MONTANA MINES SHUT DOWN. HELENA, Dec. 4.-The sudden and unexplained shutdown of the Chambers syndicate mines at Butte, the Anaconda company's principal producer, is the most startling recent event in connection with the mining industry in this state. The groupe comprises the Mountain Consolidated, Green Mountain, High Ore and Wake Up Jim mines, which have supplied the company's great works with ore since last year's fire in the Angeonda & St. Lawrence, and which have given employment to about 1000 men. The latter mines have but recently been put in producing shape, and even yet their combined output is limited to 500 tous per day, while the output of the former group approximated 2000 tons. As the capacity of the Anaconda works is 2500 tons per day, it is obvious that the supply of ore must come from the other source or they too, must suspend.
