- June 2. General election, for county, state and congress.

This is the republican field day for Marion county.

The bicycle is quite popular at Salem, and nearly enough wheels are ready to form a club here.

The Real Estate Review of Portland, now has a weekly issue of 5000 copies and is ably edited by Graham Burnham. It is a very creditable publication in every respect.

SIG. SUCCI claims to have invented a liquid which enables a man to go without solid food. He has found, what a good many men of this country seem for a long time to have been hunting.

DEMOCRATS, the republicans of Multnomah and other counties are rent into factions which make bright prospects for a democratic victory in the state.—That will not work, Mr. democrat. Republicans are rational beings.

The Chinese are going home. The Mormons are proposing to colonize in British Columbia. Pretty soon the last democratic state treasurer will have vamoosed for Canada with all he can carry. The country is picking up all around.

THE JOURNAL is a small paper, but it enjoys the confidence of the people, and its large circulation in the East gives real-estate advertisers actual returns for the money spent. Besides the JOURNAL works for Salem interests.

THE New York Free Trade publishing house continues its assaults on republican leaders, and pursues its policy of making lasting political enemies to the temperance cause by its relentless vindictiveness. It continues to be the best assistant the saloons have.

WILL the republican county convention to-day endorse President Harrison? His administration thus far has been characterized by common sense and conservatism. The party at his back has made effort to keep campaign pledges, and while this cannot be said to have been completely accomplished, much has been performed in this direction. Mr. Harrison is not as popular with the rank and file of his party as he might be. This is possibly due to the fact that he has not made room for the spoilsmen with that rapidity that was expected of him, by those who are interested in politics for "what there is in it." If he is true to the national republican platform declarations on civil service reform he will popularize himself with the masses if he does incur the hatred of the bosses.

GET READY FOR OUR NEXT. The next regular monthly edition of the JOURNAL devoted to Salem and Marion county will be issued next week. It will consist of 6000 extra copies of our weekly and will be well-filled with carefully prepared articles on the advantages offered here in soil, climate, fruit growing and for general investments. The articles will contain just the kind of practical everyday facts that can with safety be laid before eastern people. The JOURNAL's eastern circulation is growing constantly and real estate men can rest assured that every copy will be sent to business men, farmers and capitalists in the best states of the Union. The next three months are undoubtedly the best seasons to employ printing ink intelligently. The JOURNAL works for Salem.

WE do not expect a single democrat to be elected on the Oregon state ticket this year, and we do not as a rule indulge in taffy for democrats. But if any state democratic official should be re-elected, (that is if the political fates decree that Oregon shall have a single democrat left in office after the next election) the JOURNAL would not feel badly if it should be State Treasurer Webb. We do not believe he will join the ranks of the defaulters, apparently so numerous now-a-days in solidly democratic states. He has made this state a courteous and efficient treasurer. The quiet, modest and gentlemanly demeanor of this official wins him many friends in all parties who will always regard him as a man of high honor, tho' on the other side politically. Mr. and Mrs. Webb have endeared themselves locally by their residence in our city, and have formed a large circle of devoted friends. Mr. Webb has gained the respect of our solid business men. He has made judicious investments in Salem property and engaged in several local enterprises that will be of lasting benefit to the city. His whole conduct as an official has measured up to the best standards of citizenship as well as the dignity of the office.

IMPROVING THE RIVERS.

If any fact stands out in the history of this nation for 25 years past, it is that internal improvements have been shamefully neglected, and that the forces and finances of the nation have been expended in building railroads and improving harbors, while the noble rivers that penetrate the interior, have not been kept open to commerce by any adequate or liberal improvements. This policy has enriched the rail road and favored the sea coast cities, at the expense of the interior and almost to the destruction of commerce on our navigable streams. The San Francisco Chronicle says: The parsimony of the East, which has induced congress to dole out insignificant sums for the preservation of the great water courses will have to be overcome by the persistent determination of the South and West to secure a proper recognition of their interests. Millions upon millions have been expended upon our harbors, properly enough, without exciting much adverse comment; but every attempt to do anything on an adequate scale for our rivers has excited the hostility of the members from the Atlantic seaboard, who are backed up in their attitude by the Eastern press. The editors of the papers in question have become habituated to regarding the foreign as the only important trade; consequently they applaud the expenditure of millions to blast a rock in New York harbor to widen a channel, and deprecate the expenditure of a comparatively small sum to keep navigable and within limits a stream like the Mississippi. And yet, in spite of these shallow critics, every sensible man knows that the internal commerce borne on the bosom of our waterways is of infinitely more importance than the foreign trade which is nursed so tenderly. Let congress put away its narrow sectionalism and go in for a broad treatment of the internal navigation question, and it will accomplish more good for the country than it could by wrangling for years over the reduction of the tariff.

