"ENGAGED."—Long before eight o'clock last evening, the entrance to the opera house was completely jammed with a vast throng of people eager to seek admission to the inside. The occasion was the opening night of the Chicago Comedy Company. Shortly after eight o'clock the doors were thrown open and in a very few minutes the house comfortably seated. The play presented was the great English success, in three acts entitled "Engaged." The play was presented in an able manner last evening, and Jas. A. Devlin as "Chevoit Hill," kept the house in a good humor during the entire performance. Jas. Devlin without a doubt, has made more friends in Salem since he first appeared before a Salem audience than any theatrical performer that ever visited the city. He is simply grand. Belle Inman sustained her well earned reputation in the character of "Belinda Treherne." Miss Inman is a splendid actress, and her voice being strong and clear assists her greatly. Miss Virginia Snow's acting was also greeted with applause. All in all the company did well, and mention must not be forgotten that the company to-night present "Lady Audley's Secret." A play that will draw a large audience.

WILL GIVE $1000.—John James who came here from Iowa last summer and who accepted a position as engraver at the marble works of Mr. Riggs, on Commercial street, was seen by a reporter this morning. He has built, one nice residence since he came and will build two more in the spring. Mr. James thinks that Salem is "the" place. In the interview he said he would be one of ten to give $1000 each to get the railroad from Salem to the sea. Mr. James is not a capitalist by any means but a hard-working mechanic, and what money he has, he has got by hammering it out by his trade, and now he is willing to give one thousand dollars of that hard-earned money to see the city where he has decided to make his future home, have another railroad. This is the kind of men the JOURNAL likes to see come to Salem, and it is to this class of men that much of the prosperity of Salem depends.

RASBERRIES FOR NOVEMBER.—Yesterday, November 17th, R. B. Duncan brought to his office, on State street, a large bunch of small branches loaded with raspberries which were grown in the garden of Mr. Chas. Chapman, one mile northeast of this city. They are now on exhibition at Duncan & Booth's office, and a reporter of this paper had the pleasure of eating a few of the berries to-day. We do not hesitate in pronouncing them delicious. How is this for Oregon. While the eastern states are having snow, Oregon produces ripe raspberries in November and flowers are blooming as if it was springtime.

NEARLY AN ACCIDENT.—This morning a conductor on the south bound freight train came near meeting with an accident which would have cost him his life. In attempting to jump from the caboose he slipped when he struck the platform and fell across the rail but luckily there were no other cars behind or he would have been run over and killed. Owing to the slipperyness of the platforms it is very dangerous for railroad men to jump from the cars at present or during the rainy season.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION.—Articles of incorporation were filed with the secretary of State to-day, as follows: The Clatsop Development Co. the principle office is in Astoria Oregon, with a capital stock of $5,000 divided into 100 shares of $50 each with J. W. Conn, F. W. Newell, and Alfred Kinney as incorporators, also the Capital City street railway company who increase their capital stock from $25,000 to $50,000 and the capital stock be divided into 500 shares of the value of $100 each with P. S. Knight, Louis Kuhn, W. T. Gray, and O. E. Krausse, M. L. Chamberlin, G. W. Webb and David Simpson, as incorporators,

FINE MUSIC.—An interesting feature of last evening's entertainment at the opera house, was the delightful music furnished by Mr. James F. Hayes, one of the most noted piano performers west of the Mississippi river. His playing is executed with ability, and he delights the audience throughout the evening by the various airs he plays. It is well worth the price of admission to hear him alone. He will furnish music at each performance.

PUTTING IN SEWERS.—The workmen have commenced putting in sewers running from Union street south, in each alley way, connecting with the main sewer on Marion street. This will make Union one of the dryest streets in the city.

INSANE MAN.—Frank Manciette was adjudged insane and brought to the asylum yesterday. He is 39 years of age and acts very stupid. The cause of his insanity is from epilepsy.

FISH, FISH.—The Baltimore fish market on Court street is the place to get your fish, poultry and game.

NEW ARRIVAL OF CLOAKS.—Something new, nobby and nice at Lunn & Brown's Commercial street.

Painless dental operations at Dr T. C. Smith's, 99 State street.

WILLSON'S AVENUE.

Complete Description of the Plans as Submitted by the Landscape Gardner—The Union Meet.

The regular monthly meeting of this society was held at the residence of Ex-Governor Moody, last evening.

The question of improving Willson Avenue by changing the fence and plowing, leveling and harrowing the grounds, was discussed, but it was finally determined that the plan submitted by Secretary McBride, should be placed in the store of Mr. T. McF. Patton, and that the members individually examine it and make a note of any and all suggestions they would offer, and that the president then call a meeting to compare notes, so that the plan obtained, could be modified if thought best, and a working plan secured before any work was done.

