"REPRESENTATIVE AND PEOPLE."

Mr. Hermann, Oregon's representative in congress, was nominated on a platform favoring free and unlimited coinage of silver and elected by 10,000 majority. Because he has cast his votes in congress accordingly he is taken to task by the organs of the plutocrats, and informed that the people who made the platform were "wholly insincere," that the platform was "falsely made," and "made for partisan and demagogical purposes." Oregonian, June 23. The question arises, did not the Oregonian support the ticket nominated on this platform?

Was not the Oregonian perfectly willing to win on that platform? Who can doubt that it would not have been willing to support a ticket on any kind of platform or have done anything under the sun to defeat Penroyer's election? What is more certain than that by its very insincere, dishonest and hypocritical methods of treating the interests of the people, it ensured the defeat of Mr. Thompson?

It is altogether certain that Mr. Hermann and the people themselves are at least as honest and sincere as the Oregonian, that would call their character in question. The people do mean what they say, the assertion of the Oregonian to the contrary, notwithstanding. The people can be trusted. Their decision on every great issue has been proven sound in the long run. The self-constituted guardianship and patronage of great newspapers has proven neither disinterested nor infallible.

Mr. Hermann and the people have a right to ask the Oregonian why it has not yet informed its readers how it would supply the much-needed increase in volume of circulating medium? It opposes silver as a basis. It opposes a national paper currency. It always "prefers gold." Yet the output of gold is diminishing yearly. If it is not beneath the dignity of a great newspaper to make such a statement, will not the Oregonian tell the people how it proposes to secure an increasing volume of circulating medium upon an exclusive gold basis when that basis is constantly diminishing?

It opposes the way offered by the people of Oregon.
What is its way?

RELATIONS OF A HOTEL KEEPER TO THE COMMUNITY.

We hear reports that there is to be a change of landlords at the principal hotel of the city. While a hotel is almost a private enterprise, still, in its relations to the public as a hostelry, there is a deep interest in the character of the man who is to entertain so many strangers and who, to a large extent, form their opinions of the hospitality of the hotel. A hotel can make or mar many good impressions of a city.

The ideal landlord must be a rare compound of good-fellowship, sterling rigidity of character and horse sense. He must know human nature in all its varied forms and idiosyncracies. He must be all things to all men, yet he must have no personal friends against whom he cannot enforce the discipline of his hotel. He should throw soul, honor and conscience into the inspection of butter, meats, coffee, pickles and the character of the people who are kept under his roof, whether they be employes or guests; at the same time his guests must feel that they are subjected to no surveillance.

It is not possible that all forms of evil and vice can be excluded from a large, modern and popular hotel. Yet public sentiment has advanced on this subject as on others and it is possible to run even a large hotel that shall be more or a modified form of rum shop, gambling den and brothel. Of course the character of the house depends on the character of the man who runs it, and while Salem has escaped these evils more than most cities in the past it is hoped her high character will be upheld in the future.

Conscientious hotel keeping is in its way as noble a calling as any. It requires a man who knows the world and its ways; who has education, culture, taste, refinement; yet is broad in his sympathies. Conscientiousness and character are essentials. The hotel speaks in most pleasant and seductive form for the community. May not the public take an interest in who shall be their new landlord, as they do in who shall be their new preacher, editor or teacher?
They may and do.

IOWA ON SILVER.

The general intelligence of the people of Iowa is not easily assailed. The fact that their representatives are nearly all for free silver shows the strength of the free silver movement. A special to the Iowa State Register says:

"When the silver bill came back from the senate with the prospect before it of early consideration in the house and with the line of demarcation between the house and senate provisions so distinctly drawn as to admit of no straddling. Representative Conger, as chairman of the committee on coinage, weights and measures and the representative of the administration's silver policy, felt a natural concern that the Iowa delegation should be solid upon this question. The state caucus, however, soon developed the fact that the difference of opinion upon what is commonly known as the bullion redemption feature of the bill was radical and irremediable. This difference of opinion has not yet been reconciled. Mr. Conger, on behalf of the administration, stoutly maintains that this feature is a good one. There are several men in the delegation who cannot look at it in this light. Another conference will be held before a vote is taken on the bill, and strenuous efforts are being made to bring the delegation together. Of course it is not thought possible that an outright bolt from the republican majority standpoint will be made by any member of the delegation."

The fact is, the Iowa congressmen should not be bluffed out of serving the people of that state by the fact that Mr. Conger is at the head of the coinage committee.

He is a man whose political race is run. At home he is regarded as a man largely under the influence of the Des Moines money-changers, who have about as much heart and soul in their business methods with the masses as an alligator has for young blackbirds. The real difference of opinion lies between a willingness to serve the special interests of the users or the general welfare of the people. No Iowa congressman ought to hesitate long on that issue. It is creditable to the Iowa delegation that it does not stand with Conger, and no caucus machinery should coerce it.

THE MASSES AND THE POLITICIAN.

The masses of the people have very small interest in elevating to office the self-seeking politician for revenue, who makes it the business of his life to get office. He is apparently favorable to all reforms and on all sides of every subject where there are any votes. As office-seeking is not in itself a lucrative business the species now referred to are compelled to handle other irons and secure their living by virtue of the position the people give them as an opportunity for speculations.

There is a case at hand in a state we are familiar with. A professional grand-arms politician who has held office all his life wants to go to congress. Professedly a ranting anti-monopolist, he was yet repudiated by the anti-monopoly elements of the republican party in Iowa when he came up for governor last year. They preferred defeat to the success of a man who was evidently insincere in his professions when all the corporation organs and politicians were beaming him as a man of their own heart.

