Always in the Lead!! Everybody knows that, without any exception, The Capital Adventure Company have the most complete general stock in Salem and we guarantee to undersell any of our competitors. We have the largest and best assortment of Clothing, Hats, Boots and Shoes for gentlemen, and can please any one either in quality or price. People who have to labor and want the most for their money will find it to their advantage to trade with us. We always give full weight and good measure. We make a specialty of country trade, and farmers will find our prices (quality and weight being taken into consideration) lower than the lowest. We handle country produce and pay the highest CASH price for wool. We have plenty of room for all, and can make everybody feel at home in our store. We offer you no baits, expecting to make it up on something else, but mark our goods at a uniform low price. These are facts in the case, and by calling at the Opera House Corner we will show you goods for prices that will prove all we say to be true. Capital Adventure Company, Salem, Oregon.

They Could Not Hear. A pretty rich story on two prominent Minneapolis gentlemen was related in St. Paul recently. These gentlemen, at the time of the great Hardwood failure, eight years ago, went to New York to settle up some of the accounts of the insolvent concern. Their business completed, they partook of champagne supper, and the sparkling fluid predominated over the delicate viands. Quite mellow, they secured a box in one of the theaters. After the play had progressed some time one nudged the other and quietly asked: "Can you hear anything?" "Not a blamed word," returned the other. "It is funny, but really I believe that wine is ringing in my ears so loud that it drowns their voices." "Come, let's get out of here. I'm afraid we've drunk too much," and they retired as best they could under the circumstances. Next morning one of the gentlemen discovered he had kept his program, and in big letters he read "Humpty Dumpty." They had been trying to hear a pantomime. Another bottle of wine drowned their chagrin. The story is from Life.

LATEST BY TELEGRAPH NEWSY LINES FROM ALBANY. A Big Explosion—A Long Walk—Burned Out—News. ALBANY, June 25.—Yesterday some powder on the floor of Will Bros' gun store on being touched off communicated with some cartridges, loaded with powder, and several hundred shells flew around quite lively for a second or two. Several panes of glass were broken and confusion reigned supreme. Henry Ewert who was standing near was somewhat scorched about his head. Arrangements are being made to establish a Sister's hospital at this city. It is thought the O. P. will donate land adjoining the city. Such an institution would be of great value to Albany. Shortly after midnight Monday M. S. Monteth, Fred W. Ross and Clyde Hill, arrived in this city, after a walk of 70 miles from the hot springs 30 miles above Gatesville on the line of the Oregon Pacific. They had been spending several days in company with Claus Mansfield, who had a cabin and owns a claim up there. On Friday afternoon while they were absent from the cabin it caught fire and burned down, with all the contents, including three or four months' provisions, blankets, guns, etc. Mrs. Hayes Is Dead. FREEMONT, Ohio, June 25.—Mrs. R. B. Hayes died this morning at 6:30 o'clock. She was stricken with paralysis Friday, while in the enjoyment of perfect health, but after lingering in an unconscious state for several days, expired, surrounded by her weeping family and friends. She was married to Mr. Hayes on December 30, 1852, and was the mother of eight children, five of whom survive her. She accompanied her husband down many of the campaigns of the civil war, and was noted for her devotion to the wounded soldiers. Mrs. Hayes was a woman of strong religious convictions, and upheld her principles wherever she went. During President Hayes' term she was very popular by the pleasant manner in which she presided over the affairs of the White House.

Forest Fires in Montana. BOULDER, June 25.—A fierce forest fire is raging in the mountains near the headwaters of the McCarty creek, six miles northeast of Boulder. Much valuable timber has been destroyed, and a large quantity of cord wood is threatened by the flames. The forests are in an extremely dry condition, and without rain, of which there appears no prospect, it is feared the spread of the fire will prove a serious menace to property. Timber fires are raging along the Northern Pacific railway west of Helena, and are becoming disastrous. Yesterday information was received here that the Clark's Fork bridge, near Coeur d'Alene lake, had been partially destroyed by fire. This bridge is over 600 feet long, and about 200 feet has been burned. Seattle's New Streets. SEATTLE, June 25.—After three weeks' discussion, delay and contention, the council settled definitely the replat of the city. The original intention was carried out except in one very important particular and that is the Yelder corner, which stands as a monument of the vacillation of two or three members of the council. It was originally proposed to cut this corner off and run Commercial street straight into Front. When the matter came to a test vote three councilmen weakened and voted nay, defeating the ordinance. A compromise was agreed to. The Oldest Mason Again. Positively the oldest-living Mason has been discovered. He is Robert L. Chester of Tennessee, one of the Cleveland electors in 1884. He was born in Tennessee in July, 1798, and will complete his ninety-sixth year next month. He joined the Masonic order in Tennessee in 1814, when he was twenty-one years of age. He is still an enthusiastic member. Mr. Chester served in the war in 1812. He was a slave-holder, and he and his sons owned 115 negroes. Mr. Chester carried the Presidential vote of Tennessee in 1884 to the President of the Senate at Washington. He is still strong and energetic, though he has the rheumatism now and then. Flax Raising. Much is being said about the profitability of flax raising and the neglect of the farmers of this country of this industry, for which the soil and climate is so well adapted in many sections. Probably the reason our flax culture is so limited is the fact that after you have raised your crop, the soil doing most of the work to that point, human labor for pulling, breaking, bleaching and spinning, is a very important feature. If the flax straw could be seized upon by a big machine and turned into thread or cloth, in an expeditious manner, flax would soon become one of the great staples of the agricultural communities of the United States. But because there is a long and tedious process to be carried on by manual labor, and that labor must be very cheap to compete with the labor of Europe, the cultivation of flax as a fibre has never flourished in this country and possibly never will until in course of time labor is as plentiful and cheap here as in foreign lands. Tricks in All Trades. Talking with an old confectioner the other day, we learned two surprising facts, one of which was that manufacturers during the summer season adulterate their cocoanut cakes with ceresine, which has the advantage of being much cheaper and not subject to turning rancid on account of the heat. The other fact in making candy large quantities of vaseline are used in place of butter. Vaseline is worth from 11c to 19c a pound according to the grade, but has the advantage over butter of not turning rancid, and in use being equal to about twice the quantity of butter. All the same it is a fraud on the public, and our informant says that some very reputable candy manufacturers are concerned in it. The work cut out for our health board seems to be increasing all the time.
