PROHIBITION appears to have been carried in North Dakota.

THE Woman Suffrage State Convention of New York, held a two days' session at Saratoga last week.

THE shipment of $1,000,000 in gold to Europe last week put an additional strain on the money market.

THE venerable historian of our country, George Bancroft, celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday last Thursday.

AN attempt was made to blow up Scamman's abattoir, at Fortieth street and North river, (N. Y.) by dynamite.

THE boilers on the Mississippi River steamer Corona exploded at Port Hudson, last Thursday, killing forty-six of the passengers and crew.

PRESIDENT CARNOT wants to visit America. Exposition year, 1892, will be a most appropriate time for the distinguished Frenchman to come.

ROBERT RAY HAMILTON has begun suit in the supreme court for the annulment of his marriage to Evangeline L. Steele, the famous "Eva."

DURING the past few days there have been 1,000,000 pounds of sugar contracted to be shipped from New York to points west and northwest of Chicago.

DOM PEDRO, who was a conspicuous figure at the Centennial Exhibition in 1876, expresses a desire to attend the World's Fair of 1892. He will be welcomed with open arms.

GENERAL LESTER B. FAULKNER was convicted, at Buffalo, N. Y., of wrecking the Dansville National Bank, and was sentenced to the Erie county penitentiary for seven years.

HORACE GREELEY gave wonderful good advice when he said a man should never change his business after he was thirty-five years old, unless he was a horse-thief.

A TENNESSEE editor gives this account of the difficulties under which he labors: "How is it that our readers expect us out here, twelve miles from a railroad, twenty-five miles from a river, millions of miles from heaven, about two miles from the devil and only two hundred yards from a whisky shop, to get out a newsy, lively interesting paper?"

Now that the murder and suicide season is again at hand it is gratifying to note that the perpetrator is becoming somewhat refined in his method. A man went into a house down in Texas, the other day, and committed murder. Then instead of blowing out his brains on the spot, he discretely withdrew to the alley, where the muss didn't matter. We are progressing.

AN Australian young lady, who had accepted the courtship and marriage with a young commercial traveler from this country, he representing himself as a single man, recently followed her husband half around the globe to Chicago, learning en route that he was not only already married to a beautiful lady in Chicago, but was also an old jail bird, having served a term in Joliet prison. She pluckily followed him up until he was in the clutches of the police and proposes to stay on his track until he is landed in Joliet.

BICYCLING across the Mojave desert has proved more than Tom Roe counted on. He expected to cross the desert in four days, but the latest report from him shows that he has only just reached The Needles, eighteen days after leaving this city. What Roe should have done was to hire a good Indian at Mojave to pack a small amount of provisions and water and to coach him in desert travel. If he had tramped at night, as the Indians always do, he would have made the trip in less time and with no suffering from heat and thirst. The Eastern tenderfoot on a California desert is a sight for gods and men to weep over, and Roe, despite his luck, has been no exception to the rule.

A SHARK has been captured at Redondo beach, near Los Angeles, which had been dining on a young lady. Many a youth—and even older people of the male persuasion—in the city of Salem, who are acquainted with young ladies whom they consider sweet enough to eat, and hence instead of being shocked at the horrible story about the shark and his meal, are rather inclined to commend the monster's taste. Besides there are married men who could have eaten their wives about the time of the honeymoon, who are now sorry that they didn't.

CELLULOSE is now used as a substitute for copper in sheathing ships. Experiments lasting five or six months show that barnacles and other marine vegetation will not form on a surface covered with celluloid. It is supplied for this purpose the thickness of one millimeter, at a cost of 9 francs per square meter, in France.

NEW YORK LETTER.

Notable Actors—The American Institute Fair. A Mammoth Excursion. New York, Oct. 10, 1890.

The theatrical season is now in full blast and some of the most prominent players in the world are announced to appear before New York audiences in the near future. Among others, are the celebrated English actor and actress, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kendal, who open their first American engagement at the Fifth Avenue Theatre to-night. For years these two have been particular favorites in London, where they have the reputation of being the most moral actors on the English stage. The prospects are that they will have a highly successful season in America, and especially in this city, where it must be confessed, that a little more of the moral kind of drama could be used to good advantage. Edwin Booth is also to be here shortly, and the great Salvini is booked to open up at Palmer's Theatre on October 10th. This is to be the latter's farewell tour in America, and those who fail to see him now will undoubtedly miss one of the greatest actors of our times.

OUR FAIR. The American Institute fair was opened last week in the presence of six thousand persons. This big show bears about the same relation to New Yorkers as the ordinary country fair does to the people of the surrounding neighborhood; but, of course, it is somewhat larger, and lasts for a couple of months instead of three or four days. The building in which it is held, occupies just one block at 3d st., between Second and Third avenues. It is crowded to the doors with the latest inventions in machinery, the choicest specimens of manufactured goods, and with novelties of every description. Some of the exhibits this year are very attractive, and many of the booths are elegantly fitted up. A leading paper company has a large house made entirely of paper. This and many other exhibits are calculated to attract special attention, but I regret that space forbids more. One thing is apparent, and that is that with such a creditable exhibition as this we will have something to console us even if we fail to catch the World's fair.

A MAMMOTH EXCURSION PARTY. The public buildings, and the various places of interest in the city, are besieged this week by strangers, the greater part of whom hail from the northern part of the state. They arrived to the number of about ten thousand, on sixty cars and Wagner coaches, at the Grand Central depot. The visitors compose the annual excursion of the residents along the line of the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg railroad, and consist of men, women and children, merchants and pleasure seekers. Their tickets are good for a week's stay in the city, and it is evident they are trying to make the best possible use of the time at their command. Many of them have friends here who are eager to extend to them the hospitality for which New Yorkers are famous. It is my opinion that these occasional excursions are to be commended from many points of view. They are both instructive and profitable. The enjoyment is great and the expense is light.

