HOFER BROTHERS, Editors.

A FOOLISH PROPHECY.

Senator Hiscock brands himself as a defunct prophet in advance, in declaring that both national conventions in 1892 will pronounce in opposition to free silver coinage. No man can say what the republican national convention will then put in its platform. In the convention of 1888 the republican party declared for perfect equality between gold and silver as money. That is a just position and the party may take that again. But the party may be called upon to do more than that. It cannot declare both its lawful children, and then discriminate in favor of gold. It cannot adopt gold and silver as legitimate offspring of its financial theories and then in congress proceed to illegitimate silver. The states of the great northwest, that are full of undeveloped silver mines, will never be brought to the justice of discriminating, in the slightest degree, against one of the precious metals. The masses have no interest in keeping gold at a premium over silver. The undeveloped mining industries of the northwest have a direct interest to the contrary. Why shall not the people of the whole United States be permitted to develop and employ every avenue of enterprise and wealth, silver included? If the people have any doubts as to how the next national convention shall stand on this question, they will probably send delegates who stand right. They are not going to send delegates and representatives to their political conventions and legislative assemblies, unquestioned and unasked, so much in the future as in the past. "Buying the cat in a bag" is not as popular in politics as it once was. The absolute will of the masses must be more and more directly represented in the politics of state and nation.

CRITICISING THE JOURNAL.

A number of correspondents criticize this paper for some of its campaign and after campaign reflections. An editor cannot hope to escape this, and we do not wish to. If we never had any opinion of our own or never said anything to differ from anybody, we might as well not print a newspaper. A newspaper man who has to discuss from three to ten thousand subjects a year, cannot be infallibly right in the estimation of everybody. But he can aim to be fair, and his work must be estimated on his all the year around service. The critics, whose letters we print elsewhere are older residents, and older citizens than the writer. They may be nearer right than the writer. We give every man the fullest liberty to correct any statement of fact or opinion that appears in this paper, when he does so from good motives and to advance the cause of truth. We have no false political pride and our love of truth and justice should be the guiding principle of all our actions. Now, without desiring any further controversy, one word with our Union party friend. So far as the assertion of one writer goes, that the republican party is incapable of this reform, we beg to differ with him. The party that abolished slavery and has strangled polygamy in the territories is capable of meeting any great moral problem, and solving it too. If the genial Mr. Robertson or any other Union party man hopes for any moral uplifting of the masses from the democratic party his hopes are destined one day to be quenched. Let them study the record the democratic party is making in the supreme court, and see if it is not akin to the black record of the democratic members of that court before the war. Fuller, Lamar and Field saw the original package decision in the national way (as did some republicans) but when it came to suppressing polygamous Mormonism in the territories, these democrats turn tail on Nationalism with a big N, and declare that congress has no power to forfeit the property of a polygamist church. Let our friends study these records and see if they want to assist that sort of things. We do not believe they do.

Another Letter. ED. JOURNAL.—SIR, I am utterly astonished at your sarcastic remarks in THE EVENING JOURNAL about the Granger, I quote: "Every farmer who failed to get as much for his crop as he expected or to get as big a yield as he hoped for vented his ill-will by voting against the republican candidate." Now the grangers have published far and wide for the past two years that they would not support any man for office who would not pledge himself against not-taxable bonds. Do you suppose they did this simply for child's play. Farmers may be fools but candidates need not expect their votes nor you their patronage by telling them so.

A GRANGER, Republican.

CENSUS QUESTIONS.

The superintendent of the census has prepared a list of twenty-six questions which the census enumerators are instructed to put to the people. Twenty of these questions have passed the ordeal of practical application and six are experiments. The latter six are as follows: Whether suffering from acute or chronic disease, with name of disease and length of time afflicted. Whether defective in mind, sight, hearing or speech, or whether crippled, maimed, or deformed, with name of defect. Whether a prisoner, convict, homeless child, or pauper. Is the house you live in hired or is it owned by a member or head of the family? If owned by the head or member of the family, is the house free from mortgage incumbrance? If the house is owned by head of the family and mortgaged, what is postoffice address of owner? If the census enumerator has not been around you had better, if a married man, talk all these questions over with your wife and formulate intelligent answers. It will not do to refuse to answer, and no one should knowingly misinform or deceive the agent of the government.

JUMPING ONTO THE JOURNAL.

What a Few Correspondents Have to Say on a Tender Subject.

