Catarth. Catarth Deafness-Hay Fever-A New Home Treatment. Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result of this discovery is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarth, catarth deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks.

N. B.-This treatment is not a snuff or an ointment; both have been discarded by reputable physicians as injurious. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on receipt of stamp to pay postage, by A. H. Dixon & Son, 337 and 339 West King Street, Toronto, Canada.-Christian Advocate.

Sufferers from Catarth troubles should carefully read the above. 1-1-1y-eod

A circular has been addressed to the artists of the Dresden State theater, warning them that for the future it will be considered a breach of discipline to accept offerings of flowers and other tokens of admiration, or in any way to recognize the presence of the audience during the performance of serious operas and dramas. This regulation has been in force for some years at Vienna and other places in Germany.

A father sued an English schoolmaster for assault, because he had caned his boy on the hand. The magistrate before whom it was first tried thought that the father was right, for the reason that caning on the hand was attended by a risk of injury, and there were "methods of corporal punishment quite as available, efficacious, and not necessarily attended by any risk, which the defendant might have used." The higher court, though, decided that it was not actionable.

Jules Verne says, in a recent interview, that he regretted not being able to call on Mr. Edison when the latter was in Paris. "I am an invalid," said he. "I was shot at four years ago by a nephew of mine - a capital fellow, who used to be very fond of me, and to whom I was devoted. Ten minutes after we had met one day he drew a revolver and, without a word of warning, fired at me twice. He had gone stark mad and is now in an asylum."

Go With the Crowd!

THE FALL OF THE BEAUTIFUL. Salem was visited by a slight snow fall this morning so as to make it appear more like New Year's and this afternoon it looks as if the old woman who is picking geese in the sky will resume vigorous operations before nightfall. This morning on some lawns the strange sight of flowers raising their faces above the light blanket of snow might be seen. This is not on every lawn, but some lawns, and is published for the benefit of our Eastern friends. The snow melts rapidly, and usually is not to be seen 2 hours after its fall. Children enjoyed a few hours of sledding on the hill streets early this morning, to the imminent peril of pedestrians. The sidewalks were not wide enough for some people this morning, and they took to the middle of the street.

UNRELIABLE FIGURES. - The morning contemporary to-day says that the JOURNAL's pay-roll is $3,600 per year, and that the Statesman's is $12,000. We congratulate the Statesman on being able to pay so much, and if the JOURNAL company were to pay its officers big salaries, it might also materially swell its pay-roll. But the question naturally arises, how do they know what the JOURNAL's pay-roll is? They have not taken the trouble to inquire, but simply state that insignificant figure to the more contrast their padded or pretended pay-roll. The JOURNAL simply wants to suggest that if all the figures given in their boom editorials are no more accurate than those concerning the newspaper pay-rolls, they are not very reliable.

HELL WAS FULL. - The following incident is said to have happened during a performance of Faust in Dublin: Satan was conducting Faust through the trap door which represented the gates of hell. His imperial majesty got through all right - he was used to going below - but Faust, who was stout, got only half way in, and no squeezing would get him any farther. Suddenly an Irishman in the gallery exclaimed: "Thank Heaven! hell is full."

PUSHING AHEAD. - The work on the Electric Railway is progressing nicely, yet the work is greatly retarded by five car loads of steel rails, fishplates and numerous fixtures. The material is on the road somewhere, and has been over due for the past two or three weeks. Just as soon as it arrives then it will not be long until the work will make a permanent showing as there is only a certain amount of grading can be done.

LEVY CONCERT. - Arrangements are about completed for the appearance in this city of the great Levy family. This will be a grand treat and if you have not yet signified your intentions of attending, do so at once, and place your name on the list now open at T. McF. Patton's.

FUNERAL NOTICE. - The funeral of the late M. G. Laue will be conducted from the South Salem school building at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Rollins will conduct the ceremonies.

KEEP IT. - Geo. D. Goodhue, No. 95 State street keeps on hand constantly all kinds of wood, sawed and un-sawed.

DRIVEN IN BY SNOW. - A special to the Herald from Coe, dated December 31, says that on account of heavy snow storms all work has been suspended on the Oregon Pacific for the present. Orman & Crook are breaking through camps and the track laying force, under Superintendent U. A. Stevens, left for Albany to-day. A heavy snow storm has been raging since Sunday noon, and still continues. Messrs Orman & Crook did not propose to quit work on account of any light snow, but there is now three feet of snow at the end of the track, and six feet on their work, and they have been compelled to stop. They will take their stock to Albany, and leave all their supplies at their camps to resume work as soon as the snow goes off. A heavy engine and a snow plow is expected from Yaquina to open the track to take out their men and stock. The engineers of the Oregon Pacific and all the men employed in the work of construction will arrive in Albany within a few days. The snow does not extend further west than Mill City, but at the extreme front the snow is most wintry, and the contractors have exercised good judgment in withdrawing their men until the snow goes off, as at present every indication points to a deep snow fall. S. B. Maher, who went up to remove the outfit of Antonelle & Doe, was compelled to leave it in three feet of snow at Boulder Creek. The force of bridge men, under Superintendent F. J. Miller, are at Boulder Creek, awaiting the engine and snow plow to take them out. All the men have plenty of provisions and the camps are supplied with good houses, so that they will not suffer.
