A Double Life.
NEW YORK, March 28.—The fashionable suburban town of Mont Clair, N. J., is horrified over the discovery that one of her most respectable citizens, James Tutbill, a mason contractor, is a burglar, who has been robbing houses right and left for years past. He was identified by accident, one of his victims grappling with him in a house one night last week and unmasking him.

A search of his house revealed thousands of dollars worth of jewelry, money and plate hid in the cellar. Tutbill and his pretty wife are in jail. His former friends believe that he is the captain of the robber band and that his wife was his trusted lieutenant. They were both highly respected in Mont Clair, and were good church members.

The Deadly Cyclone.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 28.—The death losses from the cyclone of yesterday, amounts to hundreds. Scores of bodies have been recovered.

The cyclone was predicted by the signal service yesterday afternoon. No heed was paid to the warning. The cyclone came with scarce a warning sound and in all the buildings struck, the inhabitants were engaged in their usual vocations.

Bridget Sweeney's Sin
NEW YORK, March 28.—A Washington special in a morning paper, printed with large display, says: It is confidently stated that the mystery which surrounded the fire in Secretary Tracy's residence has been cleared up. There are well sustained rumors, that Bridget Sweeney, a trusted old servant, who has been living in the family fourteen years or more, has confessed that she fired the house with kerosene.

CONDENSED TELEGRAMS.

Grand River, Ky., has also been severely raked by a festive cyclone.

Houses by the hundreds were unroofed by the storms in Illinois this past week.

The lower Mississippi valley is threatened with the greatest flood on record.

At Des Moines, Iowa, the republican joint caucus decided against the repeal of the prohibitory law and in favor of re-submission.

A Card From Mr. Swafford.
EDITOR JOURNAL: It came to my ears last evening that a story is being told on the streets, either ignorantly, or with "interest to deceive," to the effect that four years ago, after Mr. Bell had been induced to resign the office of city treasurer, by the promise of a re-election and a guarantee to the amount of his salary for the unexpired term, I was slipped in as a candidate and beat him at the election for that office. Now nothing could be farther from the truth. Mr. Bell resigned the office and was re-elected without any opposing candidate whatever; and in fact I do not believe any opposition was for a moment thought of by anybody. On the contrary, Mr. Bell served the balance of his term and was then elected for a second term of two years.

I resigned the office for exactly the same purpose as did he, excepting the guarantee, it being represented to me by a number of the business men of Salem that a vacancy was necessary to the end that an election might be had on the bond matter; and these business men were not confined to the Center street location but came from as far south as the Chenekete hotel.

I handed in my resignation with the expectation of being a candidate for re-election on the ground that I resigned simply as an accommodation, and should not have troubled you with this communication but for the fact that there are a great many strangers among us who are not posted as to the facts in the case.

Yours for "Fair play,"
E. J. SWAFFORD.

SALEM, Or., Mar. 29, 1890.

To the Citizens of Salem.
EDITOR JOURNAL: Mr. Swafford resigned as treasurer in order that a legal opportunity might be had to vote on the bridge bonds. It is not right or just to displace him because of such commendable public spirit, and I hope he will be triumphantly re-elected. Most assuredly he ought to be. JUSTICE.

Union County Convention.

Prof. Jory called the convention to order.
Mr. Payne of Salem and Mr. Brown of Silverton were chosen secretaries.

The chairman then read a pledge, renouncing all allegiance to other parties, and proclaiming their loyalty to this convention.

Mr. Ramsby of Silverton was the first signer. He said: "I will sign it, but when they knock prohibition out they will knock me out."

Among those present were Jno. Brooks, King Hibbard, John W. Jory, Prof. Jory, W. H. H. Darby, E. J. Thurman, S. P. Darby, J. M. Brown, R. C. Ramsby, Matt Small, Henry Porter, E. M. McKinney, S. B. Crocker, J. C. Robertson.

"I am a free trade democrat, and this party is pretty strong on our principles," said a delegate.

"Pretty nearly all here are prohibitionists," said a leading W. C. T. U. lady who was present.

Mrs. Ramp asked if ladies were allowed to join the Union party. The chairman said he knew of nothing in the principles to prevent. Mesdames Raup and Leabo became members.