This aspirant desires to succeed Conger, of Iowa, who is servilely betraying the interests of the West, in his position as chairman of the coinage committee, and obeying the dictates of Wall street. The money power will be as well served by the man who, in the name of the republican party, would succeed Mr. Conger. The insipid politician, who has no means of livelihood except as he squeezes the public seat, is as dangerous a man as the bloated bondholder rolling in his millions and as devoid of real sympathy with the masses.

The people of Mr. Conger's district in Iowa should see that he is retired and elect a man of broader views than he or the smooth politician who would succeed him. All the politicians and representatives of special interests in the state should not be permitted to return men to congress of this stripe, no matter how loudly they clamor for recognition in the name of the party or the soldier. It is a false clamor and should not deceive the masses of the voters in Iowa or anywhere else, who should have no sympathy with these barnacles on the body politic.

The Foot Hills.

The foot hills of Marion county not only produce the finest vegetables, small berries etc., but grow nice healthy fruit trees. From conversation with mountain ranchers, we learn that the prunes do exceedingly well on the uplands. It is the opinion of the writer that the time is not distant when the mountain lands of the Cascade foot hills will be valuable for fruit raising. The high or mountain lands of upper California have proved the fact that the prunes do not depend upon the valley for its successful growth and fruitage.—Silverton (Marion Co.), Appel.

CAPITAL JOURNAL JOHS.

The pig is one of the original pen-shammers.
A coarse joker is better than a hare brained misanthrope.
If the climate don't agree with you, you must agree with it.
The theory of a cat's nine lives is probably based on theosophy.
The best way to get your rights is by negotiating your wrongs.
Pomeroy Independent: We should like to ask our supreme court what is murder, if the premeditated shooting dead of a fellow-being is manslaughter?
Talmage is bound to make himself popular. In a recent sermon he argues in favor of kissing. Surely such oscillatory discourses smack very little of religion.
The crop of blackberries in Ashland this season is probably the most profuse ever seen in the valley, the bushes being so full as to seem all berries and no foliage. The crop at Salem is equally large.

Oregonian. A census enumerator in Portland threatened to arrest several persons who have refused to answer his questions. Thereby he will make it appear that he has not missed everybody in his district—though probably this is not his object.

Free sugar will kill the sugar trust. The McKinley bill will do the business. There was a great flurry in sugar trust certificates Saturday, 75,000 shares being sold. The price dropped nearly eight points from last night's closing prices. There was considerable excitement.

Tacoma Globe June 23: The week was a quiet one in real estate circles. There was some activity displayed on Monday and Tuesday, but the last four days showed the market to be in a firm but not a demonstrative condition. As has been suggested the fickleness of the weather may have had something to do with this lull, though generally speaking the best sales have been usually consummated when the weather is anything but fair.

Coal has been found in Tillamook county in abundance, and when railroad and shipping facilities are completed, the croppings that have already been found and tested will be worked, and further prospecting will be done. It is certain that there are rich and extensive deposits on Coal creek, near the Nehalem, and croppings may be seen in the Ne-tucea country. The geological formation in these places is enough to convince anyone of experience, says the Tillamook Headlight, that there is an abundance of coal that can be easily and successfully worked.

Men Who Melt Into Air.

Nearly 200 people disappeared mysteriously from the city of Philadelphia during the year ending with the opening of the present month. This is a remarkable exhibit and one which reminds the writer of an article which appeared in a French scientific journal two or three years ago, wherein the author advances the theory that death is occasionally actual dissolution. It is a disease, the French writer maintains, but one from which there is no suffering; there is no illness or warning of approaching end; the patient suddenly ceases to exist, and as suddenly fades from sight. He says he has actually witnessed this phenomenon and that he was one time walking with a friend who suddenly vanished and has never reappeared. With such conclusive testimony he has little doubt that many persons searched for have actually melted into air. He further states that, at the moment his friend disappeared, a strong sulphurous odor pervaded the atmosphere.—St. Louis Republic.

Knight's of Pythias Biennial Conclave, at Milwaukee, Wis., July, 1890.

For this great occasion excursion tickets will be sold from all principal points in the United States and Canada to Milwaukee and return via the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway at half rates.

As its name indicates the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway is the direct route to Milwaukee, and as the camp ground for the Uniformed Knights (to which points cars and trains will be run through without transfer) is located directly on this line, it will be seen that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway has a great advantage over other routes which are unable to furnish such facilities, and visiting Knights, their families and friends should bear this in mind when purchasing excursion tickets.

A circular giving detailed information will be mailed free upon application to A. V. H. Carpenter, General Passenger Agent, Milwaukee, Wis., or J. W. Casey, Traveling Passenger Agent, No. 53 Stark St., Portland, Or.

Tormented with Salt Rheum—Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Only those who have suffered from salt rheum in its worst form know the agonies caused by this disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla has had great success in curing salt rheum, and all affections of the blood.
"I owe the gratitude to Hood's Sarsaparilla that one would to his rescuer from a Burning Building. I was tormented with salt rheum, and had to leave off work altogether. My face, about the eyes, would be swollen and scabbed, my hands and a part of my body would be raw sores for weeks at a time, my flesh would seem so rotted that I could roll pieces from between my fingers as large as a pea. One physician called it type Poison and gave me medicine accord- ingly; but salt rheum cannot be cured in that way. Finally I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It helped me so much that I took two more bottles, and was Entirely Cured. I have not had salt rheum since. I also used Hood's Olive Ointment on the places affected. It stops the burning and itching sensation immediately. I will recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla not only for salt rheum, but for humors, and that "all-gone" feeling so often experienced."—A. D.
