A Dissenter.

To the Editor of the Capital Journal: Your University reporter was a close observer of the joint discussion between the Alka-Hesperians and Philodorian on last Saturday evening.

While we admit the question was handled in an adroit and skillful manner on both sides, yet the Alkas had not the system in their debate that was shown by the Philodorian, each of whom had his line of argument laid out, and never once crossed that of his colleague. While it was the misfortune of the Alkas frequently to repeat each other and even to collide, nor had they put the time in studying up the subject as was evident the Philodorian had. This the Alkas were willing to admit.

The Philodorian labored under the disadvantage of discussing the unpopular side of the question and were not able to remove the "prejudices" of some of the judges as they acknowledged at the close of the discussion. Many in the audience were surprised when they heard the decision given, as were the Alkas themselves, five of their debaters have acknowledged that they were beaten, with one more to be heard from.

We do not wish to be understood as endeavoring to throw any reflections on any debater from our neighborly society or on the honored gentlemen who kindly consented to act as judges, notwithstanding we do not agree with their decision, nor do we believe that a fair representation was given in the columns of the JOURNAL yesterday, so this is why we come forward with such statements as we have made and if we are wrong we are willing to stand criticised for our presumption.

Eupespy.

This is what you ought to have, in fact you must have it, to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily, and mourning because they find it not. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent annually by our people in the hope that they may find this boon. And yet it may be had by all. We guarantee that Electric Bitters, if used according to directions and the use persisted in, will bring you good digestion and out the demon Dyspepsia and install instead Eupespy. We recommend Electric Bitters for Dyspepsia and all diseases of Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Sold at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle at Fry's drug store.

SEVERE COURT DECISIONS.

Verdicts From the High Court of Appeals at Salem.

SALEM, April 21, '90

J. P. Combs, app., vs. S. R. Stayton, resp.; appeal from Crook county, the decree appealed from reversed; a decree entered in accordance with the principle above laid down, to the effect that certain parties are entitled to have equal shares in the water, the subject in litigation, and the case remanded to the said circuit court with directions to enter such decree as the decree of that court, and enforce it by such mode of procedure as to the said court may seem most suitable and proper.

Neither party will be entitled to costs or disbursements in the suit or upon appeal, but each is required to pay the costs and disbursements which he has incurred. The costs and disbursements, however, which may be incurred in the enforcement of the decree shall be taxed against the respondent in case he refuses to observe its terms. Opinion by Thayer, C. J.

C. C. Beckman, resp., vs. James Hamlin, app., appeal from Jackson Co.; argued and submitted. P. P. Prim, H. K. Hanna and C. W. Kahler, att'ys for resp.; F. Fitch, att'y for app.

On motion of Chas. W. Fulton Thomas O'Day was admitted upon certificate from the supreme court of Iowa to practice in all the courts of this state.

Allen & Krosel, apps., vs. Geo. M. Roe, E. R. Hawes, et al, resp.; appeal from Clatsop county; argued and submitted. Wm. M. Kaiser, att'y for app. Chas. W. Fulton, att'y for resp.

C. B. Rostel, resp., vs. Raphael Marat, administrator of the estate of Julius Raspert, deceased, app.; appeal from Jackson county; argued and submitted. H. K. Hanna, att'y for resp.; C. W. Kahler, att'y for app.

POLK COUNTY CROPS.—A representative of the JOURNAL was a traveler through Polk county the past few days and rejoices in the report that the crop prospect is most encouraging in all branches of agriculture. The fall grain is in excellent condition; the ground was in due order for the reception of spring crops and these were sown and planted in the best possible shape, and are responding to the spring sunshine with the best of promise. Fruit trees are also budding forth in vigorous style and the general expectation is for a clean and healthy crop such as Oregon always boasted of until the past few years. But the newspaper man heard a prosperous farmer make one remark which was very suggestive. He said that unless the bridge across the Willamette was built in time to give him free access to the Salem market the coming fall he will not be able to dispose of enough of his products to advantage to pay his store bills. And yet some men have thought the big bridge was of no benefit to farmers!

INCORPORATIONS.—The members of the Chebra Novah Zedeck religious and charitable order for the promulgation of the Jewish religion, faith and literature, of Portland. The object is to conduct a society in strictly orthodox style. No instrumental music shall ever be introduced on Sabbath or Holydays and males and females shall be separated by a partition and a gallery, and no females shall ever sing in the choir.

STILL MOVING.—The firm of J. C. Brown & Co. has its force of hands at work, when customers give them any spare time, moving their immense stock of hardware, machinery, and so forth, to the new quarters in the Minto brick just north of State street, and even the large rooms there will be crowded to hold the unlimited assortment.

FANCY SIGN.—F. S. Dearborn, in front of his new book and stationery house on Commercial street, has erected a very attractive sign in the shape of a large ledger on top of a pole, the design being appropriately suggestive of the business.

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just at ordinary scrap of writing paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable, and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. For fuller particulars send stamp to W. H. Cole, Druggist, Fort Smith. Trial bottles of this wonderful Discovery free at Dan'l J. Fry's drugstore.

No poorer figure is cut in the world than the attempt by any one to make believe he is rolling a high horse when he has only a dog on his back.

To Home Seekers.

The Capital City railway company is prepared to tell home-seekers something to their advantage. Mr. David Simpson has taken charge of their real estate department at 115 State street. Call and see him.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Carrie Pfeiffer, of Albany, is visiting Salem friends.

Mr. R. M. Thompson took the afternoon train for Portland.

District Attorney H. H. Hewitt, of Albany, is in the city to-day.

Mr. J. B. Stump was among the passengers for Portland this morning.

Bridge Contractor J. E. McCoy returned from Corvallis this afternoon.

