AT THE POOR HOUSE.—A JOURNAL reporter found his way to the Marion county poor farm Sunday, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McCormick. The farm comprises nearly forty acres, about one mile north of the city on the river road. The grounds are in the ordinary condition of Oregonian indifference to appearances, the orchard bending under its load of fruit, with which the ground is profusely covered, and which fact is enjoyed by pigs and visitors upon terms of equal freedom. The poor house, which is also the comfortable home of Mr. McCormick's family, is kept neat, clean and homelike. There are only four county citizens here at present, and one of those pays his board, and is not to be counted, as he is an honorable pensioner of Uncle Sam. There is plenty to eat of well-cooked food, clean beds and warm clothes. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick are well fitted for this task and one is led to believe from appearances of the home that it is conducted in a careful and conscientious manner.

THE PRUNE.—THE JOURNAL has been gathering from its exchanges and any other available sources facts about the prune crop in Oregon, cost of cultivation, yield per acre in money value, cost of planting, etc. All the facts have been gathered into an article which will appear in the daily and weekly JOURNAL this week. Real estate dealers who have fruit lands to sell, or correspondents making inquiries as to fruit growing will find this a valuable edition to send. If any extra copies are wanted, orders can be left at the JOURNAL business office, in P. O. block.

LIVELY DEBATE.—The members of Alka-Hesperian society had a lively discussion at their ball Saturday evening. The question for discussion for next Saturday night is: Resolved "That the necessity of man performing manual labor for a sustenance is a blessing." This question, while old, has something new about it and always carries its share of interest with it. Next Saturday night an important amendment to the by-laws will be voted on, so every member should make it a point to be present.

SHOOTING MATCH.—Company I, of Macleay, will give target shooting match at the range near Macleay Saturday, Oct. 25. The shooting will be for the company medal. Company I have some sharpshooters and it will require some close shooting to down them. The company have also about closed arrangements to give another big dance in their hall Christmas.

THANKS.—THE JOURNAL is in receipt of an artistic and elegant invitation to the festivities in honor of the Oregon Grand Commandry Knights Templar, at Albany, Oct. 28th. Our thanks are due to W. F. Crosby, chairman of the executive committee.

NO DON'T.—Don't kick about the fine fall weather, but make the best of it by bringing your fruit to Squire Farrar & Co's. They pay cash and then sell you groceries at bed-rock rates.

WANTED.—At JOURNAL office, a boy to work in pressroom.

THE CITY OFFICIALS.

Who Goes out and an Interview with One Alderman Who Declines Further Service.

There is considerable talk already of the December city election. The election will be held the first Monday, which is the first day of December. The election will carry with it much interest, as there will be nine officers to elect, five councilmen, a mayor, marshal, recorder and treasurer. The term of office of Councilmen Hirsch, of the first ward, Collins of the second ward, Strang of the third ward, and Bush of the fourth expires in December. According to the city laws the term of Wm. Brown, of the third ward, who was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Ed. Edes, will expire at the same time, which will make nine officers to be elected.

There will be numerous candidates for the offices that are remunerative but just who those candidates will be cannot yet be conjectured. The offices of mayor and councilmen have no pay, but considerable honors attached to them so that few men aspire to the offices and when elected it is only for the good of the city that they accept the offices at all.

Alderman Bush was seen by a reporter and said he was serving his second term, and had no more time to bother with the office. He could hardly find time for his bank work, and some one else could probably be found to take the aldermanship. He would not be a candidate.

There is an expression among some of the citizens in favor of electing fair, safe and conservative business or professional men, to these offices; men who are solvent and capable of managing their own affairs. It is the duty of such citizens to bear their share in securing a good city administration.

Our Property.

Only a few days ago we mentioned the fact that a syndicate of Chicago capitalists had purchased an interest in one of our street car lines, and also a tract of land on which to build cottages to sell on the installment plan. That is what Salem needs. More houses to rent, at a nominal figure, within reach of our mechanics and the laboring class of people. An interview with some leading Salem business shows that an unusual interest is taken in this enterprise and others of a similar character. Conrad's clothing house has increased its already fine stock of clothing, and contrives to sell at the lowest figure, confident that improvements will be made.

A HARD STORY.—Mrs. Miriam Payne is an old lady aged about 72, who has been a county charge for a number of years. Of late she has become quite feeble, and it is said, has not many months to live. In her feebleness of body and mind she indicated a desire to go to a son who resides in Portland and is said to be a practicing physician in that city. Accordingly the county court furnished her with transportation, at the same time notifying the son by letter and again by telegram at the time she left here, of her intended visit. Instead of being received and welcomed to the home of her son as she expected, the poor old lady fell into the hands of a kind-hearted policeman, who escorted her to her son's house, but could find no one at home, and she was taken to the hospital to receive such care and medical attendance as her infirmities necessitate. We hope for the name of humanity that the son was out of the city and failed to receive the letter and telegram, but it is a fearful commentary upon any human shape that is able and strong, that a mother, old and helpless, should remain a county charge, a pauper, for years.—McMinnville Reporter.