PERFECT PROSPERITY NOT REACHED UNDER FREE TRADE. Over 100,000 miners in England were on a strike the past month, demanding better wages. Twenty thousand Tyne-side engineers joined the strike, mills are being shut down for want of coal while others are running on short time. Ten thousand miners in North Wales struck on the fatal 17th; and 30,000 striking dockmen paraded the streets of Liverpool on the 17th and the route of their procession was the scene of great disorder; the coal carters joined the strikers. The magistrates called on the military aid in preserving the peace. The great strike of the coal miners in Berlin has about ended. The mine owners conceded a small advance in wages but dismissed the ring leaders.

The lesson to be gained from all this should convince any critic of the American protective tariff system that the Free Trade system does not solve the problem of industrial depression. Perfection is not found yet in any revenue policy, and before the opponents of our tariff laws can successfully ask this government to adopt free trade because of strikes and hard times, they should show us a low-tariff or free trade country where matters are not worse. Can they do this? We invite them.

STATE TREASURER WEBB. We do not expect a single democrat to be elected on the Oregon state ticket this year, and we do not as a rule indulge in taffy for democrats. But if any state democratic official should be re-elected, (that is if the political fates decree that Oregon shall have a single democrat left in office after the next election) the JOURNAL would not feel badly if it should be State Treasurer Webb. We do not believe he will join the ranks of the defaulters, apparently so numerous now-a-days in solidly democratic states. He has made this state a courteous and efficient treasurer. The quiet, modest and gentlemanly demeanor of this official wins him many friends in all parties who will always regard him as a man of high honor, tho' on the other side politically. Mr. and Mrs. Webb have endeared themselves locally by their residence in our city, and have formed a large circle of devoted friends. Mr. Webb has gained the respect of our solid business men. How Railroads are Milked to Make Millionaires.

San Francisco Chronicle: Senator Stanford is reported as saying: "The Central Pacific alone cannot pay its debt. It is a poor road. Ten years ago it was able to pay $3,000,000 annually to the government; now it hardly earns enough to pay $500,000." If the Central Pacific is poor it is because Stanford and his associates have looted it. It has been profitable enough to put over a hundred millions into the pockets of five men, and would still pay handsomely if it were not deliberately robbed in order to benefit the Southern Pacific. It has been asserted that Mr. Stanford has lost his mental grip. The fact that he makes such admissions as the above and imagines them to be arguments in favor of further leniency on the part of the government goes far to confirm the correctness of the belief. No man with his wits about him would emphasize the fact that ten years ago the Central Pacific was able to pay $3,000,000 a year while now it is not able to pay half a million to the government. The simple statement of the fact irresistibly brings to mind the other fact that it is just about ten years since the Southern Pacific was completed out of the earnings of the Central Pacific for the deliberate purpose of shutting out competition and crippling the Central Pacific. Both of these objects have evidently been successfully accomplished, yet in the hands of an honest management the Central Pacific would soon knock out the Southern, because it is by all odds the best and most convenient road if properly handled.

Monopolists and their Victims.

The vast burden of poverty under which we are staggering is mainly due to the appropriation of public services, of social rights, by individuals who neither can or do render an equivalent for them to their fellow citizens. That is the meaning of monopoly. Monopoly, whether created yesterday or the twilight of ages, is nothing less than a tax on all present and future productions of the land in which it flourishes. Abolish the monopoly of resources now enjoyed by a few, and the nation will not be the poorer by the smallest fraction of any commodity at any moment after. But let there be a universal strike of all except the monopolists, and how long would society endure? There would be a famine in a year, in two years naked, and in ten years the land would be a desolation. Monopoly means a present tax, as well as a past usurpation. The monopolist may also be receiving "wages of superintendence," but they are a trifling proportion of his income, and no part of the monopoly in the proper sense. It is not by any man's wages that the people are impoverished, but by the running sore of taxes handed over to private persons, to be used without regard to the social organism.—Rev. Dr. Wm. Barry in the April Forum.

Albany Herald: The voters of Albany have done well in declaring in favor of public improvements. The sewerage system will now be completed and other improvements undertaken that will do much toward promoting the city's growth and prosperity.

Out of the Fire

Tormented with Salt Rheum—Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Only those who have suffered from salt rheum in its worst form know the agonies caused by this disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla has had great success in curing salt rheum, and all affections of the blood. "I owe the gratitude to Hood's Sarsaparilla that one would to his rescuer from a burning building. I was tormented with salt rheum, and had to leave off work altogether. My face, about the eyes, would be swollen and scabbed, my hands and a part of my body would be raw sores for weeks at a time, my flesh would seem so rotten that I could roll pieces from between my fingers as large as a pea. One physician called it type Poison and gave me medicine accordingly; but salt rheum cannot be cured in that way. Finally I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It helped me so much that I took two more bottles, and was Entirely Cured. I have not been troubled with salt rheum since. I also used Hood's Olive Ointment on the places affected. It stops the burning and itching sensations immediately. I will recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla not only for salt rheum, but for humors, and that "all-gone" feeling so often experienced." A. D. ROBINSON, J. Mason Place, Mass. N.B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla Sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I.
