AFTER THE FIRE.

Talmage Proposes to Build a Larger Church Than the Old One.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Rev. De Witt Talmage preached his first sermon since the destruction of the Brooklyn Tabernacle yesterday morning in the Academy of music.

He preached it with the announcement that the church had bought a new lot in Greene and Clifton streets, and would begin building a week from to-day, with impressive ceremonies.

Dr. Talmage also said that he would leave for Palestine on October 30th, to be gone several months. His sermon was on the baptism of water as a text. St. Paul's words: "None of these things move me."

The sermon related to the destroyed building. He called for financial help from all people, saying: "I have made and now make an appeal to all christendom to help us, I will acknowledge the receipt of every contribution, great or small, with my own hand. We want to build a larger and better church; we want a national church in which people of all creeds and all nations may find a home. The contributions already sent in made a small-hearted church forever impossible. Would I not be a sorry spectacle for angels and men if in a church built by Israelites and Catholics as well as all styles of people commonly called evangelical I should instead of the banner of the Lord God Almighty, raise the fluttering rag of small sectarianism?"

A burst of applause followed this declaration, and the speaker went on: "If we had $300,000 we would put them all into one great monument to God. I say now to all Baptists that we shall have in it a baptistry. I say to all Episcopalians, we shall have in our services, as heretofore at our communion table, portions of their liturgy. I say to Catholics, we shall have a cross over the pulpit and probably on the tower. I say to Methodists, we mean to sing there like the voice of mighty thunderings.

I do not know but I see on the horizon the first gleam of the morning which shall unite all denominations in one organization, distinguished only by locality, as in apostolic times. It was when the church of Thyatira, and the church of Antioch, and the church of Laodicea. So I do not know but that in the future, and not far off, it may be simply distinctions of locality and not of creed, as the church of New York, the church of Boston, the church of San Francisco, the church of Constantinople, the church of Armenia."

SENATOR DOLPH.

He Talks About the Work to Come Before Congress.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—In an interview to-day Senator Dolph said: "Congress has taken action in the matter of immigration of Chinese laborers, and whatever injustice have been done to citizens of China holding return certificates, I think no attempt will be made to remove it by a repeal or modification of the act. I intend to reintroduce my Coast Defense bill, and believe it will bring about some kind of legislation. We must adopt a general plan for defending our coasts, and I think congress is now ready for it. Both the interstate commerce and civil service laws will be amended, but neither will be repealed. Senator Blair will bring forward his Educational bill again, but one cannot foretell the action of the house. The management of the Pension office will be investigated. We must carry out our pledges and revise the tariff."

What a Slave-Girl Costs.

The price of a slave is largely increased if she is a good musician, and some of these girls are good dancers and singers. The price of an ordinary slave girl of the desirable age, ranging from 12 to 16, is $200. If she is beautiful she may be worth $2,000 and more, and if in addition to this she is a good musician the mother of the sultan will give from $5,000 to $6,000 for her. Rich blonde beauties with blue eyes and transparent skins always bring high prices if plump and well rounded, but I am told that black girls are brought from Africa and sold for a song in Constantinople. The slave market of the city has long since been done away with, but the buying and selling still goes on underground, and the terms of slavery out-

HERMANN'S DEPARTURE.

He Intends to Leave for Washington Early in November—Has Found Out the Needs of Oregon.

Congressman Binger Hermann arrived at Portland yesterday afternoon from Roseburg, and is at the St. Charles. This is probably his last visit to Portland before his departure for Washington. He will leave about November 5th, going on the Southern Pacific via San Francisco and New Orleans. He will visit Washington county to-day, and after a few more side trips will return to his home in Roseburg and make an effort to catch up with his accumulated correspondence before leaving.

Since his return several months ago Congressman Hermann has been continuously on the go. With the exception of a few points on the west side, he has visited all parts of the state to learn the needs of the people in the way of legislation. He has found that he took a large contract. "The area of the state is so large," he said yesterday, to a reporter, "and the time required in traversing it so long, and I have found it impossible to take in all the important points in one season."

"What is the result of your trip?" asked a reporter of the congressman last evening. "My observation on the coast will stimulate to renewed efforts for the continuance of appropriations for the river and harbor improvements now under way and for appropriations for works at new points—particularly Stunlaw. I have also observed the necessity for the establishment of additional life-saving stations, for a lighthouse at the mouth of the Coquille river and possibly for another at the mouth of the Rogue river.

"As to the interior of the state, I saw in some sections the necessity for increased mail service and in other portions a demand for the extension of the public service to lands occupied by bona fide settlers who cannot acquire title until this is done. Improvements are needed at the Umatilla Indian reservation. There is a general demand on the part of the people of Eastern Oregon, particularly those of Pendleton, for the sale of the surplus Indian lands which our delegation will use every effort to bring about at the earliest possible moment. In a council with a number of the Indian chiefs I found a general desire on their part for the allotment of the lands in severalty to them as provided in the act of congress. I am convinced from personal observation and from the assurance of the Indians that this is for their best interests and that after the allotments are made they would have greater inducement to improve and develop their lands, which the majority of them are not inclined to now."

"Today I visited Oregon City and took in the fish hatchery on the Clackamas river and also informed myself as to the Clackamas rapids. Major Jones recently made a survey of the obstruction with a view to its improvement. It will be the effort of our delegation to obtain the necessary aid for the project proposed by him."

"Who is your preference for speaker of the next house?" "That of course, is a delicate subject. It is not necessary for me to take a position on it at this time."

Fish, Fish.

The Baltimore fish market on Court street is the place to get your fish, poultry and game.

A Big Dinner.

The greatest banquet ever known to profane history was that to which the mayors of France sat down to at Paris on Aug. 18, in the palais de l'Industrie, as one of the features of the celebration of the events of 1789. This is of a formal banquet at which 15,000 people were regularly seated, and which required the provision of 80,000 plates, 52,000 glasses, 27,000 bottles of wine and nearly 1,400 waiters and scullions! It was a feast that paled old Rome and the Caesars.
