HEADQUARTERS FOR CANDY, manufactured fresh every day at Jones & Bernard's on State street.

IN STRIPED CLOTHES.—Had all things worked favorably Christmas night an amusing scene would have taken place at the asylum masquerade ball. Four friends of G. S. Downing, superintendent of the Oregon state prison, borrowed suits of striped clothes to wear at the dance.

AN UNLUCKY DAY.—Alvin McCormick, the 18-year old son of J. H. McCormick, keeper of the poor farm, had his share of ill luck in the line of accidents yesterday. The first was while using the whetstone on his ax preparatory to chopping wood, when his hand slipped, the second finger of the right hand catching on the sharp edge, cutting the top clean off.

LOG SCHOOL HOUSES.—In the great state of Oregon there yet remains ninety-six log school houses. Of this number Lane county leads, having the small number of sixteen. Grant county comes in next with ten. Many of the other counties have from one to four or five.

STOLEN ROBBER.—On Christmas eve two stores were robbed at Turner, by some unknown burglar. The stores were those of A. H. Miller and P. G. Cornelius. An entrance was made by a pane of glass being removed from a window.

OFF FOR CHINA.—Among the overland passengers for San Francisco last night was Lee Jule Wong, who is on his way to China to procure a wife and come back next summer. Lee has lived in Salem 17 years, 10 years of which he worked for Werner Breyman and the last few years he has been in the mercantile business with On Lee. He is an intelligent and trustworthy Chinaman.

SOCIAL REVIEW.

Christmas Chimes Among the Churches.—Other Social and Literary Events. This will be the last social review in the JOURNAL for the year 1890. A parting word from the society editor may not be amiss, as the old year wanes away to give place to the new, and possibly a more prosperous one if such can be.

MAISON FRATERNITIES. Salem Lodge No. 4 and Pacific lodge No. 52 A. F. & A. M., held their public installation of officers in the lodge rooms last night. Every available seat was occupied and others were unable to find seats.

CHRISTMAS AT THE INFIRMARY. Mr. and Mrs. James H. McCormick, who manage the above named county institution, left no one of those under their care without a present. There are nine inmates there at present and all were made happy by the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. McCormick.

AT THE CHURCHES.—BAPTIST. This church was filled to its utmost capacity, including the north wing, which was thrown open to the visitors and friends. A good sized tree stood at each end of the rostrum, and between them was an old-fashioned fireplace, arranged with a good degree of naturalness.

THE CHAPEL READING. Miss Lucia B. Griffin's reading at the University chapel on last Saturday evening was largely attended and every seat in the large auditorium room of the chapel was occupied.

CHRISTMAS AT THE PEN. According to the custom inaugurated by Superintendent G. S. Downing, the prisoners of the Oregon state penitentiary rendered a musical and literary program in the forenoon, and then were treated to a Christmas dinner.

COMING TO SALEM. Mrs. Louise Humphrey-Smith, of California, is expected to give a reading at the opera house Jan. 10, 1891. Hear what California says: "Of all the readers that have been heard here, and many there have been that have come and gone, perhaps no single one gave so much pleasure to cultivated listeners as the lady who appeared under the auspices of the Channing Club of this city."

THE UNITARIAN. A distribution of presents took place in the hall of the Unitarian society, and a pleasant program carried out. The German Reformed church also had interesting exercises. The two societies are young in the city, yet each is well represented.

SOLID COMFORT.—That is what one has when they have bought one of Klein's easy pair of shoes see his mountain shoe "Hox" 'em all.

ASYLUM CHRISTMAS.

Dr. Harry Lane, Superintendent, gave those under his care who were able to enjoy such a treat of a fine Christmas dinner. More of that excellent dinner was produced on the asylum farm than probably any farmer in the county produced at home, setting the same kind of a dinner.

SURPRISE PARTY. About a score of young people very agreeably surprised Miss Mandia Combs at the residence of Prof. and Mrs. W. S. Arnold last Tuesday evening. The evening was spent in music, games and other amusements until a reasonable hour when the guests took their departure, all calling the surprise a very pleasant success.

CHRISTMAS DRIVES.

What Awaited Their Eyes at the New Willamette. The bill of fair printed in the EVENING JOURNAL revealed the fact that a menu of about one hundred and fifty dishes awaited the guests at the Willamette for Christmas dinner. The program was carried out in full excepting, a few items of imported game which missed a train and arrived too late.

THE DECORATIONS. The dining hall was elaborately festooned, with wreaths of evergreen twining about the columns and reaching to the chandeliers, from each of which was suspended the Mistletoe. The gas jets were surmounted by Christmas wax candles. At the proper moment, as the dining room was thrown open, the jets and electric arc lights were turned out. Only the dim light of the hundreds of tiny candles, flickering like fireflies and the green and rose-tinted illuminations from Chinese lanterns remained to brighten the glory of the scene.

A NEW UNIVERSITY.

Portland Abandoned the Thought of Securing the Willamette University. Since Portland can not get the Willamette university away from Salem she is making an effort to establish one of her own. Such a scheme is grand if properly carried out, but hasty work is not always commendable.