Mr. Jory moved to elect a county chairman. T. C. Jory was nominated, but declined, as he could not serve. He had been third party chairman but could serve no longer. He suggested Mr. Robertson. Mr. Jory nominated Mr. Payne, who also declined. Geo. W. Dimick, of Hubbard, named Mr. J. P. Robertson. It was stated that he had sold out and would be in southern part of state. Mr. Ramsby named King Hibbard, of Silverton, which was their strongest place. He declined over and over. He lived four or five miles out.

Stephen Jory, of South Salem, was nominated. He declined, as he had been out of the state a good deal. King Hibbard was chosen as county chairman. The mass convention consisted of about 50 people, 35 having signed the pledge. Mr. Bark, state organizer, was present and was invited to speak.

The committee on delegates to the state convention reported the following:
G. W. Dimick, L. S. Thomas, A. White, J. W. Jory, W. T. Rigdon, J. P. Robertson, S. B. Crocker, J. D. Hurst, W. S. Hurst, L. Barzee, G. W. Bachelior, J. G. Eberhard, K. L. Hibbard, R. C. Ramsby, H. ### UNIVERSITY NOTES.

The coming term, will close the third term of the school year.

The literary societies will give an open meeting in their hall next Friday evening.

J. H. Bruce and F. L. Moore spent a few days the latter part of the week visiting at Wheatland.

Several students will leave school at the end of this term to teach, and to enter on the duties of the farm.

B. C. Camp was the successful contestant of the declaimers on Wednesday for a set of Dickens' works.

The university mandolin club was out serenading Thursday evening and felt greatly encouraged by being invited to come around again.

Miss Carrie Royal, of the junior class, entertained the members of her class with a few invited friends at Prof. Arnold's last evening in a very enjoyable manner. The evening was spent in games and social converse.

The students have petitioned the faculty to prohibit the driving of teams across the east side of the campus, which is intended for the play grounds. Many of the express men of the city seem to think that the campus is a public highway, and in order to save a few cents distance drive through the campus, thereby keeping the grounds cut up in a horrible condition.

Arbor day was observed in a very appropriate style, by the students yesterday, many of the classes having planted choice trees, with very imposing ceremonies. The senior class in music rendered a short but excellent program, before planting their "Royal Aun" cherry tree, consisting of music readings and annals; closing with a class poem, written and arranged for the occasion. The following is the song:

The year nifty came sailing on
To the snow and frost and rain;
The grog and mumps have come and Gone.
Class day is here again.
There's nothing troubles us so much
As coming point, can't and such,
The' now we plant a tree.
This little tree and of its kind
Gives income fruit to all
And shall our work to seek the future
In future live or fail;
Will memory in future years
Hold dear (Friday) and tree,
A student of our own and years,
And bear that others see.
Chorus:—Oh! our class-tree a useful tree,
A tree for old and man,
It cost a shade of our savings free;
And for our "Royal Aun."

At the base of their tree was buried a sealed jar containing a copy of the Oregonian, CAPITAL JOURNAL, Willamette Collegian, a copy of their song and a piece in counterpoint containing names of members of the class.

After the work was all completed and the ceremonies around the trees were concluded the university band put in their appearance on the grounds and gave a demonstration of what they can do in their line, which seems to have been appreciated by all.

JOINT DEBATE.

The Philodorian accepted the challenge from the Alka Hesperians to have a joint discussion on some appropriate subject. A committee was appointed to meet the committee from the Alkas to perfect all arrangements. There was some hesitation on the part of the boys in accepting a challenge to debate with the learned friends of the neighbor society, but after considering the subject it was concluded a benefit would accrue to both societies—to the Alkas in infusing a greater interest in their society and to the Philodorian in hearing the learned discourses of their worthy opponents.

The Bridge Question.

EDITOR JOURNAL: I am not going to rot, "Bridges" and "Good Bridges" personalities, though, knowing him as well as if he had signed his real name. Much in that line of an interesting and instructive character might be mentioned. However one-sided the vote of Monday may be, there is no doubt that the defeat of the bond proposition would result in a better bridge and just as quickly obtained. With such defeat the project of patching up the old bridge would be dead. The counties would then start anew, more intelligently, and with better purpose, giving us a permanent bridge which would last a century and be a credit to us. And we would get it just as quickly, for no sane work can be done in the river before the low water of July or August. There would be plenty of time to start anew, and start right.

STEED.
