SPRINKLING TWELFTH STREET.—There is perhaps no little matter will cause so much inclination to profanity, the result of disagreeable experience, as the excessive dust on Twelfth street from State street to the Southern Pacific passenger depot, and there is no difficulty of a like character can be overcome with so little expense. A sprinkle for the eight o'clock morning train is not required, but there should be a trip of the irrigator provided for at 11 o'clock, then again about half past twelve and in the evening about a quarter past six. These three trips would cause an immense amount of comfort to the passengers to and from the trains, who, otherwise, will be compelled to swallow their portion of the cloud of dust which already has become so thick as to obscure the view. The balance of the day the travelers over this route are those who are going further and do not care so much; besides, when the trains are passing there is a large number of hacks, carriages, buggies and street cars passing over the district named, and the natural consequence is that all the dust in the street stands a fair chance of being elevated, Sir, does the ire of travelers. It is a matter worthy of serious consideration and should be attended to.

THE CHILDREN PLEASED.—Archbishop W. H. Gross, of this diocese, came up from Portland yesterday morning and devoted the afternoon to the instructive amusement of the pupils of the academy of Sacred Heart. As a conversational talker, Archbishop Gross is unsurpassed and the children of the academy are in great raptures over his discourses yesterday. He returned from a trip to Europe only a short time ago, and he gave them the benefit of his experience in sight seeing, disclosing to their view by his fine flow of language and accuracy of description the numerous treasures of art, architecture and religious relics which exist in Italy, France and Spain. Archbishop Gross is the great hero of the children and is very popular with all the people of Salem. It is hoped he will remain over Sunday and deliver one of his eloquent sermons.

CLACKAMAS CONTINGENT.—Sheriff Sampson and Deputy J. K. Morris, of Clackamas county, came up last night with two additions to the state force for stove making. One was Chas. Dart, sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for horse stealing, and he will not be a stranger in the institution, as it is his second term for the same offense. The other is a one-legged tramp named Jim Cummins, who went to a house to beg something to eat, and while the 10-year old girl who opened the door for him, was kindly proceeding to the pantry to supply his pretended wants, entered the sitting room and stole her gold watch from the center table. She missed it immediately and with the assistance of her brother captured him and found the stolen watch. He gets three years also.

IN A TIGHT PLACE.—Quite a spirited amusement was witnessed by a large crowd on Commercial street that enlivened a dull evening for them not a little. A terrier saw a one-eared shepherd dog and concluded it would improve his canine appearance to establish an equilibrium in his physiognomy. This was resented and the difference of opinion led the contestants into a pair of swinging doors that closed on their respective dog-ships as they were half through. The fight went on through the closed doors and would not be over yet but that the excitement began to spread to the bystanders and the police interfered.

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD.—This morning's Statesman says that work will be commenced on the U. P. R. R., from E. Portland to Salem, via Silverton, within two months. Work is expected to commence on the motor and belt line very soon. Garden Road property—always the best—will be better than ever. Only 5 five-acre lots left in Fairview, and we have that ten acres at $1250. It is truly a bargain. Salem Land Co. Postoffice block.

THE BUTTEVILLE OUTRAGE.

The Scoundrels Failed of Their Purpose, But One of the Little Girls Seriously Injured.

The readers of the JOURNAL have not forgotten the details of the foul crime committed in Butteville and recorded in this paper Monday. The following communication of date the 22d, has been received at this office from a gentleman of worth and respectability in that neigborhood:

"Mr. Fred Goulet, father of the three little children, on whose persons Gouche and Ritchie attempted a criminal assault, was here yesterday and had his children examined by a physician, who gives it as his opinion that the scoundrels did not accomplish their desires, but Ruby, who is only seven years old, is more seriously injured than at first supposed, and the doctor has ordered her to be kept from school and confined to the house for at least a week.

Every effort in their power will be made by the citizens of Butteville to capture Gouche, though it is known that certain parties living a few miles distant have assisted him to elude his pursuers."

The members of a decent, law-abiding community, who would assist such a villian as Gouche to escape, after such a crime as he attempted and was the leader in concocting, must have hard work to balance accounts with their own consciences, and must feel terribly mean when they meet their neighbors who have love for home, children and decent manhood.