ED. JOURNAL.—In your paper of June 4, under the title "The Result in Oregon," you say, "every farmer who has failed to get as much for his crop as he expected, or to get as big a yield as he hoped for vented his ill-will by voting against the republican candidate (Thompson)." This is certainly not complimentary either to the head or heart of the farmers. I think it does them positive injustice. Is it not possible that our usually courteous editor was himself a "little off his base?" Do you not know that the owners of farms, and also of little homes in cities and towns are paying more than an equitable share of the taxes? The idea that this is somehow brought about by the present financial system is very prevalent. Mr. Thompson was supposed to stand as the mouth-piece and advocate of that system. Mr. Penneyer the opposite. Your platform, you admit dodged the question. "The weakness of the canvass was in the platform and its presentation to the people." Silent on the only state issue of importance—the question of non-taxable bonds. You seem to blame the convention in the first place for not adopting a positive plank on this question, and then the committee for not defining what the convention had left undefined. There you are wrong again. If a republican victory was the great, chief important object to obtain, then the conventions and the committee did the only practicable thing. To have declared against non-taxable bonds would have been fatal in Portland and lost the support of the Oregonian. To declare for non-taxable bonds, it would lose the solid support of the producers. They were thus between the fire and the deep sea. They undertook to run the gauntlet. They failed. The farmers generally believe your party stands for non-taxable bonds. You cannot convince them to the contrary by juggling, and the nomination of a national banker who voted six times for national bonds. Had the "true inwardness" of this non-taxable bonds infamy been properly presented before the people in blackened enormity by a party whose skirts were perfectly clear, and with ability, Penneyer's majority would not have been four thousand but ten thousand. This is the reason the farmers so generally voted Penneyer, and not because they were "get as big a yield as he hoped for" I do not believe that your party can take a clear cut, well defined position, for any reform, and win. I sympathize with your very laudable efforts to secure that end.

A CASE IN POINT.

In our forefathers' days, pimples were attributed to diseased blood. But modern medicine has demonstrated that rich food does not create eruptions by fouling the blood, but retards digestion, which makes the stomach torpid, and the circulation sluggish, and in turn causes an entailed action of the pores which exude or become plugged. The modern remedy is not to treat the blood, but the stomach and liver, and it is under this new idea, that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla was conceived. It is wiping the old "blood disease" idea out of existence. A case in point: I have had for years spells of indigestion and dyspepsia and tried nearly everything. Finally I took one of the leading sarsaparillas. It caused pimples to break out on my face, which I was told was caused by the potato. Hearing that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla did not contain mineral, I sent for it. The pimples disappeared and I have had no return of the old spells. It is a cure for indigestion and dyspepsia and the "obstinate face eruptions." M. C. H. 1221 Mission Street, S. E. Spring Fever. At this season of the year the most vigorous and hearty people often have a feeling of weakness, tired and worn out, without any reason to account for it. They will break out in pimples and boils. What you require is a tonic medicine that will act gently on the liver and blood, and for this nothing equals Joy's Improved Liver Pills. They give an activity to the liver, purify the blood and by their tonic action, new vitality and strength to the entire system. Sold at 25 cents a box by Smith & Steiner.

CAPITAL JOURNAL JOTS.

Why not a chamber of commerce for Salem?

It is Governor Penneyer again, with a vengeance.

That Albany excursion was quite an advertising boom for Salem.

Nearly everybody in the county outside of Salem voted for Penneyer.

Salem will not go backwards before it goes forward. Some towns do that.

It is hard to find anybody that does not now think they voted for Penneyer.

Democratic and Independent papers have a rocky road to travel before them in Oregon.

While not in favor of the original package decision, the JOURNAL is itself an original package.

Why cry over political blood spilled? It is no thicker than water. Press ahead to new conquests and reforms.

The corrupt use of money to achieve results is not confined to political and legal contests. "I can take money," a prominent sporting man is represented as remarking, "arrange any prize fight, horse race, sword contest, swimming match or other sporting event to come off in America to terminate a certain way."

Speaking of the election and the tariff, the Oregonian says: "If Oregon has expressed any opinion upon the McKinley bill, what that opinion is may be read in this majority of 9000 for Mr. Herrmann. We commend it to the thoughtful consideration of the Mills bill tariff reformers all over the country."

They are cracking things along at a lively rate in congress. It is now certain that Idaho will be admitted immediately after the silver bill is disposed of. In all probability, Idaho will be a state within two weeks, when the governor will issue his proclamation for an election, and political wire-pulling will begin.

THE JOURNAL office acknowledges the receipt of a peck of Oregon strawberries, varying from five to ten inches in circumference, and raised on the state's prison farm. On the package of delicious fruit was a card labelled, "Compliments of Supt. Downing. These berries are of Penneyer majority variety." All right, boys. They tasted first-rate. No sour grapes here.

The Farmers' (Irish) Gazette gives the following different way of treating balky horses, which we recommend: Pat the horse on the neck, examine him carefully, on both sides; if you can get a handful of grass give it to him; then jump into the wagon and give the word to go and he will generally obey.

FOR SALE On asylum avenue, one mile from town, and three minutes' walk from electric line, one of the most desirable places about town. House contains nine rooms, hot and cold water, bath room, etc., and in perfect order. Barn and out building, with about 6 acres. This will be sold at a bargain. If applied for at once, six acres would plat to good advantage.
