WHAT'S the matter with the Sullivan and Salem motor line? Oh, it's all right.

WHAT'S the matter with the electric street car line Salem is to have? Oh, she's all right.

WHAT'S the matter with Salem's present street car line, four miles in length? Oh, it's all right.

PATTI recently took in $25,000 for one farewell concert. She will shortly return to America to bid us goodbye again on the same terms.

IN view of the frequency of mail robberies the Postmaster General has issued an order offering $1000 reward for the arrest and conviction of any person making an armed attack upon any stage coach or railway mail car. Here's an opportunity for detectives.

PRIZE-FIGHTING is getting its final disgrace in the drunken brutality of Sullivan while his old mother was dying. The deification of physical strength and brute courage is at an end in this country. There are other many qualities of more value to society.

AN Adventist in Massachusetts puts the end of the world at the seventh of next month. It is mighty short notice for a transaction of that kind and magnitude, but the gentleman who has arranged it treats the world as though it had as many ends as a cat.

THE Walla Walla convention and the republicans of the state are to be congratulated upon the nomination of a ticket which combines every element of strength, both by reason of the ability and standing of the candidates as well as the geographical distribution thereof. The party as a whole can with perfect confidence appeal to the people to sanction the work of the convention by voting for and electing each of its candidates.

THE general convention of the democratic party of Washington is called to meet in the city of Ellensburg on Monday, Sept. 9, 1889, at 10 a. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate member of congress as candidates for such state officers as may be provided for in the constitution of the state of Washington, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the convention. The basis of representation is one delegate-at-large for each county, one delegate for 150 votes, and one delegate for each fraction thereof in excess of 750 votes cast for the democratic candidate for congress at the last general election.

THE president on Friday settled one of the hardest fought contests for an office that has yet been fought before him, by the appointment of Frank P. Clark to be collector of customs at El Paso, Texas. There were thirty-seven candidates in the field for this office, and each of them has been since the fourth of March "hustling" as only a Texan knows how to "hustle" to "get there." The man appointed has from the first been the choice of Secretary Windom for the place, and four times his commission has been sent to the president for his signature, but the other candidates by combining succeeded each time in preventing the attachment of the president's autograph thereto.

THE national museum at Washington has just been presented with two interesting war relics. One is the gun—a light double-barreled fowling-piece—with which Col. Ellsworth of the New York Zouaves was killed on the steps of the Marshall House in Alexandria, Virginia, as he was returning from the roof whither he had gone to remove a Confederate flag; and the other is the old-fashioned army musket, with sword bayonet, with which the slayer of Ellsworth was shot and afterwards pinned to the floor by private Brownell. The weapons were presented to the museum by Mr. Brownell in whose possession they have been since the unfortunate tragedy, which at the time of its occurrence—May 24, 1861—created a profound sensation throughout the United States.

CANADA'S DEBT AND DISTRESS. In the last twenty years Canada's public debt has increased three times the amount of what it was in 1869. To-day it is $284,512,842. Of course much of this is due to the construction of public works, notably the great transcontinental railway. But such a burden for a population of only 4,872,101—less than the number in New York state to-day—is oppressive to the thought. That it is a most serious matter to the Dominion is apparent through the revelation of the party press of Canada, not to mention the unmistakable signs of distress which attend trade and business generally. The large number of people who annually leave the Dominion to settle in the United States tells the story of superior advantages and prosperity here. Emigration from the United States to Canada is an almost unheard of movement on the part of anybody in order to improve his circumstances. The El Dorado of this continent is precisely the region now owned by the Western Republic.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS. In the Oklahoma Territorial Convention at Guthrie, I. T., on the 21st inst., there was a spirited debate on the woman suffrage question. A proposition to give women the ballot provoked a lively discussion. Mayor Stockslager, of East Guthrie, asserted that ninety-five per cent. of the respectable element of East Guthrie availed themselves of the ballot, and only five per cent. of the respectable women voted or wanted to vote. The Rev. Mr. Monnar, who presided, understood the allusion as referring to the ladies of the W. C. T. U., and he replied in a vigorous refutation of the assertion, after which the convention adjourned. On the 22d inst. the question again came up, and after a sharp debate it was voted to submit the question to the people (?) as a separate proposition. The legislature is to be elected October 23d, and at the same time territorial and county officers will be chosen.

DRUNK ON WATERMELONS. A Missouri gentleman who has tried it vouches for this story. Taking a gallon jug of whiskey he passed a cord through its cork, which cord dropped to the bottom of the jug. The twine was then introduced into a watermelon vine by slitting the vine and the vine permitted to produce only two watermelons. When the melons were matured they were served at a private barbecue to six gentlemen. The effect was astonishing. The gallon of whiskey got in its work not a drop of whisky remained in the jug when the melons were ripe.

