The Bill introduced in the house by Hen. John Minto (H. Men Do Not Write. Some of our would-be literary people of which the simplest facts are beplastered? minds. It seems to have been written by individuals in hysterics. One "fine writer" of the femining gender tells us that when woman "girds on her genius armor," and plunges into the "world wide areas of in-tellect," she does so at a "fearful sacrifice." We wish she wouldn't, for the sacrifice in these cases is the time of the reader. An poetesa "heaves with exuiting joy, and her eye burns with heavenly fire." This is a mistake. Persons who write such poetry as rational beings can read without a sen sation of nauses, sit quietly at their desks seen several real poets in the very act. They did not ruffle their hair, their eyes ooked perfectly natural, and they exhibited no symptoms of violent palpitation of the heart. Depend upon it that real poets never roll their eyes like automaton clocks, or cut any other extraordinary capers under what Amos Kendall cailed "the excitement of composition." Byron said: "Confound the moon! it always gives me rheomatism; but I write well of it." No doubt many young and romantic persons suppose that his lord ship eulogized the moon by moonlight, with his shirt collar thrown back, and nothing of his eyes visible except the whites; whereas, In reality, he wrote about the planet in a snug study, with the shutters closed, the lamps lighted, and a glass of gin and water and some Stilton cheese and crackers be-

A true poet or a good prose author must have a sound, vigorous brain; and people with sound, strong intellects neither act like kinatics while they are writing, nor jam pretty words into inappropriate juxta-position to the confusion of common sense.

PECULIAR STOMACH.

"How much are slate-pencils?" asked : woman as she stepped into a stationery store yesterday morning. Ten cents a dozen."

*Give me one dezen." Then, unwrapping the package, says the Auburn (Me.) Guzette, she deliberately began to eat the pencils. Yes, cat them-not just chipping the ends with her teeth, as de school-children, but bling off substantia quarter-inch pieces and crushing and swaling them with infinite relish. This was quite a remarkable achievement for a staid, matronly person, such as she appeared to be, and naturally she was questioned con cerning this strange propensity. From what she said in reply it seems that this unusual system of diet was by no means con fined to state-pencils. Gravel is a stuple ection 9-That section 1, title 3, of said article of food with her, properly straine chapter, as amended by ordinance 1.0, be amended so as to read as follows: Section 1. The only peculiar thing about her looks is her complexion, which is curiously pale-almost been accustomed to cat gravel and such like substances ever since she can remember. She lives in Lewiston "The only thing I can't eat," observed this remarkable woman as she turned to leave the store, "is paving-stones. They break my teeth."

ORIGIN OF WOMEN.

Remarkable Myths Concerning the First of Earth's Angels.

Woman's first appearance has been a fruitful subject for the legend mongers, says the Pall Mail Gazette. The Phenician myth of creation is found in the story of "Pygmalion and Galatea." There the first woman was carved by the first man out of Ivory and then endowed with life by Aphrodite. The Greek theory of the creation of woman, according to Hesied, was that Zeno, as a cruel just, ordered Vulcan to make woman out of clay, and then induced clay doil with all their worst qualities, the result being a lovely thing, with a witchery of mien, refined craft, eager passion, levof dress, treacherous manners, and shame-

The Scandinavians say that as Odin, Vill and Ve, the three sons of Bor, were walk ing along the sea beach they found two stick of wood, one of ash and one of eim. Sitting down, the gods shaped man and woman out of these sticks, whitting the woman from the elm and calling her Eman. One of the strangest stories touching the renes. In so far as the creation of man goes the legend is not unlike that relates by Moses, only that the fall came before Eve arrived. After the man had caten the forbatden fruit he became affected wi a boil on the leg, out of which, when burst, came a beautiful girl. The man first thought was to throw her to the pigs, but he was commanded by a messenger from heaven to let her play among the diggings until she was of marriageable age, then to make her his wife. He did so, called her Habours, and she became the mother of all the race of men. The American Indians' myths relative to Adam and Eve are numerous and entertain ing. Some traditions trace back our first parents to white and red Matze, another is that man, searching for a wife, was given the daughter of the king of the muskrats, who, on being dipped into a neighboring lake, became a weman.
