THE GRAND ARMY FAIR.

A Magnificent Exhibition to be Made at the Armory During a Whole Week.

Under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic, of this city, one of the grandest enterprises in the history of Salem will be commenced on Monday, the 9th of February, to continue one week at the old Armory on State street near the corner of High.

It is to be a fair or exposition conducted partly after the manner of the Portland exposition, but of course on a smaller scale, though none the less an object of pride and pleasure to the people of the city and surrounding country.

The arrangements are in the hands of six committees appointed by Sedgwick Post G.A.R. being composed of prominent, energetic, public spirited ladies and gentlemen who are sparing no pains to make this contemplated exhibition in every way worthy of patronage and admiration.

In the spacious building will be erected six large booths, arranged in a style to represent six of the great nations, the costumes of these attending thereat and the decorations being suggestive of the representations. A large stage will be constructed and each evening one of nations will present a superior literary and musical program, which will be preceded, interspersed and followed by choice national airs and other selections by the Second Regiment band, engaged for the occasion. This arrangement will insure a fresh, new and varied program for each evening.

The committees have been zealously at work making a thorough canvass of the city, and have met with the most cheering encouragement and liberal responses from our citizens, so that they are now assured of being enabled to present a display that will gladly surprise every visitor.

Aside from the thousand evidences of womanly industry, artistic taste and skill, which will be on exhibition and open to sale, a magnificent art gallery will be provided and a museum of numerous valuable and interesting curiosities for the gratification and information of the student of history, natural, social and physical. In this latter department will be a fine collection belonging to the Alpine club Portland, which the officers of the club have kindly consented to send here for that purpose.

The booths will be attended at all times by competent and entertaining overseers, who will take pride in catering to the pleasure of the visitors and selling such articles as may be desired.

This is the first attempt of the kind made in Salem, and its success, which is already assured, will be a great credit to the veterans and their lady friends who have undertaken it. The duty of all citizens is to see what they can do to add to this success, and by every means to encourage those engaged in it, and to make arrangements for that week, so that no engagements or fancied duties will prevent their attendance at the Fair each evening.

It is not a money making scheme, but was set on foot principally for pleasure and amusement, as well as to demonstrate what can be done in Salem in the line of a creditable exhibition, when a little trial is made. However, should any profit ensue as a result of the fair, it will be applied to a noble purpose. The G. A. R. some time ago bought a plot of ground in the I. O. O. F. cemetery, which they have fixed up in very pretty shape, and to which plot they have transferred the bodies of a few comrades from the Potters' Field, thus paying them the last honor possible. Now, should this fair yield any profit, it will be devoted to the placing of a beautiful and appropriate iron fence around that plot, thus adding to the beauty of the Silent City and perhaps creating a spirit of emulation which shall be the cause of further decoration and beautifying in the same locality.

Salem people have already done well for the fair and now it only remains for the general public to take an interest in it, speak of it with local pride and when the time comes give it their moral support and personal attendance, and the possibilities are the coming event will be the starting-point from which other like events will spring on future occasions.

The Enlarged Journal.

MONDAY evening's enlarged JOURNAL has pleased all its readers, and business men are highly satisfied. Most papers try to get out their large editions Saturday and Sunday, but the JOURNAL desires for its advertisers the largest returns practicable, and to reach the people with their announcements Monday evening brings that result. The business man gets the benefit of his advertisement for all that week and gets an insertion in our large WEEKLY JOURNAL circulation besides, and all at a low rate. The enlarged JOURNAL will appear on next Monday.

SUGGESTED COMMENT.

The legislature can do a great deal to secure open rivers. What will they do?

The JOURNAL is still growing. It is the Salem paper that brings you the news of the day twelve hours ahead of any morning paper.

The JOURNAL is printed at time of day when working people have most time to read and carry it to their homes in every suburb of the city.

Some of the journals that are most severe in their comments on the governor's message did not have the fairness to give it their readers in its full text, as the JOURNAL did the day it was delivered.

Pacific Coast Doings.

A. P. Luse, the well known typefounder of Chicago, (of Marder, Luse & Co.,) died at Los Angeles on Saturday, while on a visit to his brother-in-law, Judge Wade.

