TO-DAY'S JOURNAL LIGHTNING FLASHES.

Why whip the devil about the stump? Blame the S. P. for the fair being a partial success.

Shoot the meager transportation facilities offered for the state fair by the short-sighted S. P. managers. They treat the people of Oregon with contempt and the state board of agriculture like whipped puppies. The horse-race department is enterprising. The track exhibition was well worthy a hundred thousand crowd.

Better the city of Salem rustle for some slight transportation facilities, than raise a hundred thousand dollars for another horse race.

The Albany Democrat says the sports were all thrown down at Salem yesterday.

The question is: Should the S. P. run to suit Mr. Koehler or to suit the wants of the people?

The Albany bridge is to be built next year. The Salem bridge is being built after a fashion this year.

The attendance at the state fair could just as well have been double what it was, with double the enterprise in management.

In spite of the railroad boycott against Salem greater crowds turn out to the state fair than ever before. Railroad attendance has declined by withdrawal of city and excursion trains. But owing to the growth of Salem and Oregon's increasing population the attendance still increases and goes ahead of everything in the past. Salem is the place to hold the state fair.

Supt. of Census Porter should be placed under arrest for trying to pass off a counterfeit census of Oregon upon Uncle Sam.

The city authorities and state board of agriculture should take a sneak. They never even asked the S. P. to run excursion trains to our great state fair.

Salem's ten thousand did royally by the state fair. Salem has got a regular Chicago world's fair hump on herself.

Too late to cry: but the fact remains with proper railroad facilities the state fair treasury might just as well have $50,000 in its cash box. The S. P. would have made money too. It is time the people took the management of that private corporation. It won't do anything itself, nor let anybody else do.

It may be that fast horse owners and their patrons demand it, and that otherwise they would not come to the fair, but it looks strange to an outsider that to enhance the business and profits of the pool sellers, a crowd of five to ten thousand people are kept in agony, suspense and anxious waiting from one o'clock in the afternoon until dark to see a few races that might be sandwiched and be over in time to give the crowd a chance to see something else.

A Mrs. Gittings, of San Francisco, "gets that" with bouncing triplets.

Does anyone pretend that the new Salem street bridge is receiving supervision from a competent steel bridge engineer, whose business it is to see that the specifications of the contract are complied with?

The democratic papers lie when they say the Farmers' Alliance is all torn up at the South. It is the democratic party that is more liable to be torn up.

The S. P. Railway company handle grain from Salem to Portland, a distance of fifty-two miles for the same that they charge from Gervais to Portland, a distance of thirty-eight miles. This is a discrimination, just the same, that no corporation has a right to make. Salem has no kick, however.

They were not sleek swindlers, but very crude ruffians, that Portland crowd at the State Fair.

That native sons of Oregon is a little rough, when this state is advertising for the native sons from all the other states to come here.

The state fair is in progress at Salem, and what is Astoria doing in reference to it? Are we represented there? If not, why not?—Phoenix.

The different parts of the state missed a splendid chance to advertise at the Oregon state fair. At least half a hundred thousand people visited the state fair on the six days. But it was the fault of the management as much as it was of the different sections that our whole state was not better advertised.

If the contractors can afford to have an engineer to look after their interests in the bridge contract, why cannot the two counties afford to employ a competent steel bridge engineer to see that the specifications are complied with?

The State Fair should have had an attendance of 100,000 people and $50,000 cash surplus in the treasury. That would have been the Salem way.

It seems the Portland thieves and pick-purses were quite as successful with Portland people as they were with the rural population. They did not rob as many city people, but they got more in money of them.

THE CAPITAL JOURNAL. use at the Oregon state fair. At least half a hundred thousand people visited the state fair on the six days. But it was the fault of the management as much as it was of the different sections that our whole state was not better advertised.

THE CAPITAL JOURNAL JOTS.

The clergy will organize—but they will not strike.

If you are fairly in love with your town, you will see it grow.