Jay W. Cox, of Cox & Boggs, was a passenger to Portland this afternoon.

Hon. C. W. Fulton, of Astoria, was in the city to-day on supreme court business.

Miss Lizzie Cornelius, of the Indian training school, is in the city visiting friends.

Judge P. P. Prim, of Jacksonville, was a passenger on the north bound train this afternoon.

Miss Etta Calvert returned this afternoon from a visit with her sister, Mrs. F. S. Craig, of Corvallis.

Mr. J. L. Kimbler, of La Crosse, has located here with his family. He is a jeweler, but is prepared to go at anything.

Dr. Prill has the thanks of the JOURNAL for a choice cake of pure maple sugar sent him from the old homestead in New York.

Mr. John C. Peebles, who has been teaching school in Pruneyville during the past winter and spring, is now enjoying a home visit in this vicinity.

Henry Studenmeyer, who has for some time been employed at Welles Bros. left this morning for Corvallis, to connect himself with McMahon's circus.

Editor Hendricks, of the Statesman, started out early this morning to spend several days writing up the city of Independence for the Sunday Statesman.

George Shirley, formerly a salesman for John G. Wright, of this city, now employed in one of the Astoria banks, took this morning's train after a visit here with friends.

Hon. Richard Williams, brother of our city mayor and one of the most prominent lawyers of the state, was in the city over last night, returning to Portland this morning.

Mr. Hartman and family who came to Salem last fall from Shell Lake, Wis., will move the latter part of this week to Hudson, Douglas county, where he has a situation with the Dorrance Lumbering Co.

Chas. Nickell, of the Jacksonville Times, Col. J. T. Bowditch, of Ashland and a number of other Southern Oregon delegates to the democratic state convention were seen on the overland train going north this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. George Herren and babies, of Butteville, returned home this morning, having had a pleasant visit with relatives here. Mr. H. is a prosperous merchant at the thriving town in the north end of this county.

E. B. Piper, for some time city editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, now engaged as managing editor of the new paper to be started at Gray's Harbor, took the morning train north to assume those duties, after a week's pleasant sojourn among old Salem friends.

Deputy U. S. Marshal P. B. Sinnott, of Portland, came up last evening to serve injunction papers on the governor, secretary of state and treasurer, constituting the state board of land commissioners, to restrain them from selling any more swamp land.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashley White started for the East to-day. They left on the morning train, expecting to make quite an extended trip, visiting several points, New York, Pennsylvania, Iowa and Missouri. They will remain three months, and we think ere that time passes, they will long to be home again, for it matters not how fascinating the attractions of the East are, they cannot begin to compare with our matchless Oregon—the home of peace and sunshine.

HOME FROM CALIFORNIA.—Mr. O. G. Savage, who with his two daughters, has been spending the winter in California, arrived in Portland last night by steamer and reached Salem by the eleven o'clock train this forenoon. His daughters remained in Portland to visit a few days. Mr. Savage is more than ever pleased to be a resident of the Willamette valley and did some very good missionary work while sojourning among the prejudiced Californians. His friends regret to notice that his eyes are so affected as to enforce the use of spectacles.

PORT ANGELES, WASHINGTON.

Railroad Lined Reaching and Thither—Extensive Natural Resources Developed.

The Oregonian says: The Portland, Fort Angeles & Victoria Railroad Company, will, it is stated, soon commence work on their line from Portland to Port Angeles, via Gray's harbor, making Angeles their actual sound terminus. This line will traverse one of the most productive of countries. In addition to its stores of riches in agricultural products, its resources of timber, including the finest cedar, fir and harder woods, is simply inexhaustible, and it is not improbable that this same country crossed will be found to contain the richest deposits of coal, just as has the country opened by the Northern Pacific and other roads in Western Washington. That the road will be a paying one from the day it is first opened to business must be conceded by any one at all familiar with the great resources of the district it will penetrate, and the establishment of the northern deep water terminus of this road at Port Angeles will insure this latter city a most rapid growth.

The town of Port Angeles is located on a natural town site. This site was first surveyed and laid out by the government in 1833. The impression has long prevailed in the minds of many who are thoroughly familiar with the sound country that Port Angeles furnishes the most natural site for a navy yard in Western Washington. The harbor at this point is land-locked and thus perfectly sheltered from the storms which sometimes sweep up the straits, and the anchorage is perfect, a feature that is readily appreciated by all captains who have any experience in the deep water harbors of the Sound. The depth of water in the harbor in front of the town is from five to twenty-two fathoms, and the shores of this harbor furnish no less than eight miles of water front. Ships sail into the harbor at all stages of the tide under full sail, without the aid of tugs. There are no treacherous currents either within the harbor or at the entrance, and ships ride at anchor as safely at this point as they would in the placid Willamette at Portland.

A VIGOROUS REMEDY.

A Merchant's Wife the Bone of Content. This is a Denunciation.

A well known merchant who has been greatly benefited by Joy's Vegetable Balm, desired to give it to his wife, who was very delicate, but out of caution first consulted his physician. Dr. W. L. Griswold of 803 Market street. The doctor, who is one of our leading practitioners, objected, saying he had never seen a sarsaparilla that did not contain opium, which thinned the blood; that his patient did not have any vitality to lose, and that what delicate people need is not decreased vitality, but more blood. He, however, consented when assured that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla was opposed to the blood thinning Lina of other sarsaparillas, and that on the contrary by specific vegetable alternatives it promoted digestion, and repaired nutrition, hence created new blood and was the very thing for feeble people. The above explains the many cases in which aged, delicate and run down people, have been built up by Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. In fact the blood sarsaparilla failed. It is of facts are creating a sensation.—S. F. Chandler
