

Sunday Evening Services at the Christian Church at Salem.

Rev. Johnson, the new pastor at the Christian church preached to a good audience Sunday evening from 14 verse, 14 chapter, Job, "If a man die shall he live again." It was certain we did not create ourselves. We had nothing to do with whether or where we should be born. Some men said this world was good enough for them. Sure, dwellers in the Willamette valley might well say this. The world was grand and good enough for anyone. The trouble was we could not get enough of it. Even as much as Jay Gould has he has not enough. What is this lovely world? It is one great Golgotha. Like the Egyptians at their feasts, at the banquet of this life the skeleton, death, was always present. It is not worth living unless we have the hope of immortality within us. No man's life is so certain that he can know that he will return home alive from the voting place to-morrow. At every swing of the pendulum a soul passes away. Wherever goes this mighty army? Man went to think that all he knows and loves to-day must shortly pass away. The hour will come for all to die. The vessel of all ages have propounded the anxious inquiry of Job. The question of immortality was never understood by the Jews and was only correctly taught them by Christ.

But even human reason teaches us that there is a future. If we admit there is a God in the universe we cannot deny the existence of a future in which alone we can contemplate the complete works of the infinite. The creators of the world of the Mountbenders were real beings. No one ever pretended that those strange mounds of earth in the shape of animals and birds were the result of chance. The ancient Greeks engraved the butterfly on their tombs to teach the lessons of immortality. If the loathsome worm can become a butterfly, why shall not man live again? If God can preserve the germ of the plant life, he can preserve the immortal soul.

Man cannot eat and sleep like the ox. His soul yearns and struggles for higher things in every land. He is restless, discontented and striving for better things. His soul is not satisfied with earthly conditions and imperfections. It was the instinct of the soul, to seek a future life, just as it was the instinct of the young birds that had never seen a winter and had never been in the south, to wing their way in early autumn to the sunny lands of the tropics.

Life is a wonderful thing. First nothing, then a light, then life's battle, the death, the churchyard, then eternity. The grave is not our end and final resting place. If there is no future life there ought to be, and the universe is a failure. If there is no future life, if there is no place to punish the Neros and reward the good, then is all our talk of God as nothing. We are freed from speculating as to immortality by the fact that God raised his own son from the dead. There is not a learned and intelligent man in the world today who denies that there had been a Christ, that he died and was laid in Joseph's tomb, and after three days rose again. His tomb was guarded by Roman soldiers. We cannot form a just idea of the discipline of the Roman army. No British sea captain had disobeyed orders since an hundred years ago one was shot dead for disobedience. The honor of a Roman soldier was dearer to him than life. That Christ rose from the dead is attested by his disciples, and then by over one hundred and then by over five hundred. Their verdict is unanswerable as to the resurrection of Jesus. Let us lift up our hearts and rejoice at this glorious immortality.

A Warning
Good Health, a journal devoted to sanitation, gives the following analysis of a cigarette made by a prominent physician, which should serve as a warning to boys who have not yet acquired the habit of cigarette smoking. The use of tobacco in any form is to be deprecated, but in the form of cigarettes its use is most baneful and disgusting. None but confirmed cigarette smokers can appreciate the strength of the bonds which enslave the user of the insidious and poisonous cigarette. The analysis it mentions is as follows: "The tobacco was found to be strongly impregnated with opium, while the wrapper, which was guaranteed to be rice paper, was proven to be the most ordinary quality of paper whitened with arsenic. The two poisons combined were present in sufficient quantities to create in the smoker a habit of using opium without his being aware of it, his craving for which can only be satisfied by an incessant consumption of cigarette."

H. A. Newell, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Salem, Or.
Rev. and Dear Sir:—At a joint meeting of Sedgwick Post No. 10, G. A. R., and of W. R. C. No. 1 at our hall on Memorial Sunday, May 25th, 1889, on motion of Comrade E. H. McElroy, the adjutant of the Post was directed to convey to you our sincere thanks for the eloquent and fitting tribute pronounced by you on the above named day, to the memory of our fallen comrades, and our expression of gratitude for the inspiring words on the same occasion to those of us still living; assuring you that while our hearts were deeply stirred at the recital of some of the noble deeds of the great war for the Union, in which we glory as having had a part, and for the reference to the chivalrous deeds of our heroic leaders, they were no less incited to the performance of good and noble deeds, not only in behalf of the comrades of the Grand Army, but of every lover and defender of the flag and the free Republic over which it triumphantly waves.

Mr. William Blodgett died at his home in Blodgett Valley, Benton county, on Saturday night at 11 o'clock, May 24th, 1890, aged 78 years.

The deceased was one of the earliest settlers in Benton county. He was born in the state of New York in the year 1811, and afterwards removed with his people to Cincinnati. In 1847 he came to Oregon and in 1848 took a donation claim in the valley which bears his name, and upon which he resided up to the time of his death. Notable Women and Their Work.

Madame Tehebrokova, the courageous woman who sent the Czar an open letter protesting against the cruelties practiced by the Russian government, has been pardoned, and will not be sent to Siberia.

Mr. Parnell and some of his colleagues have introduced in Parliament a municipal woman suffrage bill of Ireland. England and Scotland have had municipal woman suffrage for many years, but women have not been able to vote in Ireland except in Belfast.

At the Baptist Ministers' Social Union of Central Nebraska, April 7, 8, at the close of the banquet, among the toasts was one thus announced: "Woman in the pulpit: The steps may be high, the barriers mighty; but in spite of all these, she gets there." The response was made by Rev. Francis E. Townsley, of Fairfield, Neb.

Mrs. A. B. Crane, of Brooks Co., Georgia, a lady sixty-five years old, has raised with the help of one little boy, four bales of cotton, two hundred bushels of corn, meat enough for the year, and an abundant supply of oats, fodder, etc. All the outside help she had was the hiring of a man for one day, and the picking of five hundred pounds of cotton.

Rev. Ada C. Bowles has completed her first year as pastor of the Universalist church in East Gloucester, Mass. When she took charge of the church, it had been closed for some time, in consequence of financial difficulties. The entire "floating debt" has since been paid, together with all current expenses. New members have been added to the parish, the church and the Sunday school. The "Acorn Club," recently organized among the young people, has nearly one hundred members, and is still growing.
