STRUCK THE WRONG MAN.—Hon. Chas. Miller, of Jefferson, was in the city yesterday and informed a JOURNAL reporter that he was probably the first victim singled out in this county by the swindlers who a little later succeeded in depriving Mr. Jones of his large lump of solid cash. Two fellows who tally exactly with the description of Mr. Jones' visitors arrived on his premises near Jefferson one day simultaneously, "by accident," and had a long interview with Mr. Miller in the hayfield, where he was hard at work. One was "a jeweler from Corvallis," and had his box of tools with him, "making a tour of the country and doing odd jobs of repairing," as he went. The other was "a representative of a large banking house in Nebraska, which was desirous of placing some of its capital in farm loans in this valley, the rate of interest and the security being better than in Nebraska." This fellow was a sleek talker and was very anxious for Mr. Miller to assist him in the work in hand, and insisted on having him go to Jefferson with him, have dinner with him and introduce him, etc. Mr. Miller sized them up in his own easy going mind and concluded they were sharpers, but suspected that they were trying to get his name in some way that they might work it into a note or a contract, and was fully prepared to decline all offers of business of any kind. He suggested they would better remain with him for dinner and go to Jefferson afterward, to which they finally consented. The more Miller watched them the more he became convinced in mind that they would do to avoid, and it is very likely they "tumbled" to the workings of his cranium, for after dinner, Mr. Miller lay down to take a nooning rest and kept a little watch of the fellows' movements out of the window. Notwithstanding they were "strangers" to each other, they were seen to consult closely together where they supposed they were not observed, and in a short time hitched up and skipped without going to the house or saying good-bye. In a week or ten days afterward the Jones matter took place.

CAUGHT A TARTAR.—The following from the Pendleton Tribune is such a remarkable item to be published in the paper of to-day that we give it in full: A tenderfoot caught a tartar down on the street one night this week, and it is presumed he don't want another. The two female evangelists who have been holding forth on the streets had called together quite a crowd, among whom was the aforesaid tenderfoot, who, though unaware of the fact, was standing close by one of the leading and most christian-like ministers of this place. After listening to the very earnest exhortations of the ladies for some time, the tenderfoot became disgusted and turning to the minister commenced a tirade against the cause of christianity, christians, and churches in general. He was listened to very intently throughout, and then came the minister's turn and the way he waxed it to that poor tenderfoot was a caution. It was truly amusing to see the poor, unfortunate, crestfallen fellow try to back out, to "crawfish," to apologize and deny, and as a parting shot the minister told him that if he denied uttering certain words, he was a liar. We say, three cheers for the minister who had the manhood to stand up for the right.

DELIGHTFUL TREAT.—A grand song recital will be given at the M. E. church, Friday evening, the 15th, by Mr. E. D. Crandall, now visiting here from San Francisco, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Strickler, soprano; Mr. Jacob Wenger, tenor; Mr. J. Benson Starr, baritone; Mr. J. H. Ross, basso; Mr Willach, violinist (his first appearance here,) and Miss Pearl Scott, pianist and accompanist. Mr. Crandall will be on the program for three solo numbers, and will sing second tenor in the male quartette, composed of Messrs. Wenger, Starr, Ross and himself. The S. F. Examiner of recent date says, "Mr. Crandall is undoubtedly San Francisco's finest ballad singer." Program hereafter. Those who heard Mr. Crandall when here two years ago will be more than delighted with the opportunity of a like pleasure now, and those who have never heard him, have a genuine treat still before them.

Threshing is in full blast in the Waldo Hills. Grain is good in quality but yield light.

BRIDGE MATTERS.

Danger That the Main Pier May Prove as Bad as That of the Old One.

There is a good deal of talk and excitement on the streets to-day about the new bridge across the Willamette here, caused by apprehended danger that the formation of the main piers is such as to insure no greater safety or permanency than was given by the old bridge.

The trouble is the result of several causes. Upon the recommendation of Engineer Grondahl, who has charge of the work on behalf of the municipalities interested, some changes have been made in the specifications, whereby it is feared the strength and service of the structure have been decreased, and another cause of alarm is the possibility that these changes, made since the contract and bonds have been filed, may invalidate the bonds and relieve the sureties from liability in case of a botched job.

