THURSDAY, AUGUST 29, 1899

THE talk of building a railroad up to Alaska is still being kept up.

FROM present indications Salem's building boom next year will be something surprising. Already those who were unable to build this year are talking and arranging plans for next season's work.

ABOUT three months ago a law went into effect in Minnesota providing for severe punishment for drunkenness, and it is being vigorously enforced. Under this law a man may be arrested for being drunk on his own premises, and the punishment, in case the man is convicted a third time is imprisonment for thirty days.

CAN CAN.

A man near Crab Orchard, Neb., has raised this season on two and a half acres over two thousand bushels of onions. Now let everybody go at raising onions. Every newspaper will publish this and by next year onions will be so plentiful you can't give them away.

YOU may have the stars in a nail keg, hang the ocean on a rail fence to dry, put the sky to sleep in a gourd, unbuckle the belly-band of eternity, and let the sun and moon out, but don't think you can escape the place that lies on the other side of purgatory if you don't pay for your paper.

want of self restraint among those races. The Poles were no better. Whoever was uppermost was absolute. Might makes right among them; the majority is supreme. Whereas, under this self-imposed restraint, the Constitution is above all. Nay, there is a higher law still, the law of individual right. In fact it is the Golden Rule of Jesus Christ, "Do as ye would be done by," that is the very key-stone of this great arch of modern constitutional rule, the highest rule known to mortal man in association with his fellows. We see the utter lack of it in the French legation of today. Just let faction gain a little and whenever one gets the power we must see re-enacted the scenes of the Commune and old French revolution. It was illustrated by Napoleon when he executed the Duc D'Enghien, "They conspire to assassinate me! I will let them know that I will pick out their best men anywhere and slay them. In other words I will do as they do." He illustrated it again in a most dastardly way in his treatment of the noble Toussaint—that glorious negro. The murderers of Dr. Cronin are of that ilk. And just now when one of these suspected murderers was being brought from Winnipeg through Dakota, hundreds of men calling themselves Cronin's friends tried to kill him. The same spirit, you see. Not the spirit that can build and sustain free institutions, but one that overthrows all to raise up despotism.

AN ASTONISHING CHANGE. It is owing to the sympathetic communication of vibrations that persons with a clear and powerful voice have been able to break a large number of glass by singing close to its proper fundamental note. We have heard of a case where a person broke no fewer than twelve large glasses in succession. The sympathy of vibration shows itself remarkably in the case of the going of two clocks fixed to the same shelf or wall. It was known near a century ago that two clocks set going on the same shelf will affect each other. The pendulum of the one will stop that of the other, and the pendulum of the clock which is stopped, after a certain time, will resume its vibrations, and in its turn, stop that of the other clock. These effects are clearly produced by the small vibrations communicated from the one pendulum to the other through the shelf or rail or plank on which they both rest.

TOWER OF LONDON.

Historical Facts That Escape Superficial Observation.

What a Knowing Visitor May See and Learn If He Keeps His Eyes and Ears Open—The White Tower and Its Dungeons—Anne Boleyn's Bones.

To describe the Tower of London in detail is absolutely unnecessary—it is too well known as a whole, but there are interesting little facts not generally realized by the public, and there are nooks usually unvisited. It was my good fortune on a recent day, says a writer in the London Echo, to go fearfully around this grand old pile with a special order from General Milman, the resident Governor. Passing by the Traitors' Gate, I went into the Bloody Tower, in a room in which I found myself standing on the very spot wherein were imprisoned the two little Princes, and from the window of which centuries after Archbishop Laud leaned out to bless Lord Stafford as he passed to death upon the scaffold just beyond. An old, old room, this, full of historic interest, and now inhabited by one of the picturesquely-attired beef-eaters. St. John's Church, one of the oldest Norman churches in the kingdom, built in 1087, is too well known to require description, so I will pass to the armory departments, where I saw Lord Wolsey going round on an evident business inspection.

