DON'T fail to read Saturday's JOURNAL. It will contain news of interest to every citizen in the city.

IN voting for city councilmen be careful and do not cast your vote for anyone that you have not full evidence that such candidate will be in for the advancement of the city.

THE course of true love is too rough to run smooth when it comes to muddy coffee and heavy biscuits—there's a damn at that point.

"WHAT became of the Mayflower?" is the latest historical conundrum. She was owned by the East India company, but that corporation had two ships of the name, and one sank in East India waters, off Masulipatam, according to Sir Edwin Arnold. But this was not the one we came over on.

THE head of the Pillsbury mills in the Northwest, which are reported to have been purchased by an English syndicate, has one peculiarity that marks him as unique among all men. He points with the toe of one boot. When he is conversing, if he wants to indicate something to be seen out of the window, or a paragraph in a paper in his hand, or a book upon a shelf near by, he never uses his finger. He aims the toe of one foot at the object and goes on with his talk.

THE war on trusts in Missouri seems to be carried on with great vigor. The state recently passed a stringent law against the union of corporations for the sake of monopolizing any branch of trade or manufacturing, and in enforcing it has declared forfeited the charters of about 1000 corporations that refused to obey it. A legal battle will probably follow over the validity of the law, and if the state authorities be upheld there will be more respect paid to the law in old Missouri.

THE boldness and ingenuity of the dealers in Chinese women know no bounds. No sooner is the merchant's wife device blocked than they try a new scheme. They supply a woman with papers declaring that she is a sole trader, a merchant in her own right, and that she actually hires her husband to aid her in business. The absurdity of this plea lies in the fact that no Oriental would recognize a woman in any transaction, but these fellows count on the favor of the commissioners, to whom every Chinese admitted means a good fee.

A PECULIARITY about the blind is that there is seldom one of them who smokes. Soldiers and sailors accustomed to smoking, and who have lost their sight in action, continue to smoke for a short while, but soon give up the habit. They say that it gives them no pleasure when they cannot see the smoke, and some have said that they cannot taste the smoke unless they see it. This almost demonstrates the theory that if you blindfold a man in a room full of smoke, and put a lighted and an unlighted cigar in his mouth alternately he will not be able to tell the difference.

It is not an idle cry that is being raised against the emigration of Mormons to the rich prairie lands in the northwest territory of Canada. If the Saints are allowed full liberty there they will soon found a colony that will be practically independent of the Dominion government. If unchecked by laws which all civilized people have passed against polygamy, the Mormons will reproduce in that remote region all the iniquities of the system of government and morals that has struck such deep root in Utah.

We carry a great many such letters," said Pullman Car Porter Alsop, as he tucked a well-filled envelope in his inside pocket and dropped a shining quarter in his tip-receptacle. "There is hardly a trip but I carry out several letters to mail at different points along the road. What does it mean? Well, I can't say exactly, but I would not be surprised if it was all done for the purpose of fooling somebody. You see there are times when a man wishes to make it appear that he is at a certain place when he is really miles away from that very spot. It is very easy to drop a few lines to the folks at home and give the letter to one of us to mail. I carried such letters when there was considerable stake, and we always get very well paid for it, too."

A WANT of confidence, especially by the older citizens of our city, is the great stumbling block to the future growth and advancement of Salem. Should the energetic and liberal-minded people of Tacoma, Seattle or Spokane halt once in their faith and efforts to build up those cities, what would be the consequence? Capital would seek other fields and stagnation of business certainly follow. How is it with Salem? And the project of a Motor line into our city is met with rebuff. The streets are too valuable to be used for this purpose! Does anyone imagine the franchises already given by the city to street railways, etc., is a detriment to the city's prosperity? Tho' they do occupy a few feet of our wide, pleasant streets, we say invite all and everything that will increase the wealth, beauty and population of one of the handsomest cities of the northwest.

"HOWDY" IN THIRTEEN COUNTRIES "How do you do?" That's English and American. "How do you carry yourself?" That's French. "How do you stand?" That's Italian. "How do you find yourself?" That's German. "How do you fare?" That's Dutch. "How can you?" That's Swedish. "How do you persevere?" That's Egyptian. "How is your stomach? Have you eaten your rice?" That's Chinese. "How do you have yourself?" That's Polish. "How do you live on?" That's Russian. "May thy shadow never be less." That's Persian. "How is your body?" That's Turkish. And all the above mean the same.

ABOUT fourteen miles from Pittsburg, Pa., at the little village of Harmony, may be found the remains of one of the most peculiar religious communities ever established in the United States. Early in the present century, about 1812, a number of Germans, under the leadership of George Rapp, laid out the settlement. Their aim was to follow the example of the apostles as related in the Acts of those personages in the Holy Scriptures. With this end in view they established a community and held all property in common. The family relations were sustained for a number of years, but finally the entire community became celibates, the husbands and wives living apart. As a natural outcome the population of the little village became less and less. Gradually the children that were children grew up to be men and women, and the community became absolutely childless. No shrill screams of the babe in arms, or happy laughter or romping thoughtless children was to be heard in the apostolic community. Mothers that had been mothers forgot their maternal instincts and grew old before their time. Maidens, who in most any other part of our broad realm would have had a bright and joyous future before them, faded into shadowy old maids and more shadowy old women almost before their dresses had been lengthened in a manner suitable to be worn by the matured female sex. At one time the community numbered over 1,000 souls, to-day the entire population consists of less than 30 decrepit old men and women. While rapidly vanishing from the face of the earth, the community prospered wonderfully in a financial way. In early times they bought a vast tract of timber land solely for the wood and lumber it contained. In after years this same tract was the center of the oil producing regions of the Keystone State.