Then it is alleged that the concrete going into the main piers, upon which the life of the bridge most surely depends, is not of the right character for lasting solidity. It is formed of five parts of gravel, two parts of live river sand and one part cement, these being the proportions specified, but either the cement used is not the proper kind or else the proportions are not right. Assistant Supt. J. E. McCoy mixed a block of the material as specified Monday afternoon and pressed it down solidly in a box. This has stood since that time, and to-day it can be broken easily by hand and crumbles apart without showing any cohesive force or strength. It is said by men of knowledge and experience in the business that the slowest drying concrete is hard and solid in 48 hours, therefore this mixture cannot be the kind desired for such strength as will be required in those piers. The cement called for in the contract is White's brand Portland cement or a brand of equal strength. That is not the brand being used.

Mr. McCoy recently insisted upon the performance of work according to contract, which those doing the job were about to leave undone and he is now in receipt of a letter from Mr Grondahl from Portland, saying that the contractors, Hoffman & Bates, have been complaining to him that McCoy has been retarding the work, and Grondahl tells him not to cause delay. There is a slight suspicion freely expressed on the street by interested citizens that Mr Grondahl's sympathies are rather with the contractors than with the counties and the city. If such is the case, the authorities should give the matter close attention.

County Judge Waldo is away to Mehama to-day, or it is probable the work would be ordered stopped until an investigation could be had and proper tests made. He will probably be home to-morrow. Mr. McCoy is determined that as far as lies in his power the work shall be well and faithfully done, but he is of course under Mr. Grondahl's directions and must be governed thereby. A bridge of this size may not seem a very important matter to big contractors or to railroad engineers, but to the taxpayers of this city and these two counties it is highly important. They do not wish to repeat bridge experiments of this extent every year or two.

RAPID THRESHING.—One of the best jobs of threshing heard of this season is reported to the JOURNAL from Polk county by a reliable citizen who saw it done. James Elliott's outfit set in Chas. Coolidge's field south of Dixie at 6:30 in the morning and at 6:30 in the evening, the usual dinner hour taken out, they had three thousand and fourteen bushels of wheat turned out, the product of about 100 acres. This is probably the best record of the season, and 30 bushels an acre is a good yield, especially when the fact is made known that it is only a comparatively few weeks since Mr. Coolidge was complaining that he would have to cut this grain as feed. It is not safe to bet against Willamette crops until the season is over.

WANTS THE SACKS.—Some sneak thief badly in want of grain a few nights ago stole two sacks of wheat from the premises of Fabritus R. Smith, south of the city, and Mr. S. requests the JOURNAL to ask the fellow to return the sacks at least. He's welcome to the grain, but the sacks were only borrowed from the mill.

BRIDGE AT ALBANY.—A petiton was presented to the Albany city council last night asking that body to take steps for securing surveys, river soundings, plan of bridge, and so forth, to submit to the secretary of war, so that by next spring the work of building a wagon bridge across the Willamette at that point may commence as early as possible.

WE WANT MORE.—According to the estimates of census returns sent out from Washington, the state of Iowa has decreased in population the past ten years nearly two hundred thousand. Oregon and Washington have received a great many of those.

The thermometer in the JOURNAL office block registers 88 in the shade to-day at 3 p. m.

The finest ever brought to Salem is the verdict rendered by all who have tried that genuine imported Swiss cheese at J. G. Wright's.

FORCE OF HABIT.—Dr. W. H. Byrd was the victim of an upset last night which might have been avoided by any other than a good looking bachelor who is in the habit of driving with only one hand on the lines. He was on his way to a patient out beyond the Garden road about midnight; darkness was somewhat profound but he was going at a lively pace, when suddenly a hog that was quietly reposing in the dust of the highway jumped up with a snort and ran, causing the doctor's horse to spring sudenly, the doctor holding the lines lightly in one hand—as usual, you know—and not having immediate control of the animal. The sudden jump took horse and buggy into a ditch and all were tumbled in a heap, the doctor slightly bruised, the horse somewhat cut up and the buggy shafts badly broken. The rig was duly extricated and the doctor took the horse ridden by the man who came for him and proceeded to his patient, also returning home horseback. He is not injured to any extent, but it is thought he will practice driving with both hands more regularly, even when visiting Forest Grove or other points.

NOTHING BETTER.—The Oregonian of March 23rd said: "Border drama has been the attraction at this house for the week just ended, "The Danites," that familiar story of cruelty and wrong, being the bill, with Miss Essie Tittel in the double role of "Nancy Williams," and "Billy Piper." Miss Tittel is a hard-working and painstaking actress, ambitious and zealous in her profession. Nothing she attempts is badly done. She speaks the lines with an evident comprehension of their sense and invests the character with a degree of pathos that carries with her the sympathies of the audience. Minnie Tittel as Captain Tansey and the remainder of the cast were all that could be desired in their respective parts." The "Danites" will be presented at Reed's opera house Friday evening next.