At Port Townsend on Saturday a young woman named Birdie Jones was found dead in a pond in the rear of a notorious dance house in the outskirts of town. The coroner took charge of the corpse. The woman had been on a drunk for some time past.

In Helena last Saturday a cabin was raided where bogus milk was manufactured for sale to the citizens. One of the inmates arrested said he bought the recipe for the fraudulent mixture from a man named White in Seattle. The parties will be prosecuted.

The Bellingham Bay Improvement Co. have accepted an order from Australia for 20,000,000 feet of lumber. The transportation of this order will require twenty-five ships of the largest tonnage and will keep from 250 to 300 men busily employed for about six months.

TURNER NOTES.

Farmers in this vicinity are busy turning the soil and sowing grain; several small orchards are being set out.

While in Aumsville recently we noticed that Wm. White has sold his stock of merchandise to Rev. Ephriam Knott, and is intending to move out in the country about eight miles east of Aumsville, and turn his attention to farming.

The I. O. O. F. lodge, of Turner, had a very enjoyable time on last Saturday night. After the public installation a fine repast was served by the ladies of the town and was a complete surprise to the boys. L. E. Pratt, T. O. Barker, Edwin Hirsh, C. B. Moores and Wm. Clagg it came up from Salem to assist in the installation services.

A Big Landslide.

The landslide near Unity, on the Union Pacific, is said by those who passed it to have been a terrific one. The mighty mass of earth and rock jarred from the hillside by a passing train, descended upon the engine and two cars following. Instead of burying the engine it seemed to slide under it and bear it upward. The engineer and fireman had a narrow escape, both crawling out somehow and reaching the top of the cab in time to get out of the way of the steam released from the boiler. The slide was finally cleared up yesterday morning, after delaying trains for a day of two.

The engine was totally demolished and rendered worthless. It was a new one, No. 1805.—East Oregonian, the 17th.

An Ordinance Bill.

To amend sections 1 and 2, title 7, sections 1, 2, 3 and 11, of title 3, of said chapter 3, of ordinance No. 51.

SEC. 7—That section 1, and title 2, of said chapter, being part of ordinance No. 51, be amended so as to read as follows: section 1. All city taxes and license fees shall be paid in current gold and silver coin of the U. S. of the United States, except that city orders shall be received for taxes as provided in section 8, title 1, of said chapter.

Section 8—That section 2, of said title 2, be amended so as to read as follows: section 2. All fines and penalties imposed for the violation of city ordinances may be enforced by action against the offender in the recorder's court, which action shall be tried without a jury, and, in case of conviction, the judgment therein shall be for the amount of the fine, of the term of imprisonment in default thereof, or of either or both fine and imprisonment and the cost of the action.

Section 9—That section 1, title 3, of said chapter, as amended by ordinance 140, be amended so as to read as follows: Section 1. That no person, firm, company or corporation shall engage in, prosecute or carry on any business or profession within the limits of the city of Salem for which a license is required by this ordinance, until he or they have obtained such license.

Section 10—That section 2, title 3, of said chapter, as amended by ordinance 150, be and the same is amended so as to read as follows: Section 2. No person or persons keeping a bar room, saloon, tippling house, restaurant, drug store or other place within the city of Salem where spirituous, vinous or malt liquors are sold shall within the city directly or indirectly, in person or by another, sell, barter or deliver, or knowingly permit to be sold, bartered or delivered for or on his or their account, any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in any quantities less than one gallon without first obtaining a license therefore in the manner hereinafter provided. And it shall not be lawful for any such person or persons to sell, give or deliver any of the above enumerated liquors to any person intoxicated or who has been declared a common drunkard as provided in ordinance No. 114, or on Sunday, and no keeper of a bar-room, saloon or tippling house, within the city, shall keep his place of business open on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday.