FOR KANSAS.—After a trip taking in Washington territory generally and Puget Sound country in particular, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Wilcox arrived in Salem about a year ago and, liking the place so well, have resided here until this morning, when they took their departure for Phillipsburg, Kansas, where Mr. W. will resume business, but it is doubtful if he will remain long in the East after tasting the beauties of Oregon. Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox were found to be agreeable, intelligent members of society and their departure was as sincerely regretted as their return would be welcomed.

NO WIND.—says an old resident of California who has lived in Salem two years: "There is less wind here—what you call a real blowing unpleasant blast—than any place I was ever in. Yet there is hardly a day that there is not a pleasant cool breeze stirring from some direction or other."

Another fresh lot of hats that must please, just in at Calvert's.

The number of Harper's Weekly to be published April 23d will contain, in an eight-page Supplement, a comprehensive account of "The Stanley-Emin Relief Expedition," beginning with a biography of Stanley, giving an outline of the revolt in the Soudan, describing the hardships of Emin and Jephson before relief came, explaining the central African slave-trade, and furnishing details of Stanley's last expedition from the time it was first planned up to the date of its successful termination. The Supplement will be elaborately illustrated with pictures of scenes and incidents of the expedition.

BE SURE TO START RIGHT.

The City Must Look Up Law and Facts in Street Opening and Proceed Accordingly.

The city of Salem by its council made an order Tuesday evening which meets the hearty desire of every citizen conversant with the facts—that of opening Oak street across the railroad tracks south of the depot platform. It is a needed improvement and one that would insure the best avenue to and from the city in the direction of Turner. But there exists a doubt as to the legal ability of the city to open up the street as indicated by the action of the council. It has been asserted that the Oregon and California Railroad company was given title to the land the company occupies as depot grounds before the plat of that part of the city was filed and the streets therein dedicated.

A JOURNAL representative went through the county records under the courteous guidance of Recorder Starr this afternoon and found out that the railroad company is lame in its boasted effort to keep the city from crossing its track.

The railroad company received a deed of right-of-way from the Willamette university, Sept. 21, 1880, and Sept. 1, 1886, obtained a deed from the same source to blocks 43, 44, 45, 46, 49 and south half of block 37, indicating by the manner of description that the streets existed and were not conveyed, nor could they be after their dedication, which was made prior to either of those deeds.

It appears by the deeds aforesaid that such action had been provided for at a meeting of the University authorities in May 1870, but this was a matter of public record in that institution and binding only upon its authorities, hence the streets platted and recorded in University addition are as much in existence to-day as they were when first platted, and there can be no successful resistence to their opening.

In any event, the railroad company could not prevent the improvements contemplated, as the city could condemn the property as for any other public purpose, when it was considered needed for public highways.

Mr. Chas. D. Turner, of San Francisco, is in the city, introducing "Picturesque Pacific Coast."

Correction and Explanation.

To the Editor of The Capital Journal:

Permit me to correct the typographical error in your clip from the Oregon Blade:

The number of sheep in the United States in 1884 (the highest number reached) was 50,626,626, decreased in 1889 to 42,590,079, as a result of the tariff change in 1883 and construction of the laws in favor of importers under President Cleveland's administration, and his proposition to admit wool free of duty.

In regard to the clip from the Gazette, there is an error as to the name of the paper. It was the "Herald" with which Governor Pennoyer was connected as editor. Upon seeing the extract you publish, in the Daily Oregonian of the 14th, the governor wrote me there was "not a word of truth in it," and I believe it, so far as he was concerned. I understood at the time Mr. Pennoyer was editor of the paper in an effort to prevent its decline. It is likely that the small art of editorial ruffianism was perpetrated by some "smart aleck" in the office without his knowledge. Circumstances now remembered, related to me by a democratic friend who had the entrance to the office make me believe that was so.

Astoria & South Coast Railroad.

