort Smith. Trial bottle of this wonderful discovery free at Dan'l J. Fry's drug store.

Soft white hands and a clear "penchy" complexion can be assuredly preserved by the frequent application of Dutard's Specific. If rubbed into the skin well it leaves no greasy surface. The skin absorbs it. Sold by D. W. Matthews.

Woman's rights is not a mere myth in Eastern Washington. At Palouse City the girls talk of organizing a baseball nine and they intend to challenge the world.

Of Oregon. The line of the Salem Street Railway Company runs through the middle of this addition; and no lots will be more than two blocks distant from the line. Highland Park will in the near future be

THE MOST POPULAR RESORT

ABOUT THE CITY OF SALEM.

Lots in Highland Addition are High and Dry and Well Located; Most Excellent Drainage

The soil is black and rich. From all points a fine view is obtained of the public buildings and our highest mountain peaks. Arrangements are already being made for the location of two churches in this addition, and a number of residences are soon to be built. Buildings only of the best class will be permitted. Residence lots within the limits of the city of Salem are worth on an average over $1000. We can sell you better lots in Highland addition for one-third of the money, and being directly on the line of the street railway they are practically not half so far from the public buildings and the business part of the town as the majority of the so-called "inside lots."

Buy a Lot in Highland Addition for Three Hundred Dollars,

And let some other fellow pay $1000 for an inferior lot not so well located. With the difference of $700 you can build a beautiful cottage, or put it out at a rate of interest that will buy you nearly two thousand street car tickets every year.