"Just as Good." Say some dealers who try to sell a substitute when a customer calls for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Do not allow any such false statements as this in due you to buy what you do not want. Remember that the only reason for making it is that a few cents more profit will be made on the substitute. Insist upon having the best medicine—Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is peculiar to itself.

A Sure Cure for Piles. Piles are known by moisture, itching, burning, causing intense itching when warm. This form as well as blood poisoning and profluvium, yield at once to Dr. Bonomo's Pile Remedy, which acts directly on the parts affected, absorbs the matter, kills itching and effects a permanent cure. It is sold by all druggists or mail order free. Dr. Bonomo, Philadelphia is sold by Smith & Steiner.

PAPER MILL.—There is no industry that would be a paying one from the start more surely in Salem than a paper mill, and the probability now is that a capitalist is interested who recognizes the fact.

A gentleman was here a few days ago who was here in 1888, with the idea of ascertaining the disposition of Salem people toward such enterprises. He found a responsive feeling and whatever is necessary to be done as a matter of encouragement or as an investment on the part of our people will be done freely and promptly.

FATAL FALL.—One of the workmen employed in building bridges on the narrow gauge railroad in attempting to cross the structure spanning Pudding river in the vicinity of Woodburn Sunday evening, fell through and was killed. He was a man about 31 years old, but his name could not be learned in time for this issue.

I have now used four bottles, and it has restored my liver and kidneys to healthy action, and done more to purify my blood than any other medicine I have ever taken. BRIDGE MATTERS.

The Seventy-Foot High Central Pier Leans to the East Twelve Inches.—All the Facts.

THE JOURNAL's expose Saturday of the questionable procedure in the construction of the bridge at Salem has called out general expressions of indignation from the public. The charges of the JOURNAL are more than sustained, except in the matter of the east cylinder pier, which are shown to have been built where they now stand, and that not much of the bank in front of them has washed away.

Investigation and admissions of the superintendent of construction in charge for contractors, shows that the middle pier is settling and that the tall pier has swayed about twelve inches to the east. It appears from the statement of the diver, who examined the structure under water Sunday, that the piling is being forced up through the grillage by the weight of the pier. All this indicates that a general ignorance of the work undertaken prevails, and that the taxpayers have not had the benefit of such supervision in their interest as the construction of a steel bridge should require. The pier as constructed will not sustain their own weight, much less the enormous pressure of a steel super-structure.

It is time for the county courts to call a halt, cancel the contract, which can now by no means be safely carried out, and sue upon the bond, to recover the $15,000 already paid on the contract. It would teach such contractors a salutary lesson and might check them in undertaking contracts which they do not seem to be able to manage. The damage to the city and the two counties is already great. The present duty is to protect the taxpayers against further loss and suffering of inconvenience.

INTERVIEWS WITH CITIZENS.

Mr. A. Bush, banker: "My ideas about the bridge were set forth in the report made by Messrs. D'Arcy, Byars and myself. I have favored and still do something permanent and devoid of jobbery. A steel suspension bridge if rightly built would be the thing."

A business man: "The contractors do not seem to know the weight of their piers, or the crushing point of the timber upon which they rest, to say nothing of the character of the bottom of the river."

E. M. Walter: "I think the first pier ought not to be accepted, under any condition, as it has already proven defective, and that before the city and county do anything further, they ought to know whether the bondmen are good for all these losses and delays. Any body can contract to build a bridge, but to erect a good, safe and substantial one, requires experience at least. We are paying a large sum of money, and Salem certainly cannot afford to have any failure through neglect or incompetency this time."

G. B. Miller, of Gervais, says: "We want a good bridge. You cannot hammer this subject too hard to suit us. We want your paper to stand by the interests of the people."

Commissioner Watson, of Turner, is in the city, and feels rather blue about the bridge matter.

Robert Ford says it is not the fault of the contractors.

J. J. Murphy: "It is a bad piece of business, and will cause the people much inconvenience and expense."

Mr. Boothby: "The work on that pier is faulty in design of faulty in construction. Just who is to blame cannot yet be determined."

A brother to one of the contractors, Supt. Bates, said to a JOURNAL man: "The piers are settling right along. We have a gauge on the central pier. It is out of plumb twelve inches, now. The diver went down Sunday and examined it. He finds that the piling under the grillage is crushed right up into the woodwork. The timbers are breaking in wherever they are set on the piling."

County Judge Waldo was seen and said: "We do not propose to pay any more money unless there is a good bridge put up. They have contracted to give us a bridge, and we propose to hold them to the contract."

Judge Shaw: "The bond was made under my jurisdiction and I believe is properly drawn and has good sureties. According to a court decision a bondman is released when the county authorities allow changes in plans to be made that are not according to the record. As to the liability of these bondmen it will depend on what latitude has been allowed by the court and commissioners in changing the plans."

THE BOND given by Hoffman & Bates, the contractors is in the sum of $30,000, J. H. Smith and H. C. Campbell, sureties. A provision in the bond says: "It is expressly agreed by the parties to this bond that the counties, or engineers employed by said counties, or arch party or parties as he may select, may make changes or alterations in the said plans and specifications, etc., in accordance with the contract, and the making of such changes or alterations shall in no way effect the obligations of this bond." The sureties make oath that they are worth $30,000 above all liabilities, etc.