Section 11—That section 8, title 3, of said chapter 3, as amended by ordinance 150, be amended so as to read as follows: Section 8. Every person, firm, company or corporation carrying on or engaging in any business or profession hereinafter in this section enumerated, within the city of Salem, shall, before engaging therein, be required to procure a license therefor from the recorder at the following rates: 1. For keeping a circus or menagerie, seventy-five dollars for each exhibition. 2. For keeping any theatre, show, exhibition, or other place of amusement except for charitable purposes, fifty dollars per quarter; twenty dollars per month; ten dollars per week, or three dollars for each exhibition. 3. For keeping any bowling alley, billiard table, pigeon-hole table or other tables on which games are played with balls or cues, when kept for public use, with or without charge, twenty-five dollars per annum for each table, provided not more than fifty dollars per annum shall be charged for the tables kept in one room. 4. For keeping any shooting gallery, fifteen dollars per month, or five dollars per week. 5. For keeping any bar-room, saloon, tippling house or other place where spirituous or vinous liquors are sold in quantities less than one gallon, four hundred dollars per annum. 6. For keeping a bar-room, saloon, tippling house or place where malt liquors are sold in quantities less than one gallon, three hundred and fifty dollars per annum. 7. Hotel runners shall each pay a quarterly license of five dollars. Every person who on the public streets, or on the dock, steamboat landings or railroad depots, within the city, shall solicit custom for any hotel, inn, tavern or boarding house, shall be deemed a hotel runner under this title. 8. Each auctioneer shall pay an annual license of fifty dollars or for each day or night five dollars. And all applicants therefor shall before receiving the same file with the recorder a good and sufficient bond, with one or more sureties, conditioned that he will faithfully account for and pay over to the person entitled thereto all money that may come into his hands as such auctioneer. Every person shall be deemed to be an auctioneer whose business it is to offer property at public outcry, excepting executive officers and executors, administrators and guardians in their official capacity; provided that no auctioneer shall be authorized, by virtue of his license, to employ any other person to act as auctioneer in his behalf except in his own store or warehouse or in the premises. 9. Peddlers shall pay a license fee of fifty dollars per annum, thirty dollars for six months or fifteen dollars for three months. 10. Hawkers shall pay a license fee of fifteen dollars per week, and no such license shall be issued for a shorter time than a week. 11. For keeping a two-horse cab, hack, wagon, truck, omnibus or other vehicle used in the city for the transportation of persons or property for hire, fifteen dollars per annum. 12. For keeping a one horse dray, wagon, cart or other vehicle for such use, ten dollars per annum. All vehicles used for the transportation of property from place to place, for hire, within the city, whether by the load, by the day or upon contract, shall be required to pay license under this section. And all licenses for any of the aforesaid vehicles shall be issued semi-annually for a term of six months, on the first day of January and July, of each year; provided that a license may be issued for any of said vehicles after the first of the term, but to that case for the remainder of the semi-annual term only, and shall be charged proportionately for the remainder of the unexpired term. And no license under this title shall be issued for a shorter period than six months, except as hereinbefore provided. And all moneys for licenses shall be paid to the recorder before any license shall be issued.

Section 12—That section 11, title 3 of said chapter as amended by ordinance 140, be amended so as to read as follows: Section 11—The recorder shall number the licenses issued by him to the owners of vehicles, commencing at one and continuing upward, and it shall be the duty of the owner or driver of vehicles used for the transportation of persons or property within the city for hire, to place the number assigned to his vehicle by the recorder upon each side thereof in a conspicuous place, in a neat and legible manner, in figures not less than one and one-half inches long and of proportionate width. The owner of any licensed vehicle failing or refusing to place the number assigned him, upon his vehicle as herein required, shall, upon conviction thereof before the recorder be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars.

COOLNESS IN DANGER.

Some of the Most Reliable Contributors to the Hour of Peril.

"There is no great secret about it," said an old soldier to me. "You must think about the danger and not about yourself. See!"

At first glance I confess I did not see, remarks a writer in the New York Weekly. But upon further conversation with the veteran I caught his meaning. His idea was that panic was caused by a sudden self-consciousness. One begins to imagine that a limb is crushed or the breath knocked out of him, or he forecasts the pain or the misery of his hurts before he gets them. The danger itself, that is, the thing that is about to hurt you, possibly, but has not yet done so; the thing that is to be confronted, met and vanquished; this is put out of mind by the terror with which it clouds itself, and so it has you at a disadvantage. Danger masks itself into terror. The terror blinds our wit and paralyzes our arm; we are thus at the mercy of our destroyer. The real danger we do not see—that is, the agent of evil—unless we are cool-headed.

