GENERAL SHEERMAN celebrated his 70th birthday in New York the other day, sound and well.

At Eugene, William Aller, a carpenter, was fatally injured by falling from the high bridge across the Willamette. He was working on a new span which is being constructed, when he lost his balance and fell twenty feet, striking on his side on a plank. His brain was injured, and he is still unconscious.

A WINNING CANDIDATE.

Hon. D. P. Thompson, of Portland, the republican candidate for governor, is a winning horse in the Oregon gubernatorial race this year. He is backed by the leading men of the party and has the harmonious support of every element of republicanism. He is one of those veteran Oregonians who have helped to create this state, and the pride of the veterans who subdued the wilderness will go far to elect him.
He represents the older element that really laid the first foundations for civilizing the territory and converting it as far as possible into a pari-dise. The Willamette valley, which has always been the home of Mr. Thompson, will roll up a tremendous majority in one of its old boys.

Mr. Thompson is not a speech-maker but he will canvass the state personally and see and talk with the people. He has bunked and slept and "batted" with half the pioneer settlers of the state and the revival of these old memories will stir up an enthusiasm that the democrats cannot overcome. Of course, the usual grist of campaign material will be started up against him, as it has been against every man who ever ran on the republican ticket from J.
C. Fremont down to county coroner in 1890.

Hon. D. P. Thompson is a self-made man, and there is no evidence that he will not be his own master after he is elected. He will fill the office with dignity becoming to it.
He will not live in some other town and be at his post of duty at the capital city about two days out of the week, and sleep in a basement and cover himself with a shingle when he is here. He will have an appropriate residence at the capital city and will fill the office with quiet honor and dignity. He sizes up fully to the office and will fill it well and he will be elected.

PROTECT THE HEALTH OF THE PEOPLE.

THE JOURNAL prints a communication from one of our leading physicians for better sanitation of the city. This is a good sign. We had hoped to interest not alone the city council in a vigorous crusade against dirt, but had some hopes that the medical fraternity would be moved to organize and honor the good name of their profession, and in the interests of science give this city the benefit of their influence for a better sanitary condition. We had hoped our preachers would assist in the war on filth, and perhaps have fewer funerals to attend to. While few doctors are so mercenary as to want to profit from sickness in the community engendered by filthy alleys, streets, and nasty slime pools under the wash-houses, there are lots of progressive people who look to the medical profession to head movements for better sanitation of the city.

Many of our streets are being thoroughly cleaned, and no doubt the city officials are doing all they can. But it must be remembered that the poorer people who live in the neighborhood of infected and filthy districts have no protection whatever against municipal negligence or professional indifference.
The JOURNAL is aware that there is danger to a fearless newspaper of losing patronage. Yet we think all persons will see that we do not attack individuals, but simply abuses and negligence and professional indifference upon public matters. A newspaper should not attack individuals until no other course is open to secure reforms. This brings us to a matter that has been commented upon in our local columns. The duty of the asylum and prison officials to repair the broken sewer that is emptying the refuse of those institutions into one of the creeks that run through our city.

In plain terms that is criminal negligence on the part of those whose duty it is to fix it, and we do not hesitate to brand it as such.
The excuse that they must wait until the water is lower is a lame one, because there is so much moisture in the soil that there will be a large volume of water in the creek all summer. Let the water be turned off, let the sewer be built in some other direction, or let something be done to stop that terrible flow of pollution that may poison the health of thousands. Let the city authorities defend the public health and insist that this repair be made at once.
With approaching hot weather the danger is great.

FROM WEST SALEM.

Mrs. L. L. Buckingham, of this place, celebrated her 80th birthday last Monday. She was born in Yates county, Newport, April 4, 1810, and is now in excellent health except—being blind—caused by sickness a year ago. She is the last of a family of eight. She was married to Geo. T. Buckingham, editor and proprietor of the Norfolk, Ohio, Reflector in 1829. They were given a large wedding party, and she is the last one living that was present at the gathering. She was a pupil at the school of Dr. Marcus Whitman, the missionary that was murdered by the Cayuse Indians, near Walla Walla, in November, 1847.

Mr. Wm. Ruble, well known to all old Oregonians in this vicinity, has about completed a fine residence near here. Your correspondent took a look through the house in company with Mr. R., and can say he was greatly pleased with the appearance of the same, having every modern convenience, and the architecture is of the very best, but the houses in the capital city are superior to this one in beauty and delightful surroundings.

The farmers in this vicinity have nearly all finished their spring seeding and they are making garden and preparing for their summer work—which will be summer fall-owing, cultivating their orchards, etc. The fall wheat looks well and the gentle rain that has been falling will greatly help to keep the crops in a fine growing condition.

The nomination of R. S. Wallace seems to give general satisfaction, and he will undoubtedly be elected by a large majority, as he has worked hard for the best interests of Polk county since he has been a resident.
It is to our interest to send him as a member of the next legislature.

It is with a feeling of sadness that we hear of the death of John H.
Earl, who formerly lived on this side of the river near here. He had friends wherever he was known who will regret his early taking off.
May the sod press rightly, and the flowers bloom over the grave of a noble and generous man.

Miss Stella Roblin, daughter of Mr. Finley Roblin, returned this week from Winnipeg, Manitoba, where she has been principal of a high school. She will probably make Oregon her home in the future.

Mr. R. V. Harris who has been working for some time at Oswego, eight miles south of Portland, has returned home, and as work in his line (carpenter) is now plenty he will remain home in the future.

THE COMING CIRCUS.—The United States Monster shows will be at Salem Friday, April 25th.
From all accounts this mammoth combination with its wonderful galaxy of arenic talent and wonders from wonderland, will with its advent here, mark an epoch in the history of our town. It is by far the greatest circus in the universe, and our citizens, both near and far, should feel especially favored by its coming. One feature alone of its many attractions, Queen Jumbo, is enough to arouse the curiosity and attention of everybody within fifty miles. The presence of the largest animal in the history of the world, and that a living, breathing, moving, mountain of flesh, is sufficient to startle the sluggish blood of the most inert among us. See advertisement elsewhere in our columns.

One of the very best investments in the city for capitalists is that business corner of ours (5x165 feet, and one of the busiest corners in town Has a fine two-story brick block of three store rooms 20x70 feet, with offices overhead and other buildings.
It rents to pay 10 per cent. on the city for a wholesale house and equal to the best for a retail trade; best bargain in town. Salem Land Co.

Wonderful Results of ten follow the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Several cases of scrofula, upon which other preparations have been powerless, yield to the peculiar curative powers of this medicine.
Distressing cases of dyspepsia, excruciating complaints of the kidneys and liver, agonizing itches and pains of salt rheum, disagreeable cases of catarrh, and aches and pains of rheumatism, are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood, and at the same time tones the stomach, creates an appetite, and gives strength to every function of the body. Give it a trial.

General Debility
"For four years my wife suffered with large tumor bunches on the glands under the arms, and general debility of the whole system. She became so poor in health that we were on the verge of despair regarding her recovery. Physicians did not seem to understand her case; at all events she never derived any benefit from their treatment. She finally concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. The immediate effect was so marked and satisfactory that she continued to take it, and this is the result: She has gained in weight

From 84 to 111 Pounds and is stronger and in better health than she has been for years. The bunches under her arms have diminished, and we believe Hood's Sarsaparilla will be too much for them in time." J. J. NOUNS, 236 Commercial Street, Boston, Mass.