Republicans love Speaker Reed for the enemies he has made.

The only railroad in America that does not run excursions to the state fairs—the S. P.

We must have a recount of the whole state; that is the length and breadth of the matter.

The difference between Speaker Reed and ex-President Cleveland seems to be that Reed is not a dead duck.

The St. Louis Republic says Indiana is against Harrison. The Republic is against Harrison all over the Union.

Ireland has furnished the at present most truly popular couple in America—Anne Rooney and Dan McGinty.

Young men in demand, says the Oregon Vindicator. To vindicate the rest of the sex, we will say, yes; by the young ladies.

The JOURNAL is not independent enough for the Statyon Sun. The Sun is so independent that it leans clear over back into the democratic party.

A manuscript of Robert Louis Stevenson had a narrow escape from burning up on a ship at sea. There is no escape for the public, however.

If the Statyon Sun is independent why does it not support Mitchell for the senate. He seems to be a man a good many republicans and democrats can agree upon.

"The people did our census," said a Washingtonian at the San Francisco chamber of commerce convention. Tom, Dick and Harry just got up and counted each other.

The Oregonian loves to debate problems. Will the Oregonian tell its readers why property and earnings of small farmers, householders and laborers have decreased all over the United States, while millionaires have multiplied?

The Oregon City Courier says the Farmers' Alliance warehouse bill is unconstitutional and paternalistic, but favors an act of the legislature by which "county inspectors of fruit trees should be appointed, whose duty it should be to examine all orchards in their several counties, and to compel spraying by their owners with the solutions that are warranted to kill the vermin." To "examine" is a hard word. Our democratic friend should get a constitutional balance to his plitties.

It happened on a crowded horse car. A seedy looking man, very much the worse for liquor, was to give his seat to a lady, when a robust man slipped into the vacant seat, leaving the lady still standing.

"Sa-ay, you—you fellow you," said the boozey but chivalrous individual, as he swayed to and fro hanging to a strap. "I—I'm drunk, I know; but I—I'll get over it, I will; but you—you're a hog, and you'll never get over it in—in this world—no, sir, never!" And the other passengers agreed with him.

The effects of Mental Exhaustion. Many diseases, especially those of the nervous system, are the products of daily renewed mental exhaustion. Business avocations often involve an amount of mental wear and tear very prejudicial to physical health, and the professions, if abundantly pursued, are no less destructive to brain and nerve tissue. It is one of the most important attributes of Hoadley's Stomach Bitters, that it counteracts for this purpose all these causes, and restores the vitality of the brain and nerves.

The bill does not prevent newspapers from publishing lottery advertisements, provided they are willing to depend on the express companies or some other agents than the United States mail for distribution of their circulation. Many friends of anti-lottery legislation objected to the measure before it was passed by congress because it was not strong enough in that it does not prevent the introduction in the United States of foreign newspapers which may contain lottery advertisements.

The point is raised that it will be possible for the lottery owners to print newspapers directly across the northern or southern border and to place these newspapers under four 12 stamps in the mail, addressed to the long list of patrons of which the lottery companies are undoubtedly possessed, and by this means under the protection of what is called international community or international law, they will be able to reach the public through newspaper advertisements. But constitutional lawyers say only complications in any attempt to amend the bill in that respect and believed that in its present form the measure will very greatly circumscribe the operations of the Louisiana and other lottery companies by putting the brand of national condemnation upon them. It will at all events prevent the national banks from becoming agents of the lottery companies.

IT DIDN'T WORK—A CONFIDENCE MAN STRIKES AN UNPROMISING SUBJECT.

BUTTE, Mont., Sept. 20.—An attempt was made to play a confidence game on Adam Fairaday, an old timer of Montana. A stranger, who called himself Ferguson, wanted Fairaday to show him some land for a manufacturing site. Fairaday consented, and Ferguson made an excuse to go to the road house.

