TANNER RESIGNS.

What the President Had to say... He Will Likely be Offered Some Other Office.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Commissioner Tanner's letter of resignation is now made public. In it he says: "The difference which exists between the secretary of the interior and myself as to the policy to be pursued in the administration of the pension bureau, has reached a stage which threatens to embarrass you to the extent which I feel I should not call upon you to suffer, and as an investigation into affairs in the bureau has been completed and I am assured both by yourself and the secretary of the interior, contains no reflection on my integrity as an individual or as an officer, I herewith place my resignation in your hands, to take effect at your pleasure, to the end that you may be relieved of any further embarrassment in the matter."

President Harrison, in his reply accepts the resignation, to take effect when the successor qualifies, and adds: "I do not think it necessary in this correspondence to discuss the causes which led to the present attitude of affairs. You have been kindly and fully advised of my views on most of these matters. It gives me pleasure to say, as far as I am advised, your honesty has not at any time been called in question. I beg to renew the expression of my personal good will. It is thought by many that Tanner will be offered some other government position that he can fill without so much hub-bub and one that will not require as much attention."

A PAYING ENTERPRISE.

The Canadian Pacific to Add Three New Mail Steamers to Their Line.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—A Montreal special says: T. G. Shaughnessy, present assistant general manager of the Canadian Pacific railroad, has been appointed to the position of assistant president. He leaves for England by way of New York to-day where he will contract for three steamers of 5000 tons each, to steam eighteen knots an hour, for the Pacific mail service for China and Japan. The vessels to be purchased are to be of the same model and design as the North German Loyds steamer Lahn to cost $1,000,000 apiece, and to be delivered at Vancouver in eighteen months, if possible.

President Van Horne in an interview to-day says that nothing short of universal disaster will prevent the company from earning $20,000,000 next year, and $8,000,000 net, or 6 per cent. on its capital. The government guaranty of 3 per cent. ends in 1893 and the company expects to make the best of it while they can.

Neagle Still a Prisoner.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—Argument in the Neagle case was resumed to-day before Judge Sawyer and Sabin. The attorney for Neagle contended that the prisoner was justified in law and reason for shooting Terry, and asked the court to dismiss him from custody. District Attorney White, of San Joaquin county, argued in behalf of the jurisdiction of the state, and claimed the crime was committed on state soil, and Neagle should be tried by the state. White submitted the case after asking the court to turn Neagle over to the state for trial. The court then adjourned until to-morrow. It is hard to say how the case will terminate, yet everything favors Neagle.

A Dangerous Operation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Jane Atherton, who was recently admitted to St. Luke's hospital as a patient. While at the hospital an abscess formed on her left lung. An incision was made, and the microscope showed protruding from the wall of one of the arteries of the heart the eye of a needle. It was plainly the cause of the aneurism. The needle was caught with a small forceps and after much difficulty was gently withdrawn. The little hole in the artery was immediately closed by coagulated blood, and the hemorrhage was trifling. Within twenty-four hours the heart returned to its normal beat, and the respiration was soon natural. She is now almost well, and there is nothing now to prevent her perfect recovery. The abscess was swallowed by Miss Atherton twenty-six years ago, when she was ten years old.

THE STORM STILL RAGING.

Many a Soul Has Found a Watery Grave—Great Destruction—Vessels Lost.

LEWIS, Del., Sept. 12.—No language can picture the terrible scene along the coast. The wind is blowing almost a hurricane, driving the rain with a force that cuts like ball. A half a mile beach of sand, between the town and the coast, is now a tossing ocean, bearing wreckage on every wave. Through the mist of spray the battered sails and naked masts of a score of deserted and dismantled vessels are dimly seen. In all, twenty-seven vessels came ashore here.

A vessel was sunk off Brown shoals, and all the crew drowned but two who got ashore on a raft. Another vessel was sunk on Shears' shoals. It is not known whether the crew escaped.

The total number of lives lost will probably exceed forty. Five of the eight men who composed the crew of the E. and L. Bryan, perished where the vessel struck on Brandburne shoals. The mate and two seamen caught a spar and drifted all night. At daybreak the others were discovered. One of the sailors' dead bodies was still lashed to a spar. Two survivors were picked up by a tug and brought ashore.

There is great concern over the crew of the pilot boat Ebe Tulnell. She put to sea Monday and has not been heard of yet. Pilots John Barnes, Lewis Bertrand, James Ronland and Berry Hickman and a crew of eight men are on board.

The story of the two nights on the Morse and Parker is one of suffering and despair. The storm increased in violence, and it seemed as if the boats would go to pieces. All attempts to stay on deck were abandoned, and the men on both boats strapped themselves to the rigging and resigned themselves to their fate. All Wednesday afternoon and night and until noon to-day they remained bound to the rigging. Wednesday night the storm howled and beat against them. Those on the Parker took to the rigging several hours before those on the Morse, and late last night by their cries it was evident that they suffered terribly. Early this morning nearly every man on both ships was almost dumb from exposure. Finally, those on the Parker could stand it no longer, and the crew of the Morse saw one of the men tear away the cords that bound him, and with a yell consigned himself to a watery grave. A few minutes later another followed his example, then another and another, until the last man, the captain, was seen to throw himself overboard and disappear in the angry billows.

A Murderer Gives Up.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—Early this morning a party of hunters, camped six miles north of Santa Monica, were shocked at the appearance in their camp of a Mexican about forty-eight years old, covered from head to foot with blood. It was learned that the Mexican had had a fight at the beach some time during the previous night with some fellow countrymen, who had, the stranger asserted, tried to rob him.

The man gave the name of Juan Jose Pina, and said that he wanted to go to Santa Monica to give himself up. He was taken into town by the hunters, and upon the officers going out to the scene of the reported fight they found lying on the beach the dead body of Luis Martinez, with his head crushed in, seemingly by a rock. There were several knife wounds on the body, and the blood was so clotted upon his face that identification was impossible until it had been washed off. It is thought that it is nothing more than a cold-blooded murder.

The Gale Continues.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—S. A. M.—There has been no change in the position of the storm on the Atlantic coast. The storm center is at Norfolk, where it has been since Tuesday morning. A high northeasterly wind still prevails on the New England coast with a maximum velocity of thirty-four miles per hour at Boston and fifty-two miles at Block Island. On the Virginia and North Carolina coast the winds are blowing at the rate of twenty-five to thirty miles per hour from the northwest. North winds on the coast will continue during the day.