DOG DAYS WORKING.—The Albany Democrat is not usually so unfairly devoid of truth and justice even in its joking as it is in the following item: "The city of Portland only, in Oregon, will get a special recount. With so general a demand from all parts of the United States, it would be ridiculous to allow a recount for every small city, like Salem, for instance, which really gets just about all it is entitled to." Salem, however, can afford to be generous and humor the rabid jealousy of the brethren up the stream, as the recount has been ordered for Salem and soon the city will show up where it belongs. If the Albany editors do not become a little more civil a recount of that town will be demanded, and then they will wish their crowing over an inflated list was less boisterous.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Leisinger went to Wilhoit springs this morning.

Mr. David McCully returned last evening from Wallowa county.

Councilman G. W. Shinn, of Independence, was doing business in Salem yesterday.

Mr. Willard, of McCrow & Willard's meat market, is doing business in Portland to-day.

Architect C. A. Robert, who has had a severe attack of malarial fever, is able to sit up to-day.

P. H. D'Arcy, one of Salem's celebrated lawyers, was in the city to-day, says the Albany Democrat.

W. H. Bagley, special agent of the State, started to-day for an extended trip through the Walla Walla country.

Ed. Diven went over to Walport to join the family of his father, Dr. Diven, who are spending the summer by the sea.

Miss Alice Davie returned to her home in Stayton this morning after a pleasant visit in the capital city of a week's duration.

Misses Louise Huelat and Bessie Smith, of Salem, are visiting in this city, the guests of Miss Carrie Pfeiffer.—Albany Herald.

Ben P. Taylor, city mail carrier, and Mrs. Taylor went over to Newport this morning for their summer vacation. S. E. Howard will hold the position during Ben's absence.

Col Jones and Chas. Wileer were among the passengers for the sea shore this morning. The latter has been in poor health for some time and his stay will be indefinite

C. W. Pagett, formerly a grocery merchant at Keokuk, Iowa, is in the city and may conclude to locate. He and his family are making their present home in Independence.

Mr. A. C. Spencer, who has resided for twelve years at Gray's Harbor, Washington, has just bought a farm and located on it near Salem. He knows all about the country he came from.

Prof. and Mrs. B. Irving came home this morning from their wedding tour down to the big city on the lower Willamette. They will make their future home in South Salem.

W. H. Hobson, of Stayton, was in the city to-day on his return from the Tillamook coast, where he and seven others were hunting and fishing. He thinks there are some terrible yarns published about the "boom" towns there.

STEAM LAUNDRY.

A Rappid Method of Cleaning Clothes—The Finest Fabrics Uninjured.

A JOURNAL representative took a few notes while observing the process to which clothes are subjected to at the Salem Steam laundry.—The first thing is, of course, to collect the clothes from every part of the city. On reaching the laundry they are taken into the marking room, where every article, however small, is marked with the number which stands opposite the customer's name or in the case of [illegible] patrons [illegible] is [illegible] with [illegible] number [illegible] opposite it.

The articles are next separated, putting of a like kinds and texture together, and flannels of the same color to themselves. When this is done they are ready for the washing machine, which is a revolving cylinder about four feet in diameter and seven or eight feet long. White shirts, skirts, cuffs and the like are first run through a cold water and then through a luke warm water after which they are put into a boiling suds, then they go through three rinsing waters.

They are taken from the washer to the extractor, a cylinder revolving at the rate of 1200 revolutions in a minute. This cylinder is perforated with numerous holes and virtually dries the clothes without injuring in the least the finest fabrics. These are now ready for starching and from there to the steam drying department where they are allowed to remain from thirty to sixty minutes, when they are ready for the irons. The body of the shirt is ironed by hand, but the bosom and cuffs by machinery. This part of the machinery is difficult to describe to give one who has not seen it much of an idea of its workings, though they are cylinders kept hot by burning gas jets. The work of these machines is rapid and a gloss is obtained that cannot be reached by the hand process. While this appears to be a long process for cleaning clothes, yet they are collected one morning and delivered the next afternoon.

The coarser garments go directly from the Extractor to a complicated looking machine called the "Mangle." The whole process of such garments requires but a day's time to clean them.

A 20 horse power boiler attached to a 10 horse power Kriesel engine, of the Rice & Whitacre make is used to furnish the power to run the machinery.

