CAPTURE OF A DESPERADO.

Frank Ward, a One-Armed Half-breed Arrested.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15.—Deputy United States Marshal Ralph Dominguez came up from La Jolla, San Diego county, to-day, having in charge Frank Ward, the one-armed half-breed Indian desperado, who has long been the terror of the settlers in the neighborhood of the Mesa Grande reservation. Ward has the reputation of being a man who would shoot on sight. Settlers have been anxious for some time past to rid their community of his presence.

The crime for which he has finally been arrested is an assault upon a Mesa Grande Indian girl, named Loretta, in the early part of September last. Ward, who has a family, got drunk upon the day in question and starting for home from La Jolla, met the girl on the road just as night was approaching. He assaulted the girl, who was only 12 years old, then told her he would murder her if she ever gave him away. He succeeded in so terrifying her that it was two months before she mustered courage to tell her parents what had happened. The girl's father laid the matter before the Federal authorities, the result being an indictment by the grand jury. Ward was committed to jail in default of bail.

THE SILVER MEN.

Proceedings of the Convention in Session at Denver.

DENVER, Nov. 13.—As the Silver Convention progresses it increases in interest. Delegates keep pouring in, and it is a novelty to see people of all political faiths working hand in hand on any particular question. Free and unlimited coinage is the war cry alike for republicans, democrats and prohibitionists. The fact that the people of St. Louis saw fit to take the initiative in this move has worked to its good in that resolutions were adopted to-day favoring that place for the world's fair. Another resolution adopted recommends congress to provide for the coinage of at least $4,000,000 of silver each month. Judge Syms and several other gentlemen have made eloquent speeches. It is not likely that the convention will conclude labors before to-morrow night.

A Reward Long Delayed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—First Comptroller Matthews received an application from Jesse A. Atwood, of San Francisco, for his portion of the reward offered for the capture of Jeff Davis. Atwood said he was quartermaster sergeant in the First Wisconsin cavalry, and assisted in the capture, but he knew nothing about the existence of a reward until a friend recently sent him a newspaper clipping mentioning the payment of reward money to a man in Chicago. The comptroller replied that the money amounting to about $500 could not be paid him because his name is not in the list included in the original act, nor has it since been added to the list under certification by the secretary of war. The money was apportioned among the men whose names were mentioned; according to their rank, and to pay another out of the fund, which is about exhausted, would be contrary to law. Atwood's only chance is through a special act.

Fell From a Bridge.

FRESNO, Nov. 15.—Yesterday afternoon Samuel Heisel, a carpenter, fell from the new railroad bridge over the San Joaquin, a distance of sixty-five feet, and was instantly killed. The fall broke his neck. Heisel was walking on the bridge and missed his footing, when the fatal accident occurred. The coroner's jury found a verdict of accidental death.

The deceased was a native of Ohio, aged forty-five years. The body will be shipped to that state for interment.

The Baltimore Sun says that the president will return to-day to Washington from Benales Point, Baltimore county, Md., where he has been duck hunting. He has been having good sport.

The latest paper received at New York from Guatemala tells of the immediate downfall of the riotous outbreak, which, it was thought at the time, would result in a revolution. Three of the leaders were shot and the others surrendered. All is quiet.

Colonel Wilson, superintendent of the West Point military academy, in his annual report strongly recommends that the appointments to cadetships be confined to the June examination, as the appointments during the summer recess result in a large per cent. of failures.

A Mysterious Disappearance.

DENVER, Nov. 15.—The detective forces of this city, and especially Thiel's Agency, are perturbed concerning the mysterious disappearance of a detective who was sent Dotsero, in the western part of the state, to investigate the burning of two bridges on the Rio Grande road. The detective went under the alias of Martin Casey. About October the 10th he went on the hunt with three men named Heidan Beach and Barry. During the hunt the party became separated, and Barry and Casey went off together. After a few hours Barry returned to the camp, and said that Casey had got tired and started off ahead of him. Casey has never been heard of since. Searching parties scoured the country, but without success. The theory is that Casey's identity as a detective was disclosed in some way, and that he was jured away and murdered. The correct name of the detective will not be given by his brother officers. He has a wife and children in the East, is possessed of considerable property, and has about $1,000 in the bank here. He was accounted one of the best detectives in the country, and had had twelve years' experience.

The Mexican Cascaron.

The stranger in Mexico, especially if young and good-looking, is liable to be considered surprised at his first ball there, when some pretty senorita, whom he has never seen before, trips up to him with an engaging smile on her face and something that looks like an egg in her hand, and suddenly smashes the latter over his cranium. To one not acquainted with the cascaron custom, it is startling, to say the least. Luckily, however, the egg has been robbed of its usual interior, the original contents having been cut out through a small hole at one end. The shell is then filled with finely chopped tinsel and colored paper, perhaps with the addition of finely perfumed sachet-powder or some dainty trinkets, after which the opening is neatly closed by a bit of paper pasted over it.

Dr. Hammond says American people lie in bed too much. He has also said that people need never die; so it does not much matter what he says.