In passing down a stair-case in this White Tower, which is kept this armory, and in which is placed a stand of fifty thousand modern rifles, I noticed the enormous thickness of the splendid walls, and on inquiring I was informed that they were fifteen feet in depth. Beneath the White Tower are the dungeons, which are never shown to the general public. Here is an eternal twilight, a musty smell, an icy chilliness. The first one, pure Norman in its architecture, is called the Torture chamber, for here were stretched upon the rack the miserable victims of political necessity or religious bigotry. In a very narrow passage leading out of this great chamber, and which is known by the name of Little Ease, because in it a prisoner could neither sit nor lie down, a dusty small, an icy chilliness. The first one, pure Norman in its architecture, is called the Torture chamber, for here were stretched upon the rack the miserable victims of political necessity or religious bigotry.

In this dungeon, or series of dungeons, was recently discovered a very deep well, into which we fearfully peeped. From the dungeon to the church is but a short step; in the old days the journey was usually made from the latter to the former. St. Peter's dates from 1275; it is full of the saddest, tenderest interest; within its gaily walls and beneath its historic pavements there lie the bodies of three of England's Queens. Ruskin finely says of this church that "it is the saddest spot in Christendom, for here are buried in dishonor the greatest in the land, while at Westminster Abbey they are buried in honor," a most touching and suggestive contrast. Most of the beautiful brasses were removed in Cromwell's time.

I was deeply interested to hear that in reaping the chancel in 1877 there was covered the body of Anne Boleyn. She was recognized by the historically tiny neck, and by the fact that the body lay just in the spot described in the burial registry; also were discovered the bones of a big man, which belonged without doubt to the ill-fated Duke of Monmouth. These were reverently reburied in their long, long resting-place. Upon the wall, and preserved within a glass case, I saw the three coffin plates of the nobleman last decapitated upon Tower Hill—Lords Kilmarnock, Lovat and Balmorino. The inscriptions were all in Latin, and that of the Duke of Balmorino's plate ran as follows: "Arthur Dominus de Balmorino, decollatus die Augusti, 1746. Etatis sue 58." The very plain little flat dates back to the reign of Edward III.

Not satisfied with my morning's round I went the next night to have a chat with the deputy-chaplain of the tower, Mr. Foster, who told me many interesting little facts, some of which are mentioned above. To my surprise he informed me that the tower is not supposed to be haunted, nor is there any ghostly tradition hanging round this spot. Just before eleven he and I stepped out into the cool night air. A wild, windy night, clouds chasing each other over the moon, whose misty, watery rays fell upon that ancient Norman keep. Just as my hand, and railed off, was the very spot wherein was lifted so often "the axe's keener edge." It was upon this very spot and from yonder identical window shining white in the moonshine, that Lady Jane Grey, the nine-days' Queen, gazed as her husband slowly passed to his death; for she was imprisoned in the house of Mr. Partridge, the gentleman jailer, who now resides the official who to this day bears the same title.

But the silence, pregnant with such memories, is suddenly broken by the clash of arms, the tramp of feet and the hoarse cry of military command. In the fifth light we see a small body of soldiers drawn up, and beneath the Bloody Tower comes the guard preceded by a warder bearing the keys. "Hail," cries the officer in command; "who comes there?" "Keys," is the immediate response. "Whose keys?" "Queen Victoria's keys." "Present arms." "God preserve Queen Victoria." "Amen," is the clear, deep answer of all the soldiers. Every night for untold years had this ceremony taken place. It is over now. Thoughtfully I wend my way past the Traitors' gate, beneath which the water is monthly lapped, and, passing out of the grand old gates, I leave history behind, only to plunge into the vast weird Babylon of this nineteenth century.