A committee consisting of J. J. Murphy, Werner Breyman and C. B. Moores was appointed to visit the city council this evening, and obtain authority to change the fence, and improve the grounds by plowing, harrowing and seeding them to lawn grass.

The Union is very much encouraged with the progress already made, and have assurance that permanent improvement of the avenue will commence in the spring.

Those who think this organization is doing but little, should remember that it has taken much labor and persevering efforts to accomplish what has already been done in regard to improving Willson avenue, and such enterprises are not easily carried forward, but the difficulties are gradually being removed and when all the preliminary steps have been taken and full control secured, the society can then proceed. They have obtained the legal vacation of the streets west and east of the court and state house, a matter alone which has taken several weeks. Success to the Decorative Union. All who feel an interest in this work are requested to examine the plans submitted by Mr. Geo. Coote, landscape gardner of the Agricultural College of Corvallis, as submitted below in a letter from Mr. Coote to the Union.

PLANS AND SUGGESTIONS.

The grounds to be laid out consist of an oblong space 2058 feet long and 361 feet wide, of uniform level and bounded by streets on the long sides. The laying out of the ground must be so contrived as to bring into the greatest prominence the State Capital building, and in a less degree the Marion County Court House.

The one feature, which is adopted in all such cases is that of an avenue of stately trees and to this the other features of shrubbery, flower gardens and lawns should be subordinate, but avenues being the growth of decades of years, and not to be forced into existence before their own maturity.

It follows, that while the avenue is growing, the humbler features of lawn, flower garden and shrubbery, must not only be provided, but must be developed into all the beauty which the situation and the surroundings render possible.

In the plan submitted it is intended that the central avenue shall be planted with the three beautiful conifers of Oregon—cedar, hemlock and Douglas pine, in pairs opposite each other.

The avenue is intended to be 100 feet wide, and the individual trees forty feet apart. The straight lines of the future avenue, are the only straight lines provided for, in the laying out of the grounds, and while the avenue trees are growing, they will be for some years, lost sight of in the masses of green foliage and shrubbery, which will attract the eye of every observer. But no shrubbery growth must be allowed to obstruct the view down the central grassy space which will lead from the Capitol to the Court House, only a few masses of bright flowers of low growth can be permitted to diversify the long green stretch of turf, and while the surface of the various shrubberies and gardens arranged on either side of the central space may be raised here and there, and flowers and plants of varying size be so set as to heighten the effect of undulations of surface in the masses of these side gardens nothing should be permitted to break the level of the central walk.

It will be noticed that in accordance with this idea, the band stand has been removed to the side, and is balanced by a conservatory and aviary on the opposite side.

Provisions are made for four rose gardens. The planting of this queen of flowers may be so varied as to have some roses in bloom from spring time until the end of fall. In order to supply the pattern beds, with geraniums, verbenas, coleus, heliotrope, troposlums, and other summer flowers it will be most desirable to have a greenhouse to grow them in. The national place for this structure is on the piece of ground in the rear and to the east of the Capitol building. It is recommended, that the drives and walks through these gardens be surfaced with graved over a layer of brick rubbish and broken stone.

In planting the shrubberries the freest possible use should be made of bright foliage and flowering shrubs. Many natives of our Oregon woods, will lend themselves perfectly to these purposes, for instance the dogwood, vines, spirea syringa, huckleberry and elder.

Certain portions of the beds should also be set apart, for the studied wildness of our Oregon wild flowers. So many of these natives of our woods and pastures, deserve notice for their beauty, and for their early opening in spring.

In closing I would only strongly urge the committee, to lay out and plant for future years, and on well considered plans which will develop in beauty the more richly as the seasons pass.

I have not provided for an entrance to front basement, only a walk, which I have shown by dotted lines on plan next to front steps, but if the committee wish a carriage entrance it can be easily put in. I have provided for an entrance to basement, on the east entrance so you can reach the elevator.

Yours, very respectfully,
GEORGE COOTE.

OVER AN EMBANKMENT.

Jack Green and His 16-Year-Old Son Sustain Severe Injuries by the Accident—Lucky Escape.

This morning about 10:30 an accident occurred just over the south side of the covered bridge on Commercial street, that came near causing the instant death of Jack Green and his 16-year-old son Walter.

At this point the road is graded some fifteen or twenty feet to the approach above the surface of the ground so as to make an approach to the bridge. This roadway or approach is very narrow and is not fenced or nothing whatever is placed to keep a team from running down the steep embankment should they become scared.