TWENTY years ago stained glass windows were seen only in the windows of the great churches and in the palaces of the wealthy. Then such windows cost from $25 to $100 per square foot. Now we see upon every hand, in the better residence portion of the city, stained glass windows, some of them of great beauty. The window that cost several hundred dollars then can be had for thirty or forty now.

It Was Robert Bonner. A ruddy-faced old gentleman picked up Erroter Knott's left fore foot, examined the heel and then remarked: "Tell Mr. Bryant that his horse needs to have his heels trimmed if he would win a race and continue a winner on the track. His heel is too long, it strikes the ground first and cracks his quarter, shortening his stride. Shoe him so that he will strike level on his feet and he will be a better horse in every way." "And who says so?" was the sneering question of the surly groom. "Robert Bonner of New York. My best wishes to your employer for his fine horse, for he is a beauty, and if correctly shod will do good work." The groom's hat came off at once as he began to apologize and explain that so many people came about the stable to look at Proctor that he did not really know when to be civil. The stable boys pulled off their caps to the owner of Maud S., the queen of the turf as the unpretentious old gentleman walked across the stable yard to see Spokane, the winner of the Derby.

ADVICE FROM BELOW STAIRS. "Bridget, I would give all my wealth for half of your health." "Sure, ma'am, you need only give $3, for that's the price of six bottles of J. V. S., as the boys call it. Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla will make you as strong as me, ma'am." Mrs. J. Harmon, of 117 seventh street, San Francisco, writes: "I have been taking Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla with immense benefit. It is perfectly splendid to build up nervous, run-down and worn-out women." Mrs. Ford, 107 1/2 23rd street, Mrs. G. Worme, of 233 1/2 12th street, and hundreds of others relate the same with the pure vegetable juices of this California compound.

MOSES Her One Remarkable Whim of Extravagance Diagnosed by a Correspondent. There is a wealthy New York widow who has a church and a chaplain of her own, writes a New York correspondent. She is Mrs. Moses Taylor. The church was built by her at Long Branch at a cost of about $70,000. It is Presbyterians, and there is a nominal board of trustees, but Mrs. Taylor paid every dollar of the cost and is the owner outright. It is an ornate edifice, and one of its features is a memorial stained glass window inscribed to her dead husband. "Blessed are they that die in the Lord," it says. The sinners might add that they are considerably beast who live possessors of the enormous wealth accumulated by Moses Taylor. He was rather loose and luxurious in his earthly methods of blessedness, but he professed Christianity a little while before he died, and so the witness of the widow is not to be impeached. Mrs. Taylor's chaplain is Rev. J. H. Young, who conducts the services in the church during the summer months, but it is a her command the year round, for she pays his salary of $3,500 out of her own pocket. This religious, benevolent and amiable lady does not put on airs over being the richest widow in America. The fact is, she and everybody else were astonished by the amount of fortune left to her. One of the executors of the will has just been telling about it. The document did not enumerate the testator's possessions, but merely lumped the personal property, "consisting of bonds, stocks and other securities." The general impression had been that Taylor was worth fifteen to twenty millions. He had made a great property by importing foreign goods in his own ships, but as to his investments he had never been communicative. On an appointed day the widow and the executors opened the doors of the particularly solid vault which the old man had built into his office. This structure was banklike in vulnerability, and the investigators expected to find the proofs of ownership to the extent of many millions in it. But they were not prepared for what they found. The innermost compartment was large enough to hold certificates of stock and the like securities without folding. There was a high stack of these papers, lying nearly a top of one another, unwrinkled and uncreased. They represented Taylor's investments in hundreds of railroads, banks, insurance companies and all manner of the soundest financial ventures. The named finders of this store of wealth handled them over in a half-dazed way for an hour or two. Then they set about making an inventory. When they came to add the totals it was seen that the market value of the lot was about thirty millions, and when other property was added to this the aggregate reached forty millions, or more than double the current estimate. Taylor had disliked to figure as a superlatively rich man, and, therefore, without any of the miser's instinct, had concealed the facts from even his most intimate friends. As to the widow and heiress, she denies herself nothing that her fancy demands, but she is as unostentatious as her late husband, and her indulgence in a church and chaplain of her own constitutes her one remarkable whim of extravagance.