They were abundantly rich: ready, yet riches poured in upon them in a steady stream. They had and have no prospect of heirs to the millions that must soon be left to the commonwealth, when the last surviving member of the peculiar organization seeks the bourne from which no traveler returns. Visitors to Harmony, who have taken with them their babes and little ones, tell to us of the survivors of the apostolic community weep and passionately care for the children before they and their parents leave the happy spot for the hum, bustle and noise of the outside world.

Jonah the Second. S. W. Kiesler, late commander's clerk, United States Navy, now a resident of Honesdale, Pa., told the following story to a Philadelphia Press reporter of a very remarkable experience of an American sailor with a whale. He says: George Leonard, an acting master in the United States Navy during the civil war, and stationed on board the gun-boat Katahdin, West Gulf blockading squadron, in 1863, told a story of heroism, and exhibited marks on his body that corroborated his words. The year 1850 found Leonard as one of the crew on the ship Enterprise, a Whaler in the North Pacific.

One day he was stationed in the bow of a whaleboat a long distance from the ship, with a brave crew who had sighted a whale and made for the monster with all possible dispatch. When within proper distance Leonard threw his harpoon, striking the fish hard and deep. In some manner the line as it was running out caught the body of one of the men in such a way as to throw him overboard. The man suddenly sank, whereupon Leonard transferred his line to a boatmate and sprang into the ocean in aid of the drowning sailor.

The whale, now maddened by his fast flowing blood, made a rush for the boat. Remarkable and horrible to relate, Leonard's friend had managed to regain the boat, while he himself was caught by the whale between the jaws, his position being inside the monster's mouth, with nothing protruding but one of his arms. In this manner the man was in reality within the jaws of death itself. The whale instantly plunged down into the deep, and in the words of Leonard himself, "the fish seemed to be going down, down into eternity itself."

The imprisoned man, after all this, had not lost his presence of mind. He mustered his entire bodily strength—and he was a powerful man—actually bracing himself in such a position as to compel the fish to spread his jaws. At the same time, with his arm that was free, he grabbed the sheath knife out of its socket, cutting right and left. No sooner was there a sufficient opening made than Leonard forced his body outside.

Up to the surface he swam, when, most strange to say, he found himself within an arm's length of the boat. He was saved. The marks of the whale's violence and the dents of its teeth were very plainly visible on Leonard's arms, and he was always pointed out by his brother naval officers as "The second Jonah."

Bathing by Machinery. One of the latest inventions in sanitation is machinery for personal washing. A French colonel, according to Edwin Chadwick, ascertained that he could wash his men with tepid water for a centime, or one-tenth of a penny a head, soap included. The man undresses, steps into a tray of water and soaps himself, when a jet of tepid water is played upon him. He then dries and dresses himself in five minutes, against twenty minutes in the bath, and with five gallons of water against seventy in the usual bath. In Germany they have an arrangement under which half a million soldiers are regularly washed. By an adaptation of apparatus to the use of schools, a child may be completely washed in three minutes.—Science Monthly.

A Taste of Luxury Once a Year. A hoary-headed old tramp, rich with the experience of years, reaped a rich harvest yesterday. Leaning heavily upon his staff, he would approach a polling-place. An embassy would hurry forward to receive him. He would remark that his old limbs were chilled and he would warm-up a bit before casting his vote. Borne into a saloon, he would then be treated to the warmest and best potions in the house. By-and-by he would say: "What district is this?" and being answered would exclaim: "Ah! I am in such a district," and then march slowly away to work other places in the same manner.—Buffalo Courier.

CAUSE OF THE GROWL.

"What are you growling at, sir?" "At the amount you are eating, sir! Have you no regard for the feelings of a dyspeptic, sir?" "No sir! Go and take a course of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla and you won't have the dyspepsia, sir!" John Arrall, of 628 Golden Gate avenue, writes: "You may also use my name as an additional authority that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla will cure dyspepsia and liver and kidney complaint. It has done it for me." James Wells, Oakland, Cal., writes: "I suffered acutely from dyspepsia for years, scarcely taking a meal without the distressing pains of indigestion. Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla relieved me of it entirely."

Catarrh

is a constitutional and not a local disease, and therefore it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the disease, and affects a permanent cure. Thousands of people testify to the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for catarrh when other preparations had failed. Hood's Sarsaparilla also builds up the whole system, and makes you feel renewed in health and strength.

Catarrh

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effect to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without Hood's Sarsaparilla in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold." Mrs. G. B. GIBB, 108 Eighth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

A one-legged colored man whom the Seattle police were after the other day took refuge in a cellar, barred the door and defied the whole force. Since then he has been sent to the Tacoma jail, from which he has escaped three times.

She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Gutz. Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co. Shelby, N. C.—Get a free trial bottle at Daniel J. Fry's drug store.

The Verdant Unanimous.

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of two years' standing. Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at Daniel J.
