TUES-DAY JULY 9, 189

Salem to Silverton by Motor.

This morning the surveyors of the Marion county improvement company, headed by Alonzo Gesner, began the work of running the preliminary surveys for the projected motor line from Salem to Silverton. Two lines are proposed and the survey will determine which is the more desirable and easier of construction. The projectors of this line are assured of substantial support from the land owners along the route. They are backed by plenty of money and that the road will be built is certain. The country it will penetrate and for which it will be a supply route as well as freight bearer is of the most fertile and is rich in natural resources.

Glanders and Nasal Gleet.

The state domestic animal commission are doing all in their power to stamp out the malady which for the past few months has been doing such great injury to the horses in the state, and which but for the rigid enforcement of strict measures of quarantine, would be epidemic throughout the state. Up to this time County stock inspector Al. Herren has been ordered to kill seven horses in Marion county. After being quarantined they were killed and their bodies burned. Several cases are being guarded and more horses may have to be killed soon.

The Telegraphic Service.

Yesterday evening the JOURNAL furnished its readers the very best telegraphic report of the slingers, mill that could be obtained at so early an hour from any source. It can be depended upon that this paper will never be last in the race for big as well as little news. Bear this in mind and if you want the news of the day served at your homes in concise, crisp and readable form, the same evening, hand in your name. It is far better to have the news the same day than to wait until the following morning. Only 15 cents per week, delivered.

The Water Question.

The question of water service is receiving a general discussion throughout Salem at just this time. Some men of pronounced views advocate the control of the water supply by the city, some advocate the "erection" of numerous cisterns throughout the city, while others are found who think the hydrants are all right if a pressure could be given through them. The discussion is sure to be fruitful of some good, at least. But the fact is apparent that Salem needs better water service for domestic purposes as well as for use in fighting fire.

Two More Hobos.

Frank Wilson and Thomas Foster were arrested this morning by Marshall Ross on a charge of vagrancy. Wilson was given twenty days to work upon the streets and Foster was given fifteen days. Foster agreed to work for his breakfast at the Rocky Mountain restaurant and was given his meal. After eating he split about three sticks of wood and made his departure. The police whistle was blown by Mr. Watkins and Foster's arrest followed.

Diseases of Horses.

J. Macey lost a valuable horse on Sunday morning from blood poison. A disease is among the horses known as the Pink eye and a good many horses are having it. After this is over the horse becomes blind. This is a very bad disease and can be kept down by doctoring the first week. The team belonging to the Capital engine company is afflicted with that disease in a mild manner, but these horses are recovering under the care of Henry Price.

On to the Coast.

Salem is sending her usual quota of pleasure seekers to the coast for a few weeks of summer outing. A majority of them, as is the custom, are going to Yaquina bay and Newport beaches, while a good many are heading for Nestucca. For those who can take a few weeks off, time spent on the coast is a great recreation and recuperation.

Too Bad Anyway.

If Killian could only have killed Sullivan and then himself died, the world would have been so much better off that it could once more be looked upon as a civilized nation and not one of brutes and barbarians.

Electric Alarm and Irrigation.

Of course if everyone having a line of garden hose is going to keep an all night stream playing on their lawns the water company cannot give any pressure. This is a rule of the company which is being generally violated. But this discussion of the fire and water question is certain to result in some good. There is considerable talk of establishing in connection with Salem's splendidly equipped fire department an electrical alarm system. This is something that has long been needed, and when once established the alarms can be promptly answered.

As the firemen will know exactly where the fire is they can work with much better success. By all means, let Salem have such a system.

The Fire and Water Question.

The chief engineer of the Salem fire department, the foremen of the different fire companies and the city council committee on fire and water have been requested to meet with Mayor Williams this evening for the purpose of discussing and adopting some mode of disposing of the fire and water question. That something looking to the betterment of the water service in case of fire is needed is a truth patent to an observer and this conference is expected to result to the mutual advantage of the city's protection and the water company.

There is no Decrease.

Warm weather does not visibly diminish the tide of immigration to Salem and environs. Every day some families or avant couriers of home-seeking colonies arrive in Salem, their object being to find a desirable location, where the rigorous blizzard, nor the deadly cyclone are not known. To be sure, Salem is on a grand move forward and in five years she will be a city of magnificent proportions. She is increasing in population, business and enterprise every month at such a rapid rate that the outcome is but a matter of time.

The County Institute.

The county teachers' institute is now nicely started on its summer session. The attendance is increasing, and aside from those mentioned yesterday, the following are in attendance: Anna M. Jones, J. A. Sellwood, Eva Bruce, Lydia Deniger, Eliza Ahlhauser, L. J. Culver, A. D. Leach, M. E. Malheat, H. H. Riman, J. B. Leatherman, Helena Hibbard, and Percy W. Willis. The daily program consists of regular class recitations which will be followed the latter part of next month by extensive reviews and final examinations.

Estates in Probate.

In matter estate of Lewis Lafore, executor, presents his petition to the court praying an order for sale of personal property of said estate. In matter of the guardianship of Ralph L. Scott, a minor, Mattie E. Scott, guardian, files her bond in sum of $2000 on sale of real property belonging to said estate. In matter of the guardianship of Mary T. Pickens, George Brown, guardian, files bond in sum of $480 which is approved.