ARISTOCRATIC BABIES. Mother-of-Pearl Cradles, Golden Rattles and Diamond Amulets. A rich baby's layette, says the New York Sun, now costs $500 or $600, and includes soft silk wrap flannels handsomely embroidered, fine-knitted shirts of snowy wool, beautiful hand-wrought dresses, not frilled and heavy with embroidery and lace as formerly, but made of the finest French nainsook, tucked and hemmed by hand, with rows of drawn work as fine as lace, and pretty stitchings of brier work in fine flows, all wrought by hand, with real lace edges of narrow Valenciennes, and costing plain and simple as they are, sometimes $50, $60 and $75. A wrapper, shawl and little sacque of fine silk flannel, embroidered with forget-me-nots in the delicate blue of the natural flowers, or cloak of heavy, white silk, wrought with the same fine brier stitchings in silk rows on rows, a little close cap of the same material, embroidered with tiny silk sprays, and tiny silken socks of pretty tints, are included in the layette, which is as dainty as a mother's loving fancy can design. The baby basket is a mass of lace, frills and ribbons and thin muslin, lined with pretty satin or silk, and costs all the way from $5 to $50. The basket, or cradle, is another pretty bundle of brass or willow, white enameled, canopied with satin and lace, and with linen furnishings hem-stitched as daintily as a lady's kerchief, and covered with a soft silk quilt of down. One noted baby born in New York not long ago had a cradle of mother-of-pearl in the shape of a sea shell, with legs and handle of solid gold, lined with amber satin and with a canopy of satin and rare old lace falling from a gold framework and sweeping the floor. The linen was hand-stitched and edged with real lace by the fair hands of the happy mother. First of diamond buttons, six gold rattles, a solid silver toilet set, solid gold safety pins, diamond amulets and rings enough to cover every little finger and toe were among his baby presents. Then there's the christening and a robe which costs from $100 to $1,000, a mass of rich lace and satin, sometimes made of point lace, and a wedding dress, worn at the ceremony and never worn again.

Count von Moltke's Snuff. During the winter of 1870-71, Count von Moltke, while his headquarters were at Versailles, ran short of snuff. Failing to find any "snuffish" of the brand he likes in the local tobacco stores, he instructed a subordinate at the war office in Berlin to forward him a packet of his "own peculiar" snuff. The snuff was bought, paid for, sent to Versailles, and duly charged to the account of the nation. When the time came for examining the books, after peace had been concluded, the official entrusted with the revision of the accounts of the war office came upon this startling item: "For one pound of extra fine, with-of-Toung-bean perfume-highly-impermeated snuff, by his Excellency, the Count von Moltke, seven hundred, three thalers, seven and a half silver-groschen." The auditor would not pass this unprecedented item, but made a memorandum of the entry, referred it to his superior, with the suggestion that as snuff could not be held to be a material accumulation of war, it could not be saddled upon the national treasury. The item and the suggestion passed from one official to another, until it came to the crown lawyers, who gave their opinion that the state could not pay the snuff-claim. Von Moltke was officially addressed and requested to pay for his snuff, and he at once complied with the demand.

Johnny Had a Sweet Tooth. Mrs. Isaacstein to husband—"Dot locstie Jacob has been a pad pay to-day." Mr. Isaacstein—"Was dot so?" Mrs. Isaacstein—"He went into der delciet and ate all out of hamburger kase." Mr. Isaacstein (looking fondly at young Jacob)—"O, vel, Rebecca, dot vas not so pad; dot vas natural; all dese locstie shildres had dot sweet tooth."

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla 100 Doses One Dollar

The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is merit that wins, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, is what has given to this medicine a popularity and sale greater than that of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier before the public. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, overcomes That Tired Feeling, creates an Appetite, strengthens the Nerves, builds up the Whole System. Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all drug stores, $1.50 per bottle. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

The genius of a New York man has evolved a literary camel which will bear forth to the public the burdens of those writers who like to pay for the pleasure of seeing their productions in print. The new venture is called the Author's Gazette. The New York man, like his brethren, who are running the World's Fair scheme in that city, relies upon the fact that all the fools are not dead yet.

There was a frog that lived in a spring. He caught such a cold that he could not sing. Poor, unfortunate, Batschaim! In what a sad plight he must have been. And yet his misfortune was one that often befalls singers. Many a once tuneful voice among those who belong to the "genius homo" is utterly spoiled by "cold in the head," or on the lungs, or both combined. For the above mentioned "croaker" we are not aware that any remedy was ever devised; but we rejoice to know that all human singers may keep their heads clear and throats in tune by a timely use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, both of which are sold by druggists.

Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this country. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Luiz. Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Get a free trial bottle at Daniel Fry's drug store.

Talmage says that a newspaper should be "a mirror of life itself," reflecting the bad as well as the good side. But a newspaper, with living men and women on its staff should be something more than a reflector. A newspaper that prints ten columns of a prize fight, and ten lines of condemnatory comment is a mighty poor, cracked sort of a looking-glass.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY FOR CONSUMPTION. We desire to say to our citizens that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Rucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. Sold by Daniel J. Fry, druggist.

Before he married her he said she was a dream. Afterward he intimated very strongly that she was a nightmare.

A matrimonial association has just been formed at Toledo, O. We mention this that our friends may take Toledo a wide berth.

THE transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health, to the use of the Great Alterative and Tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of Kidneys, Liver or Stomach, of long or short standing you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at $2.00 and $1 per bottle at Daniel J. Fry's Drugstore.