Sympathies of Sound. It is owing to the sympathetic communication of vibrations that persons with a clear and powerful voice have been able to break a large number of glass by singing close to its proper fundamental note. We have heard of a case where a person broke no fewer than twelve large glasses in succession. The sympathy of vibration shows itself remarkably in the case of the going of two clocks fixed to the same shelf or wall. It was known near a century ago that two clocks set going on the same shelf will affect each other. The pendulum of the one will stop that of the other, and the pendulum of the clock which is stopped, after a certain time, will resume its vibrations, and in its turn, stop that of the other clock. These effects are clearly produced by the small vibrations communicated from the one pendulum to the other through the shelf or rail or plank on which they both rest.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla 100 Doses One Dollar

The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is merit that wins, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, is what has given to this medicine a popularity and sale greater than that of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier before the public. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, overcomes That Tired Feeling, creates an Appetite, strengthens the Nerves, builds up the Whole System. Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all drug stores. Price, six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

"N w, children," said the teacher, "I will ask you a few questions in the lesson we have just been over. Can you tell me, William, (addressing the representative bad boy of the class), why the boy stood on the burning deck?" "I don't know, ma'am," said William hesitatingly, "unless—" "Unless what?" "Unless he had a pat hand and didn't want to let it go."

An Unhappy Home. "I wish my wife would get well or—something," said a husband who had been sorely tried with an invalid wife. It seems a heartless speech, but who can tell the discomforts of a home where the wife is always sick. Poor food, crying children! No wonder the man grows desperate. But if he would get Dr. Pierce's favorite prescription for the wife, he would find that the sunshine would return to his home. "Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhoea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, "bearing down" sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

If there is anything in Squard's discovery of his alleged elixir of life, there is one class of people who will not trouble the eminent specialist for his interference with the natural order of things; and those are the heirs of old, but very near and dear relatives, whose timely dropping off may thus be deferred.

Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this country. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests. Her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz. Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Get a free trial bottle at Daniel Fry's drug store.

Lawyer—and so you really think, Bobby, of becoming a lawyer when you grow up? Bobby—Yes, sir; my Uncle James thinks I ought to be a lawyer. "Does he, indeed?" And why does your Uncle James think so? Because you are bright and smart? "No, sir; because I ask so many fool questions."

We desire to say to our citizens that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled medicines that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. Sold by Daniel J. Fry, druggist.

Clara's little brother overheard the barber say something about her beard's wearing a beard a la mode. He ran precipitately to his sister and frightened her by saying: "Clara, it won't be any more fun for you to kiss Mr. Muser, now, 'cause the barber says he's had his beard all moved."

It should be generally known that Dr. Huxley's Blandell Tonic induces a hearty appetite and increased digestion, dispels nervous depression and low spirits, overcomes lack of energy and weakness and will infuse new life and strength into the weakest invalid. Sold by D. W. Matthews.

The Best Residence Localities In the city of Portland and other prosperous towns are those owned by men or corporations who have the disposition and ability to improve them.

HIGHLAND ADDITION

THE OREGON LAND COMPANY! And this Corporation is determined to Make It The Most Attractive Addition To the city of Salem. They have at this time fifteen teams employed and the contemplated improvements have scarcely begun. It is intended to make the drive leading from Commercial street through Riverside and Highland additions and around Highland Park

THE FINEST DRIVE IN THE STATE Of Oregon. The line of the Salem Street Railway Company runs through the middle of this addition, and no lots will be more than two blocks distant from the line. Highland Park will in the near future be

THE MOST POPULAR RESORT ABOUT THE CITY OF SALEM.

Lots in Highland Addition are High and Dry and Well Located; Most Excellent Drainage The soil is black and rich. From all points a fine view is obtained of the public buildings and our highest mountain peaks. Arrangements are already being made for the location of two churches in this addition, and a number of residences are soon to be built. Buildings only of the best class will be permitted. Residence lots within the limits of the city of Salem are worth on an average over $1000. We can sell you better lots in Highland addition for one-third of the money, and being directly on the line of the street railway they are practically not half so far from the public buildings and the business part of the town as the majority of the so-called "inside lots."

Buy a Lot in Highland Addition for Three Hundred Dollars, And let some other fellow pay $1000 for an inferior lot not so well located. With the difference of $700 you can build a beautiful cottage, or put it out at a rate of interest that will buy you nearly two thousand street car tickets every year.