There they met a third gentleman who pulled out a pack of cards. A few bets were made and Ferguson won amounts, gradually raising the bets from $5 to $100.

Finally the stranger offered to bet Ferguson $300 he couldn't pick out a certain card again. Ferguson said he would have to drive to town after money, and Ferguson and Fairaday drove to town. On the way Ferguson explained that he had the stranger's game down pat, and proposed to Fairaday to go in with him on the $300 and they would divide the winnings. Fairaday alighted from the carriage, asked if Ferguson took him for a fool, and started for the police. Ferguson made himself scarce.

SEATTLE, Sept. 20.—"Never-Sleep Holden" got in his work again last night on the festive opium smuggler. He succeeded in capturing 30 five cent tins of prepared opium. It was hid away under the Seattle Transfer company's warehouse in the southern part of the city, on the mud flats. How it got there and by whom it was taken is not known.

For some time past Inspector Holden has been watching the place, having suspected that opium was being secreted under the wharves in that locality. On either side of the warehouse are wide platforms, the floor of which is laid on 16-inch joists. On the under side of the joists strips of planks, 6, 8, and 10 inches wide, have been tacked at irregular distances, and presumably for a purpose. The opium seized was found on these strips of plank and near the edge of the platform.

THE ANTI-LOTTERY BILL—IT WILL PROBABLY ACCOMPLISH A GREAT DEAL OF HARM TO LOTTERIES.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The days of the Louisiana Lottery so far as it is tolerated by the United States government, are numbered. The anti-lottery bill now having passed both houses, has received the president's signature and become a law.

There does not seem to be any doubt that the act endorsed by Harrison will kill at an early date. Louisiana men say that it will be impossible for the lottery to be conducted on anything like the same profitable basis that it has hitherto been.

The friends of the measure believe that the lottery company will make some arrangements with the express companies, by which means they will be able to communicate in a manner which will be adequate to conduct their business. Constitutional lawyers who have found so much difficulty in bringing the bill through will be likely to raise other objections if any attempt should be made to interfere with what will be called the private business of the express companies. The friends of the lottery bill insist that the business of the express companies would no more be interfered with by any enactment which would prevent them from becoming the agents of lottery companies than is the business of newspapers interfered with by provisions which prevent them from publishing lottery advertisements under the penalty of being excluded from the mail.

The bill does not prevent newspapers from publishing lottery advertisements, provided they are willing to depend on the express companies or some other agents than the United States mail for distribution of their circulation. Many friends of anti-lottery legislation objected to the measure before it was passed by congress because it was not strong enough in that it does not prevent the introduction in the United States of foreign newspapers which may contain lottery advertisements.

The point is raised that it will be possible for the lottery owners to print newspapers directly across the northern or southern border and to place these newspapers under four 12 stamps in the mail, addressed to the long list of patrons of which the lottery companies are undoubtedly possessed, and by this means under the protection of what is called international community or international law, they will be able to reach the public through newspaper advertisements. But constitutional lawyers say only complications in any attempt to amend the bill in that respect and believed that in its present form the measure will very greatly circumscribe the operations of the Louisiana and other lottery companies by putting the brand of national condemnation upon them. It will at all events prevent the national banks from becoming agents of the lottery companies.

SCROFULA

Is that impurity of the blood which produces unsightly lumps or swellings on the glands of the neck, causes painful eruptions on the arms, legs, or feet; develops skin diseases of every kind, including blindness or deafness; is the origin of piles, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors;" and fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption, and death. It is the most ancient, it is the most general, it is all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can IT Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and powerful medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula or impure blood, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Every child and childless have been troubled with scrofula, sores breaking out on them in various places. My little boy, three years old has been a terrible sufferer. Last spring he was one mass of sores from head to foot. I was advised to use Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now he is well and healthy, and all the sores have healed. The result is that I have been cured of the scrofula, my little boy being entirely free from sores, and all the sores of my children look bright and healthy." W. D. ATTHERTON, Passaic City, N. J.