The contract for the completion of the Seaside division of the Astoria & South Coast road, has been signed by the parties interested. It requires the completion of the road within thirty days from the time the material is on the ground. It is believed that the road will be built by June 5th. President Reid in his recent report of the country tributary to this railway line says: "From Astoria southerly for thirteen miles, almost all are dairying lands and farms, with rich tide unclaimed lands parallel with the sea and Lewis and Clark river. The next five miles are the various seaside summer resorts. Turning easterly, the railroad runs for seventeen miles through spruce and hemlock, (very large trees) and occasionally cedar, and the soil is excellent, raising hay, grass and root crops. From the tunnel, or summit, 1087 feet, it decends into the Nehalem valley, still rich land, covered with the finest timber—cedar and fir, very thick, and black soil. Where fields have been put in grass, hay and root crops, the yield is prolific."

Further along President Reid's report, speaking of the lumber traffic, says: "The virgin cedar and fir forests on the Astoria road are of a much superior quality to the timber growth along the Columbia river. They contain 52,000 acres in Clatsop county, 19-20ths of which is excellent timber. The facilities for the production of lumber alongside a railroad of sixty miles, continuously for shipment, without change of cars, to the western states and cities by rail, and to ocean ships at Astoria for foreign ports, the home consumption of lumber at Portland and towns of Oregon and in the Willamette valley, render the future carrying trade in lumber on the Astoria & South Coast railroad a certainty, free from competition, on account of the close contiguity to market, shorter haul and lower cost of lumber."

After treating on the coal ledge on the Nehalem and the satisfactory developments made in the lower strata, the report concludes as follows: "The growth of Astoria is thus assured, after the completion of this railroad, or witness the growth of Tacoma and Seattle, when connected direct by rail with the western states. Taking all together, it is rare that any railroad of so short distance (103 miles including Seaside division,) possesses such a combination of advantages, or prospects of development of both freight and passenger traffic, and sources of revenue existing on its road, now only requiring the completion of 75 miles of grade and track to be laid thereon to make it the permanent western terminus of a transcontinental system of railroads."

The Standard.

"I regard Hood's Sarsaparilla as having passed above the grade of what are commonly called patent or proprietary medicines," said a well known physician recently. "It is fully entitled to be considered a standard medicine, and has won this position by its undoubted merit and by the many remarkable cures it has effected. For an alterative and tonic it has never been equaled."

Spring Fever.

At this season of the year the most vigorous and hearty people often have a feeling of weariness, tired and worn out, without ambition to do anything, and many break out in pimples and boils. What you require is a mild tonic medicine that will act gently on the liver and blood, and for this, nothing equals Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills. They give an activity to the liver, purify the blood and by their mild tonic action, new vitality and strength to the entire system. Sold at 25 cents a box by Smith & Steiner.

RESISTING AN OFFICER.

Sheriff Croisan Meets a Tartar in Serving a Civil Process but Gets His Man and Gun.

Sheriff Croisan, who is a rather peaceable and easy-going citizen in private and official life, had an experience this forenoon which will initiate him for future labors.

He has had an attachment in favor of F. Levy against J. S. Benson, of South Salem, and finding that he had purchased a costly shotgun, went over there to invite the use of it for sale under attachment.

Benson refused the invitation and in the vigerous manner which his large physical frame, with a fighting disposition, allows and dictates, he proceeded to oust Mr. Croisan from the house, but the latter was a tougher case than he thought for and hugged him like a brother, even after receiving a kick, many of a like kind having proven fatal.

The sheriff then called upon the young man's father, Wm. Benson, to assist in the arrest, but the old man claimed to be paralyzed and unable to do anything; however, when James H. Penland, driver for John G. Wright, was called to the sheriff's assistance from the street and took hold to help the officer, the old man was vigorous enough to give him a severe lick on the side of the head.

In the end, the young fighter was overpowered, brought to the city, lodged in jail, and now Sheriff Croisan is hunting the softest spot in his heart to find out upon which charge he will have him tried. Old Mr. Benson is in a worse box than the son, having not only refused to assist the officer in the discharge of his duty, but having struck a citizen who was assisting.

There is one satisfaction to Mr. Croisan, he went back and got the gun.

RESTAURANT KEEPER.—Mr. Claude M. Buster, who has for some time conducted the JOURNAL'S city delivery, has bought out the Rocky Mountain restaurant on Liberty street, across from Reed's opera house.
