Two Children Narrowly Escape Being Killed by a Lion.

FRESNO, Nov. 20.—Joseph J. Street, a farmer residing near Centerville, and the larger part of the population of that place and vicinity, are now on a hunt in the mountains for a California lion. During the past two months farmers living east of Centerville have missed numbers of calves and lambs, but attributed the loss to coyotes or bears. Traps were set for both these beasts, which in early days always proved fatal to such intruders.

Last Wednesday Farmer Hazelton, living in King's river canyon, claimed to have seen a California lion prowling around his sheep camp, but his story was discredited by his neighbors.

Early this morning two children of Mr. Street, a boy aged 12 and a girl aged 9, while on their way to school driving a horse to a buggy, were attacked by a California lion in King's river swamp. The animal made a spring out of the bushes, landing on the horse's back, but was thrown off by the violent plunging of the terrified horse.

The buggy was completely smashed, the children being thrown out, but fortunately they sustained no serious injuries. The lion disappeared in the undergrowth as suddenly as it had appeared. Several persons examined the tracks made by the beast and had no doubt that they were those of a California lion. The animal had probably wandered along the river banks from its mountain fastness and becoming hungry made the attack, but was scared off by the cries of the children.

It has been a long time since a lion has been chased so far away from its usual haunts far up in the Sierra.

Trouble Over Indian Lands.

PIERRE, S. D., Nov. 20.—There is a promise of other complications in the Fort Pierre land trouble. The citizens think they have discovered that the land next to the mile square, which they claim as a town site, is a school section, and on that score are taking up land and erecting buildings thereon. The Indians and squaw men had taken up the land in severality and are trying to make trouble. They threaten to tear the buildings down.

Plenty of eggs at Geer & Co.'s fish market, on Court street.

PHILOMATH NOTES.

PHILOMATH, Or., Nov. 19, '89.

Some of the Radical students seranaded our little village, one night last week.

Joe Wilcox has moved his barber shop in the law office, one door north of J. E. Henkle's store.

Bishop Hott preached a very able discourse in the M. E. church last Sunday to a large audience.

The Liberals of the U. B. church gave the Radicals official notice today to move out of all the buildings belonging to the church, also to turn over to the legal officers all other property belonging to the church or college.

Bishop H. J. Becker, delivered a very interesting lecture last Wednesday evening at Whitney's hall. His subject was, the Warp and Woof of human life. He will also favor us with one of his Oriental lectures Wednesday evening, the 27th, at the M. E. church. The bishop is a very able speaker and always has a large audience.

Shuffle the Deck

EDITOR JOURNAL: A city election is near at hand and inasmuch as we are all anxious to see the city prosper and each and every part grow, and the people have a fair deal, it might be good policy to select good square-dealing men who know the difference between the highest and lowest bid on any subject of financial importance and men not interested in any scheme calculated to bias their actions toward any new enterprises that may be inaugurated. Men who are not under obligations to the powers that be, (and are), who can and will act freely and squarely with all concerned. And really, after so long "a deal" as we have had the deck might be shuffled once more with propriety.