The Prisoners All Set.

Much interest was manifested among the prisoners at the penitentiary yesterday over the outcome of the Sullivan-Killian pounding. Every cent that many of the convicts had been many days in saving up from their scanty earnings was bet with some fellow prisoner on the result of the fight.

Looking up Water.

A delegation of Salem men, among whom are officers of the water company, prominent firemen and property owners and press representatives are taking a view of the source of Salem's water supply this afternoon. They will be prepared with a report to submit to the conference with the Mayor this evening.

A Home Minstrel Show.

Salem home minstrelsy talent is preparing a grand entertainment, which will be presented before a Salem audience at an early date. The entertainment will be of the minstrel order, and much time will be given to the preparation of the program.

For Klamath County.

N. B. Knight and son Winter started this morning to the range known as the John F. Miller range in Klamath county. Mr. Miller, who has been there for the past few years, has returned to his home in this city, bringing with him about seventy-five head of horses.

—They are always nice and fresh, pure as the purest, fine as the finest, and good as the best. Their goods are always the best and are sold as cheap as the cheapest. Everything in season and all delivered free. For your groceries go to Squire Farrar & Co.

—Every line in a newspaper costs something. If it is for the benefit of an individual or firm it should be paid for. If a grocer was asked to donate groceries to those able to pay for them he would refuse. The proprietor of a newspaper must pay for the free advertising if the beneficiary does not. And yet it is one of the tardiest things to be learned by many that a newspaper has space in its column to rent, and must have it to live. To give it away or rent for anything less than living rate, would certainly be fatal as for a landlord to supply houses and rent them free.

—At least two prominent republican members of the United States senate will retire at the close of their present terms, Senator Cameron of Pennsylvania and Senator Blair of New Hampshire, both of whom have stated positively that they would not again be candidates.

It has long been known that Senator Cameron remained in the Senate solely in deference to his father's wishes but Senator Blair has never intimated until very recently that he would not remain in the Senate as long as the Republicans of New Hampshire chose to send him.

—The following item will explain the extent of wind storms at Ellensburg last week: "The circus performance at Ellensburg last Monday was conducted in the open air, the high wind prevailing preventing the pitching of tents."

—An important element of the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is the fact that every purchaser receives a fair equivalent for his money. The familiar headline "100 Doses One Dollar," stolen by imitators, is original with and true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla. This can easily be proven by any one who desires to test the matter. For real economy, buy only Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists.

—A GOOD CUP OF COFFEE.

Is a great attraction for a restaurant. The coffee drawn from Heilemann's Patent Coffee receptacle is one of the many Great Attractions of his eating parlor. Thousands of cups of his excellent coffee are sold every week. And as for oysters and meats he cannot be equaled in taste.

—Only Twenty-Five Cents.

Why not combine pleasure with business as A. J. Bassey will carry you in his cab for the above price.

The New Motor Line.

In speaking of the proposed Salem and Silverton motor line, the Oregonian editorially says: "Salem men are developing energy and enterprise and the town is growing as a consequence. Perhaps the most important thing now in view is a scheme of the Marion county improvement company, an organization of well-known men resident there. Their design is to conduct a narrow gauge motor line from Salem to Silverton on which trains will run hourly to carry passengers, with a capacity to transport freight necessary. It is not far from Silverton to good timber in the foot hills and the road would naturally divide at Silverton and a branch go up Silver creek and another up the Abiqua.

"This road will connect Salem with the finest portion of Marion county and a district equal to anything Oregon contains. Even the far-famed Yamhill cannot show any country more pleasing in appearance or more fertile and productive than Howell prairie, through which this road must pass and the Waldo hills that adjoint it. For the whole distance the country is high prairie and no richer soil or more productive region exists. It is well adapted to fruit growing as well as grain farming. Those interested hope to see the road in operation by the first of November, 1889."

An extraordinary fallacy is the dread of night air. What air can we breathe at night but night air? The choice is between pure night air from without and foul air from within.

Most people prefer the latter—an unaccountable choice. What will they say if it is proven to be true that fully one-half of all the diseases we suffer from are occasioned by people sleeping with their windows shut? An open window most nights in the year, can never hurt anyone. In great cities night air is often the best and purest to be had—in twenty-four hours. One could better understand shutting the windows in town during the day than during the night for the sake of the sick.

The absence of smoke, the quiet, all tend to make night the best time for airing the patients. One of our highest medical authorities on consumption and climate has said that the air of London is never so good as after ten o'clock at night. Always air your room, then, from the outside air if possible. Windows are made to open, doors to shut—a truth which seems extremely difficult of apprehension. Every room must be aired from without.

An Indian Turning White.

There was an Indian in town on Wednesday, well known to a number of old residents here, who, until recently, has been a true swash copper-color like unto his brothers and sisters and cousins and aunts, etc.

Recently he has presented a peculiar mottled appearance and now he is getting quite white. J. Buchanan, who has known him for years, says he is a full-blooded Indian and has no trace of white blood in his veins.—Centralia News.
