TOO DISGUSTINGLY TRUE.

The Asylum and Penitentiary Sewer Discharging its Poison into Mill Creek.

The JOURNAL was informed yesterday evening that the big sewer from the penitentiary and asylum was broken where it crosses North Mill creek and was discharging its contents into the creek. Not wishing to give circulation to such a serious discovery without detailed information, a representative of the JOURNAL was sent to ascertain its truth or otherwise.

Repairing to the scene, the reporter found the report all too true. At the east end of Court street and within the creek near its west bank, the sewer is broken, one length of the sewer pipe being thrown up on end against the bank, and the whole drainage is discharged into the creek and is carried down (except such as is deposited along the banks, absorbed into the soil and thence into the wells) to the Williamette river.

From the wagon load or more of torn paper hanging to the willows along the creek in the vicinity, it is very evident that this state of affairs has existed in all its horrible filthiness since some time during the high water, and residents of that vicinity assert that said sewer has been leaking at that point more or less for nearly two years.

It cannot be thought possible that the city authorities were aware of this condition of things, else they would not have permitted it to exist so long, and certainly they could not have known of its total breakage without taking any steps the past two weeks to have it repaired.

When one thinks of the sewerage of those two immense state institutions, containing fully one thousand persons, being dumped into that little creek, which flows around through a thickly settled portion of the city, with the chances for seepage into wells, and with its poisonous effluvia permeating the atmosphere, the possibilities of typhoid fever and other epidemics incident to such a state of affairs arise with terribly suggestive force. Of course, during the high water and cool weather the effect has not been so deleterious as it would be in very low water or warm weather, but yet weak nerves and tender stomachs can scarcely contemplate such a deposit of fetid matter under their very noses with any degree of pleasure.

The JOURNAL has no doubt the city authorities will take immediate steps to remedy this evil and thus preserve the health of the people of our fair city, which is the only object this paper has in thus sounding the notes of warning, as it always intends and expects to be first in doing when the health or welfare of the people is considered in danger from any source.

FIRE IN NORTH SALEM.—This morning about 8 o'clock fire was discovered in the Billy Stanton house in North Salem, which is occupied by Jack Lemon. The house is situated on Broadway, about six blocks from the North Salem Mill creek, and the alarm soon spread all over the immediate vicinity and help was soon on hand. The fire originated from a defective flue and set fire to the upstairs floor, from there spreading to the front of the building, and the entire building was only saved from total destruction by hard work on the part of the neighbors. Engine Company No. 3, started for the scene, but credit must be given to the bucket brigade in this instance, as they got first water on the fire.

GANG REDUCED BY OFFICERS.—The Southern Pacific Railroad company sent out from Portland by last evening's train a gang of twenty-two men in charge of a foreman, destined for Cow Creek canyon to assist in repair work there. As the train reached Oregon City, the sheriff of Clackamas county stepped aboard and arrested one of the gang on a charge of highway robbery, and a little further along a deputy sheriff from Lane county, who was aboard, took another of them in charge upon an accusation of obtaining money under false pretenses. The foreman then began to think that if all the sheriffs came on board as he passed up the valley, he would be about the only one left when Cow Creek was reached, but at last accounts no more officers molested them.

CHANGE OF OWNERSHIP.—Mr. James Aitken, who, during the past three years, has successfully managed the business of the Grange store for the Salem Co-operative Association, has purchased the interest of said association, and become sole proprietor. Mr. Aitken is an excellent business man, agreeable and accommodating; he keeps a fine stock of groceries, fresh and well selected, and the JOURNAL feels assured he will have his full share of Salem's growing trade, which he well deserves.

TWO GRAND ENTERTAINMENTS.

At the regular meeting of Protection lodge No. 2, A. O. U. W., of this city, last night arrangements were begun for two interesting social events under its auspices some time during the coming month.

One will be a grand ball to be given at Reed's opera house for the enjoyment of those to whom that form of amusement is pleasurable and unobjectionable. A committee consisting of W. S. Boggs, John M. Chase and A. J. Baisey, was appointed to perfect all details for this event and it is their intention to make it thoroughly first class in all its appointments. The best orchestra within reach will be secured, who will render a musical program during the early part of the evening for spectators and make the remainder of the night pleasant for the dancers. The other entertainment will be of a musical, literary and social character, such as this lodge has given at intervals in the past, and will be held in the hall in the State Insurance block, for the members of the order and their families. Gideon Stolz, Frank Davey and George Hoeye were appointed a committee of arrangements, with powers to see that nothing may be lacking to make this an occasion second to none of the kind heretofore provided. Dates and further particulars will be given hereafter.

GRAVELING THE STREETS.—Street Commissioner Graham is having some good work done in the line of grading up Commercial street level with the street railway track, using gravel for that purpose and gradually sloping it to the gutters. This is a very good time for such work, the surface being hard, which will cause the gravel to be leveled and pounded down in solid shape and make a smooth roadway. The work will be continued as far as possible wherever needed, the fire engine teams doing the greater part of the hauling. The recent high water piled up enough gravel in convenient places in the small streets to coat every street in the city, and it should be utilized as far as possible.

PLENTY OF TIME.—The Corvallis Times wants the citizens of that town to arrange an excursion to the world's fair at Chicago in 1892, and says: "More than likely the O. P. will have a connection with some eastern line before that date and we could charter a train in this city and be carried through to Chicago by the shortest possible route without change of cars. The company might be persuaded to donate the use of a train, for past favors; what think ye?" Bro. Johnson is bound to get his work in early and keep Corvallis awake if possible.

A LOOSE SKIFF.—This morning about 7 o'clock a lone skiff was seen floating down the river, from the foot of Union street. It was keeping well toward the middle of the river and from appearances was a good serviceable boat. It must have come from above some place and the question arises whether it broke loose or whether its occupant had fallen overboard.

BOARD OF TRADE.—Next Monday evening should occur the regular meeting of the Salem board of trade, but the annual school meeting will more than likely absorb the interest and the crowd at that time, and it is the sense of the members of the board with whom this writer has conferred that a few should come together and adjourn to some definite evening not far distant and resume active work for the opening season.

OMITTED.—The JOURNAL's society reporter unintentionally omitted the name of Miss Nellie Boise from the list of invited guests at Miss Minnie Breyman's birthday party on Tuesday evening.

David Hutchison, who was arrested at Aurora Tuesday morning, was examined by Drs. Richardson and Rowland yesterday evening and pronounced a suitable subject for the asylum, accordingly County Judge Shaw sent the poor unfortunate victim to that institution for treatment and it may be possible that he will recover by proper medical attention.

A LITTLE GRUMBLING.—Farmers living north of the city have been accustomed to entering the city by Front street, until the bridge across Mill creek was condemned a short time before the high water, and there it stands condemned yet. It would be greatly appreciated by the traveling public if these small bridges were soon in position.

Capt. E. J. Lanning, one of the prominent and public spirited capitalists of Albany, is in the city.

The Standard.—"I regard Hood's Sarsaparilla as having passed above the grade of what are commonly called patent or proprietary remedies," said a well known physician recently. "It is fully entitled to be considered a standard medicine, and has won this position by its unobscured merit and by the many remarkable cures it has effected. For an after-tive and tonic it has never been equaled."

To Home Seekers.—The Capital City railway company is prepared to tell home-seekers something to their advantage. Mr. David Simpson has taken charge of their real estate department at 115 State street. Call and see him. 1x
