A GREAT RUSH IN WALL STREET. WALL STREET, N. Y., Nov. 12.—When the gong sounded for the opening of business this morning on the Stock Exchange there was a yell and a rush. It was pandemonium. Disorder reigned supreme. The galleries were crowded to their utmost capacity by a class which only visit the street in times of great excitement.

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF WALL STREET. NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Wall Street, 10:05 a. m. The stock market opened and was excited, but little higher for general list.

THERE IS A RUMOR on the streets of New York at 11:30 a. m. of the formation of a German syndicate to protect Villard stocks.

At a meeting of the North American Railroad Company held this forenoon a statement was authorized that the company has but few creditors and these are strong financially.

BUYING NORTH PACIFIC. A powerful pool has been buying Northern Pacific preferred, and so far that stock has advanced seven per cent.

WHAT THE TREASURY IS DOING. The secretary of the treasury has authorized the assistant treasurer at San Francisco to receive on deposit funds from bankers, desiring to transfer the same by telegraph to the assistant treasurer at New York.

AT 2 P. M. The market is now at its best and the general list is at the highest figures of the day.

THE LATEST. WALL STREET, 3 p. m.—Money has been stringent, ranging from three to five per cent with a last loan at six.

near being swindled into an immense real estate deal in Chicago is interesting but not flattering to the pride of Oregonians.

Your correspondent sounded Mr. Wilkin on a very delicate subject—the appointment of the two Oregon members of the national board of woman managers of the World's Fair.

There is a very general demand for a revision of these appointments, as they seem to have been made without any consideration or regard for the people.

There is a rumor on the streets of New York at 11:30 a. m. of the formation of a German syndicate to protect Villard stocks.

CRIMINAL.

A FEROCIOUS FISHMONGER. SEATTLE, Nov. 12.—In a wretched little shack on an alley leading from Sixth to Seventh street, between Stewart and Virginia, lives Henry Strohman, a fishmonger.

At a late hour Sunday evening Simpson returned home and claims to have laid a nickel on the table between his own bed and that of Strohman.

This charge the latter indignantly denied, and an angry altercation ensued. Suddenly Simpson seized a pair of scissors hanging upon the wall and opening back one blade, thrust the other into the small of Strohman's back, penetrating to a depth of two or three inches between the lower ribs on the left side.

TACOMA, Nov. 12.—Chief of Police Dillon received a telegram from Seattle giving a description of Elbert Snell and asking that he be arrested and held until further orders.

Snell has been a hop grower on leased lands near Seattle, and either through bad management or poor luck, failed to make money enough to pay his way.

Snell was even this afternoon and denied any intent to defraud. He said he had been dealing with the firm three years and had paid them about $2000 this season.

Notwithstanding the announcement early in the day that the North River Bank would tide over its losses of yesterday and make the satisfactory arrangements with the clearing house, that institution has closed its doors.