EDWIN ARLINGTON.

IT WAS LONG ENOUGH.

Colonel—Well, what's the matter now? Private—I've got liver trouble and dyspepsia, and ought to get leave for thirty days.

Colonel—If I give you ten, and if you take J. J.'s Vegetable Sarsaparilla that will be long enough.

Used H. Becker, of the Baldwin Hotel, San Francisco, writes: I have spent many a dollar for medicines, but the only thing that ever stopped my liver trouble and dyspepsia was J. J.'s Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

Dr. J. J. Solomon, of 229 Valencia street, San Francisco, writes that it has entirely freed him of his indigestion and sick headaches.

The Belle of the Season.

As in a garden of you've seen, Above the flowers that gem the glade, One bloom that rears a stately crown, Put other blossoms in the shade: And seem within its lifted head, A lake of tinted gems to hold: So art thou, maid, beyond the rest, With beauty, ripe, majestic, bold.

At every ball, on every fête, Where social harmony is rife, Thine eyes are sought, thy beauty marked, And in thy presence bright is life. No more hast thou, or thought of those, The vanquished now, by thought of those, The season's queen, why should thou know How brief may be thy fated lot?

And so we worship at thy shrine, Bring tribute incense as we look, A few short months alackaday! The bloom is withered in the bud, Thou'rt no more, maid, the season's done, Nay, little one, pray be not vexed, For all the world will ask but this: "Who'll be the next, who'll be the next?"

Fashion's Fancies. The very wide turn-over collars of pure white linen are not becoming to very many women who affect them.

All the lovely tints of violet, heliopsis, Persian mauve, shadblow and other colors, are being used in conjunction with the white.

Toy muffs of white Duchesse lace garnished with natural flowers, with pincushion bonnets to match, are worn at fashionable church weddings this autumn.

A new lovely tint of violet shading to blue is called Yeux Dagmar, after the deep peculiar color of the eyes of the Empress of Russia, formerly Princess Dagmar of Denmark.

The new stylish Directoire redingotes and bonnets made of superb Louis XIV. brocades and velvets trimmed with feather bands, are exceedingly becoming to tall stately women.

The soft, fluffy, silvery white fur, called Russian fox, will be in great use next season as a garniture for wraps, redingotes, entire street costumes, bonnets and long enveloping ball cloaks.

All the autumn importations tend to prove that brown is to be the favorite tint for dress fabrics this season. "The Dutiful Daughter in Brown" will be a frequent figure on the streets this season, but her choice will have a wide range between tan and fawn color all the way down to the darkest shade of all, about the color of burned umber.

The new French turban, low and round of crown, or slightly arched toward the front, will rival the toque even as a dress hat. Some of the theatre turbans are made of violet, old rose, bronze or fawn and heliopsis velvet, and trimmed in front with a full cluster of feathers, with elegant jeweled ornaments shining here and there through the downy plumeage.

The True Elixir Of Life Hood's Sarsaparilla

Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, builds up weak and debilitated systems, gives strength to weakened nerves, overcomes that tired feeling, tones the digestive organs, invigorates and regulates the kidneys and liver, expels disease, and gives vigorous health. Young people say: "It is the best medicine we ever took."

Old people say: "It makes me feel young again." So good a medicine may well be called "the true Elixir of Life."

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. L. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

Lucky He Saved the License. The police official related an instance of one man who presented a license which had been issued two years previously and wanted to know if it was valid. He was informed that it was good until used, for which information he seemed very grateful. "You have waited an extraordinary length of time," said the official to him. "My girl went back on me," was the reply. "Then this alters the case; that license is only good for the parties in whose names it was originally granted."

"That's all right; my girl has now changed her mind, and we'll get hitched this time, sure," was the laconic answer.—Washington Press.

The Origin of Black Maria. Way back in the morning twilight of the settlement of Boston, Maria Lee, a colored woman of gigantic stature, possessing the courage of a lion, kept a sailors' boarding house down at the old North End. One night a party of drunken tars got into a row and began throwing the chattels out of her house. The "watch" was called in, but was soon overpowered and dismay spread abroad through the street. Then Maria stalked out of her habitation and stopped further outrage by collaring two of the heading offenders and carrying them bodily up the old "watch house," then standing near where Union street now crossed Hanover street. "Black Maria" was known throughout the city for her prodigious strength, and for years she aided the police in quelling rows and had been known to take three strong men to the "watch house" at once, or at one time. So, years afterward, when the first police "cart" was made it was called the "Black Maria"—hence the name.—Boston Globe.

A WOMAN'S DISCOVERY. "Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this country. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus write W. C. Hawrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Get a free trial bottle at Daniel Fry's drug store.

Ex-Queen Natalie arrived at Belgrade on the 30th. Her presence was totally ignored by the Government officials, but she was received enthusiastically by the crowds in the streets. From private houses and places of business flags were displayed in her honor.

The Russian Minister of War has ordered that military races shall be indulged in from time to time as a means of improving the cavalry.

The French government has decided that defeated candidates may contest in the second ballots without infringing the Multiple Candidature Act.

It is evident that Talmage is not satisfied with Beecher's "Life of Christ." He is going to the Holy Land with an artist and a stenographer to gather material for another book of the same title.

MARIT WINS. We desire to say to our citizens that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. Sold by Daniel J. Fry, druggist.
