Cold Waves
Are predicted with reliable accuracy, and people liable to the pains and aches of rheumatism dread every change to damp or stormy weather. Although Hood's Sarsaparilla is not claimed to be a positive specific for rheumatism, the remarkable cures it has effected show that it may be taken for this complaint with reasonable certainty of benefit. Its action in neutralizing the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of rheumatism, constitutes the secret of the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla. If you suffer from rheumatism, give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial; it will do you good.

SALEM TO NEWPORT!
A Committee From Newport in the City To-Day.

LET 'EM COME! MORE THE BETTER!
An Enthusiastic Meeting this Morning
—Proposed Road From Newport, King's Valley to Salem.

Last evening a committee appointed by the Newport Board of Trade, arrived in the city and signified their desire to meet with the Salem Board of Trade, accordingly President John Wright called a meeting of the board at 11 o'clock this morning at the parlors of the Capital National bank.
At the appointed hour quite a number of prominent citizens were on hand and a few minutes after 11 o'clock President John Wright called the meeting to order, with I. A. Manning as secretary. President Wright then stated the object of the meeting, and said that a committee from Newport was on hand to see what could be done toward constructing a broad gauge railroad from Newport through Salem.
The committee from Newport, consisting of Messrs. Shepherd, Baker and Case were present, and Mr. Shepherd was called by the chair, and in a few brief words set forth the object of their coming. He said that last year a company was organized to build a road from Newport to King's valley, or to Astoria a distance of 48 miles. The line would pass through the Siletz Indian reservation as the company had been granted that right by an act of congress. After the arrangement had been almost completed it had been decided to see what could be done toward extending the line on to Salem. Mr. Shepherd said that the road would pass through a wonderful timber district and also through vast coal fields now in the hands of capitalists who were preparing to develop them as soon as an outlet could be obtained.
The line will be the shortest outlet to the sea and to one of the best harbors on the coast almost.
A few days ago a government examination was made on the bar, while the tide was out, and in the shallowest spot twenty-two feet of good water was found. The road proposed will be about seventy-five miles in length from Newport to Salem, and the heaviest grade encountered will be seventy feet to the mile, which is considered first-class. Anything under eighty feet is considered first-class. He further stated that the road would be built to King's Valley from Newport, even if Salem did not take an interest in the matter.
Mr. J. H. Albert replied, that Salem is now preparing to build a road to Astoria but that did not put any hindrance on aiding and assisting any other road to our city. The building of the Astoria road he thought would enhance the value of property in Salem 10 per cent, therefore for every road assisted in building to Salem we could be that much more able each time to assist.
"Votes from all over the room said 'we want to see the road built and will do our part. The more roads we can assist the better, must have them.'"
Mr. Cottle the enterprising and energetic manager of the State Insurance company said, "our people will join heartily and will give liberally toward this enterprise."
Mr. Cottle then moved that a committee from the Salem Board of Trade be appointed to confer with the Newport Board of Trade, carried.
Mr. Case stated that a survey would soon be made and the location of the road established. From Astoria to Newport it is 48 miles and from Astoria to Salem 27 miles. Mr. Case stated further that the committee felt highly pleased and complimented from the reception they had received at the hands of the Salem people. He said he was surprised at the enterprise and vision going on in Salem and thought it all could be laid to the fact that we were to build the road to the sea. The meeting then adjourned amid great enthusiasm.

A WORD FOR SALEM.
She Has Dangerous Enemies Within Her Midst—A Bomb Thrown Into Their Camp.
[Republished from yesterday's JOURNAL by request of many citizens.]
The JOURNAL, from the time of its birth, has fought for the interests of Salem and her citizens, but never for the interest of any corporation or individual, and to this course does it owe its present success.
Times have been when there were things going on in the city that were against the interests of the citizens, and to show them up properly it took a certain amount of cash patronage away from the JOURNAL, yet, with its motto on the wall, "For the People," it never flinched, but proceeded to do its duty, and in the end it is crowned by the patronage and respect of the best citizens.
A short time ago a lively boom was inaugurated at Astoria, and as our morning contemporary became indirectly interested in a small tract of land near there, since that time its editorial columns have been ablaze with the bright future of Astoria. Thus it will be seen that a Salem paper that gets its bread and butter out of the business men of Salem is using its might and influence against the best interests of these same business men who have so long given it the bread of life.
This is very ungrateful, to say the least. They would, from their actions, "kill the goose that lays the golden egg."
The citizens of Salem are now asking the question, "Why does that paper jeopardize the interest of its home town for those of Astoria?" The JOURNAL answers this question in these words.—"The proprietors of that sheet are interested over there, and now would subvert the interests of the men who have nursed them from poverty, for their own personal ends. It is a burning shame, to say the least.
To invest in Astoria or any other property is no crime. The JOURNAL is glad to see any of our citizens place their money where it will do them the most good, but when a newspaper which is supposed to voice the sentiments and interests of its own city, converts its editorial force into an organ for its own speculations, it is time to call a halt! We are sure the real friends of Salem—the men who expect to make their homes here, and whose interests are identical with those of our city—will uphold the JOURNAL when it insists that our home interests should be held sacred above those of any personal speculations. If the Statesman wants to make itself an outside organ, the sooner the people know it the better. If Astoria is a better town for them than Salem they had better move their concern over to the city on the coast and make room here for real friends of our city, and not infest our town as a wolf in sheep's clothing.
The JOURNAL is for Salem, first, last and all the time, and is willing that Astoria papers shall do all in their power for Astoria, but we do object to having a Salem paper turn traitor to its own commonwealth and influence capital away, which would otherwise be spent at home, and profitably invested in Salem.
We want a railroad to the sea, and Astoria is the place for the road to terminate. The road will be a blessing to both cities, and every property owner in each place can afford to subscribe liberally for the enterprise.

Only ten cents a week for the JOURNAL hereafter, the best paper in Salem.
A PECULIAR CASE.—A case of peculiar interest to our citizens in general, is now in the courts. It appears that a young German named Schlegel held a five-year lease on a farm of Geo. Callier, south of this city. Said lease was subject to the sale of the farm, and would terminate whenever the place was sold entire. It appears further that Bartlett & Callier, real estate agents of this city, had found purchasers for some small tracts of the farm, if it could be divided, and sold piecemeal. To this, however, Schlegel, as a matter of course, objected, so Callier one day inclosed out to the place and reports falsely that he had sold the farm entire, and that the lease thereon would therefore terminate and "go." Callier then says to Schlegel that he will sell off his personal property for him. To this the German objected, saying that he could sell his effects himself, and this he does. Callier, however, figures in the matter in a questionable way and then claims a five per cent commission, and upon Schlegel's refusing to pay the claim has him arrested as an absconding debtor. Schlegel then would say the law favors him and go to jail. The German gets bond, however, appears to justice to have a court and successfully defeats the claim, it taking the jury but five minutes to decide in favor of Schlegel. Callier now has filed notice of appeal to the circuit court, and the German says he will bring suit for damages against Callier and his bondsman. The justice will sit in place of the trial, with such instructions of course, hoping that such sharp practice as has been mentioned may be properly punished.

A BURN TRAY.—The learner to be given by the ladies of the M. E. church, on the afternoon and evening of the 18th inst, promises every attraction. A Japanese table will be a special feature, besides the doll, fancy work and candy tables, and refreshment tables. A short literary program will be given early in the evening. No admission charged.

M. E. Church.—Tomorrow morning's subject, "Seraphim of the Heart." Evening Addresses to young women. All welcome.
