A BRUTAL FATHER.

DRIVEN BY TORTURE TO KILL HIS OWN FATHER.

A Story of Barbarous and Fiendish Cruelty as Practiced by an Inhuman Father.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 20.—A horrible tale of the alleged barbarous cruelty of George A. Guenther, the defenseless old man, who was slain by his sixteen-year old son yesterday, was related to-day by Charles Guenther, elder brother of the murderer. The son's story brands the dead man as a savage fiend who delighted in acts of inhumanity toward his children. Among other barbarities alleged was chaining up the children in a dismal apartment, nude, and while in that condition torturing them with all the cruelties practiced in the institution.

"I have not lived at home for five years," said Charles Guenther. "I left home after one period of slow torture that made me desperate. I had done something that my father did not like. It was a small offense, but the way my father tortured me would make one believe either that he was crazy or I had committed some terrible crime. My father made me go up-stairs with him to a room in the back part of the house. Here he brought out some chains, and when I caught sight of them I set up an outcry, but no one heard me. My father shouted to me to stop that infernal noise, and when he found he could not frighten me he jumped at me and we had a regular fight.

"Finally he got the better of me, and by threatening to do me even greater violence, compelled me to keep quiet. He began to bind me with those chains. When I thought he had done he took up another one and fastened it around my neck, and fixed it so that I could hardly move my head. Then he left me for several hours, during which I suffered fiendish torture.

"After a lapse of a few hours he came up stairs with a bottle of whisky. He released me from the chains and compelled me to strip from head to foot until I stood nude before him. Then he chained me up and took a good-sized pin and began pricking me with it from head to foot, until I was bleeding all over. My father then wet his finger from the bottle and rubbed over what seemed to me every sore he had made on my body. He did not rub over my whole body at once, but would rub over a small space until all the stuff had been rubbed in, when he would wet his fingers again and begin on another place. The pain was excruciating. I must have fainted, for I remained in that room all night, chained up, and did not know anything until the next morning, when I was released. After that I ran away."

The boy Emile, who has been held for beating his father to death, acts like an imbecile and it is believed that he has been driven insane by the cruelty of his father and the tragedy of yesterday. To-day he failed to recognize his own brother, and when appealed to almost supplicatingly for recognition, a silly smile was his only response.

Good Appointments For Oregon.

In yesterday's JOURNAL appeared the list of federal appointments for Oregon. That list undoubtedly clouded the brow of many an anxious office-seeker, yet from the best information to be gathered in this neck of the woods the appointments as a whole give general satisfaction to the people. Ambitious politicians in different parts of the State may not be suited with all these appointments, yet so long as the welfare of the people at large is considered and guarded Oregon's statesmen who are responsible for them can rest easy in the satisfaction of knowing that they have done their duty, in securing the greatest good for the greatest number of people. It is no easy task for our senators and representative in Washington to undertake to satisfy everybody. They must look out for the best general interest of the party and the people, and in this instance all fair minded and unprejudiced persons must congratulate them on the result.

The appointment of Hon. Louis Barin as marshal, is received with great rejoicing by his ever-faithful constituents. Mr. Earhart's appointment as collector of customs at Portland is good, and evidences his high standing with the people at the metropolis. Col. Weidner will make a faithful collector of Uncle Sam's revenues, while Mr. Mays, of the Revenues, is considered one of the ablest lawyers in the state, and will make a creditable district attorney. W. H. Byars is one of the old school of professional men, and will take great pride in filling the office of surveyor-general of Oregon, with the best ability that is in him. He is able and perfectly reliable. Of the other appointments the JOURNAL cannot speak with knowledge, but it is willing to trust to the good judgment of the men who named them. We cannot tell how well the various other localities are pleased with the result, but for Marion county we can say it is gratifying and meets with the heartiest approval of the leading republicans and business men generally.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

The University band played the chapel march Thursday.

A. W. Boyersox, of Jefferson, witnessed chapel exercises Wednesday, and took a look through his Alma mater.

W. W. King, an old-time student, but now located at Helix, Or., and Percy Jory were at chapel Friday. Come again, boys, we are glad to see you.

The two forenoon trains took away many merry students who were glad to have the privilege of spending a few days at home. We hope they may return looking as they did this morning.

Miss Jennie M. Long, left yesterday for Montana, on a three weeks' vacation. She expects to give a number of public readings during her absence. We wish her a pleasant trip and a safe return.

The Philodorian has a very interesting debate last evening on the question, Resolved, That a republican form of government is the most stable. The question was decided in the affirmative.

Miss Callista Moores left this morning for her home in St. Helens. Miss Day went as far as Portland, Miss Booth departed on the 11 o'clock train for her home at Turner. And Misses Sue and Ruth Harrington took the 1 o'clock train for their home at Mt. Tabor.

Hon. C. K. Jenner, of Seattle, spent a few days in the city visiting his daughter, Miss Helen of the Woman's college. He returned home yesterday accompanied by his daughter, and Miss Cleveland, of Seattle, and Miss Jacks, of Tacoma, who will spend Christmas at their respective homes.

Mrs. Grubb entertained about fifty of her pupils at the Woman's college last evening. Games, music and recitations were the amusements of the evening, and were enjoyed by all our young friends of the East school who had the pleasure of being present. Before departing Mrs. Grubb's pupils presented her with a very handsome Christmas present.