The laundry gives steady employment to about fifteen persons, and has a growing patronage. The work is done satisfactorly and promptly. A mistake is rarely made in marking clothes and you always get what you send.

VANDALISM.—The vandal who went howling down Court street last night and cut the ropes by which the state windows are suspended at the Court Street, will if caught in the future maliciously destroying any property, meet with the reception of a healthy charge of buckshot. L. A. Davidson. It.

THE EDITORS.—The Oregon State Editorial association meets at Portland to-morrow and a large attendance is expected. A three days' program of business and pleasure is before those attending, and the JOURNAL is represented by one of its editors, and a full report of the proceedings will be printed.

Members of all the Fourth of July committees are requested to meet at Simon's cigar store tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, to settle up the business of the Fourth.

Before you start for the sea shore or mountains don't forget to order the EVENING JOURNAL to your camp.

DIED.

CONOVER.—At the home of her parents in East Salem, Wednesday morning, August 13, 1890, Miss Daisy Conover aged 21 years.

The sickness and expected death of this young lady formed the subject of an article in this paper two weeks ago. She was the victim of quick consumption and departed this life about 4:30 this morning, having just faded away like a flower. Her father Mr. R. B. Conover, is a newspapers man of long standing in Salem, now of the Dayton Herald, and her brother Frank is editor of the Corvallis Gazette. The latter and his wife arrived on this afternoon's train to attend the funeral, which will be conducted from the Presbyterian church to-morrow afternoon at half past two by Rev. E. J. Thompson, of Corvallis.

A Sensible Precaution.

Though disease cannot always be conquered, its first approach can be checked. But not only is the use of a medicinal safeguard to be recommended on the first appearance of a malady, but a wise discrimination should be exercised in the choice of a remedy. For thirty years or more Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has been the reigning specific for dyspepsia, fever and ague, a loss of physical stamina, liver complaint and other disorders, and has been most emphatically indorsed by medical men as a health and strength restorative. It is indeed a wise precaution to use this sovereign fortifying agent and alterative in the early stages of disease, for it effectually counteracts it, if the malady belongs to that large class to which this sterling medicine is adapted. Not only is it efficacious, but pure and harmless.

TEACHERS AS PUPILS.

The Teachers' School Continuing—More Than Half the Teachers in the County Present.

Arithmetic was the first topic discussed this morning. The various methods of teaching this branch was suggested by different teachers. The dry subject of grammar followed that of arithmetic. Prof. Yoder held the position of tutor in these two studies. Prof. J. C. C. Lewis next was called on to take up the subject of mathematical geography. He took the position that only one straight line could be drawn around the earth from east to west—The equator.

The class took the position that all the lines of latitude were straight lines being parallel to the equator which is a straight line or else we would have a curve line parallel to a straight line.

The following teachers have registered since last reported: W A Graham, Floyd B Austin, Sallie Newton, J C C Lewis, Jennie Griffith, Joseph Sellwood, Loretta Starr, H H Smith, Eliza Ahlhauser, Sarah A Miller, Elvara Victor, and Kate Dearborn.

A LOST ADDRESS.

A Trinidad Lady Writes to San Francisco for It.

Mrs. Harriet McNamara of 319 State Street, Trinidad, Colorado, while visiting in St. Louis last summer, did not suffer with her usual sick headaches and indigestion. But upon her return to Trinidad her old troubles came upon her. It was not the St. Louis climate that did so much for her. The secret is told in the following letter, received by Thomas Price & son, the well-known assayers of 521 Sacramento Street, San Francisco. Mrs. McNamara writes:—

"Three months since I was visiting in St. Louis, and obtained two bottles of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. It was of great relief to me in my headaches and indigestion. Since my return to my home in Trinidad I have used of it, and as I have lost the address, I write to you to ask if you will not kindly forward this letter to the proper parties in San Francisco, and have me sent a few more bottles of this valuable vegetable compound."

People having used Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla once send hundreds of miles to get it again, as in the above instance.

HENRY M. STANLEY

IN DARKEST AFRICA

The complete story of Stanley's recent thrilling adventures, and the disclosure of his important discoveries will appear for the first time in the work written by himself, entitled "In Darkest Africa." Do not be deceived by any of the so-called "Stanley books" now being offered as "genuine" and "authentic." To no one of these has Stanley contributed a line.

There is no question about this statement being correct in every particular. We guarantee it, and will give particulars on application.

CAUTION In order not to be misled, see that the book bears the imprint of