This morning Jack Green, who is a familiar figure on the streets and is afflicted with rheumatism and with the assistance of his son Walter runs a small express wagon, to maintain a living, started to go home to his dinner and when they came to the office of the Salem Flour mills, they stopped to obtain some feed for the horse. The boy went in after the feed and Mr. Green staid to mind the horse, which was very restless. While they were obtaining the feed, and were just loading it into the wagon the horse started and the two managed to get into the wagon. Both got hold of the lines, but the horse seemed to be thoroughly frightened, and their efforts to stop him were ineffective. The animal went tearing through the bridge and when about thirty feet beyond the bridge plunged over the embankment wagon, horse and all went tumbling over and over to the ground below. Mr. Green fell under the wagon but his son luckily fell to one side. Several saw the occurence and ran at once to the rescue of the victims. A cab was hastily summoned and the father and son who were seen to be badly injured were conveyed to their home in South Salem and Dr. J. N. Smith called.

A JOURNAL reporter was soon at the bedside of the unfortunate victims and after the physician had made an examination of the victims it was found that Mr. Green had sustained the fracture of the fifth rib on the left side and the boy had his left arm broken between the shoulder and the elbow. Both will probably be laid up for several weeks. As the family are in poor circumstances it is a hard blow on them and it is hoped that nothing serious will terminate from the injuries sustained.

The above statement as to the cause of the accident was obtained from the boy but another statement is given by a spectator who claims to have witnessed the affair, that as they emerged from the bridge Mr. Green struck the horse with a large cane that he carries that caused the horse to lunge from the embankment. At any rate the affair was an unfortunate one and the escape from being killed was indeed a lucky one.

At 3:20 this afternoon it is learned that Mr. Green is very restless and claims that his breast is injured although Dr. Smith, who made a careful examination of his injuries thinks that beyond a broken rib he sustained no further injuries. The boy is resting as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

THE STATE EXCHANGE.

The Objects of the Exchange Set Forth—An Interesting Communication.

SALEM, Oregon, Nov. 15, 1889.

To the Business Men and Citizens of Salem and Vicinity:

We desire to bring to your attention the association of the undersigned, real estate firms of this city, under the head of State Exchange; the objects of the association, and to invite your hearty co-operation and influence

It is a fact well understood by all that a large city is a vast benefit to its citizens and surrounding country, and it is noteworthy that the present prosperous state of this city is entirely and directly owing to the enterprise and expenditures of its business men.

Each firm within this exchange is contributing an equitable portion of its profits each month to advertise the advantages of Salem abroad. This brings new people here and creates a demand for houses and lands, increases the avenues of all kinds, and this causes a rise in value.

It is our purpose, as set forth in our constitution, to work together, and to "co-operate in all measures tending to develop the growth of the city of Salem and the state of Oregon."

To promote the improvement of our roads and streets.

To encourage factories of all kinds, and to secure a new transcontinental line of railroad by the promise of our united efforts and substantial aid, and to secure to ourselves a just recognition, in a ligitimate manner, of our services in the development of this city and the country hereabout.

The association is in the interest of every person and property holder of the land, and in this light we desire you to regard it, and we request that if you have a lot, house, farm or any real estate to sell, or a friend of yours desires to sell, list it with some firm or company who is a member of this Association. It is materially to your advantage to do so, since by so listing, it is open for sale by each member, and the chance of sale greatly increased.

If you have occasion to direct a stranger to a real estate firm, be sure that such direction is to one that belongs to the Exchange,

If you desire to buy or have a relative or friend who desires so to do, we can certainly furnish you with some of the choicest bargains and will gladly aid you to buy advantageously.

We have not been exclusive in this organization but have invited every dealer in town to join it, and hereby cordially invite such dealers who are now in business, or hereafter may engage, to become members and help us in this work.

In closing, we desire to say that the real estate business, like all other branches of trade, has engaged in it those who are known as "bush-whackers" or "curb stone operators" "given to ways that are dark, and tricks that are vain." Some of these operators have offices, while others have not. They are unwilling to share a part of that absolutely necessary expense of advertising abroad but lie in wait here to pounce upon those brought from away through the efforts of the enterprising dealers, and reap that which is not legitimately theirs. There are many other small and queer tricks resorted to by these "bushwhackers" that work injury not only to real estate dealers but to the good name of the city and country in general. In some future communication we may be compelled, in self-defense, to point out some of these tricks. It is only necessary to add here that these dealers should receive no recognition from responsible business men who are desirous of seeing a large amount of money expended at this time in such a manner as to bring buyers from abroad, for therein hinges the whole situation.