There is a world of truth in the philosophy of this well-known General. Suppose one is in a theater at the time of an alarm of fire. Most people do not even smell the fire, much less see it. Most people are simply self-centered to that degree that they know nothing outside of personal alarm. The real cause, who has the coolness to seek for it? Who inquires, where is it? Or who asks, what is your authority? Not one. All are thinking of self. I do not now mean to criticise the selfishness of it, the moral phase of the matter. I only point out that personality, not the cause, fills every mind. Except of course the cool-headed man here and there who thinks to ask: "Now, I wonder if it is really so. I would like to know who said so." Such a man is not drawn into a vortex and trodden into the carpet. He studies the danger itself, and as usual, nine times out of ten, discovers a way to match it.

A physician explains to me that the heart's action, under the terror excited by danger, is in many cases equivalent to apoplectic paralysis. The blood is left to gorge the poor brain, and the person is insane. Or, in the reverse case, the arterial blood is not sent out, the brain is empty, so to speak, the sufferer is powerless. This is in either case shock. Shock is the result of dread. Dread is the mind's action by imagination. The thing to do is to break the spell of imagination. One may accomplish this by resolutely putting away all thought of self and thinking, insisting on fastening the attention on the cause of the alarm. It must be achieved early before the heart is affected. I may be disputed as to imagination of the pangs of being hurt. It is not asserted that one is conscious of imagining. "Oh, I shall suffer so, if I am burned." No; that is too long a sentence to be thought out, consciously, in a moment of terror, yet the impression, instantaneous as lightning, is nevertheless there. If you afterward recall your thoughts, you will confess that I am correct. In battle men do not think of being hurt; the sight of shocking wounds does not awaken any thought of pain. It is before the battle that legs tremble and nerves of the whole body quiver with anticipated pains, till the man is a coward in spite of himself. In action the cause, those guns over there, those lines of the enemy, fill the mind's eye; consequently the soldier is cool.

I recently heard a lady relate that, when a fire began in her room the blaze was so curious as it licked in along the cornice that she found herself saying, "How pretty that is!" As a result she was able to act coolly in escaping from the chamber. In another case a gentleman was saved from being run over by a horse, from the fact that, as the mad animal was about to spring upon him, he thought, "What a close resemblance between that animal and my off one of a pair!" This gave him sufficient self-control to grasp at a passing street-car and swing himself out of harm's way. Whereas it is a well-known fact that many people are "struck powerless" by the very sight of a frantic runaway, and so neglect the opportune second of escape.

I have yet another case in mind. A gentleman in the wild West, about to be assaulted by a scoundrel in a way-side ranch, says: "I saw him draw his weapon. I knew he was crazy drunk, and that he had mistaken my peaceable, commercial self for a pal with whom he had had a quarrel. As he drew on me I thought. Is he German or American? I shouted to him in German, 'When did you leave Fatherland?' It struck his ear in time. The next minute I had what they call out there 'the drop on him'; that is, I covered him with my own weapon."

Then, evidently, mere panic, ducking the head, or raising an elbow, or a shout of terror, would have been utterly useless. The conception of nationality abstracted the imperiled man's mind from terror; he was then instantly ready to appeal to the man's love of the old home across the seas. The reasoning was quick as lightning, but as correct as arithmetic, for if the brute could be caused to think of something else beside his rage, even for an instant, the volition to murder would be for that instant impossible.

There is scarcely any danger which does not change its phases as it approaches, like a cloud in an angry sky. The changes are the things to be looked out for—they are your openings of possible escape. "Certain destruction" has never happened till you are actually destroyed—at which time, it is hoped, all fear is forever over, if you have behaved well in this world. Never submit to be killed without an effort. While there is life there is hope, if your mind is cool enough to snatch at the hope; it may be a very small and obscure hope, but it is always there—yes, always—while you are yet breathing. It is not, in my opinion, a matter so much of custom, of having been often in danger, that makes the cool man. Fatigue, hunger or any previous overstrain of the nervous system will often cause the usually cool man to forget himself. Good health and a clear conscience are helps. A cheerful disposition and a profound trust in God's care are the best of all contributors to the hour of peril—an hour, by the way, that no one ever escapes meeting some time.

The President's Private Flag.

Probably most persons are not aware that in addition to the regular American flag there is an official flag of the President which he alone is authorized to use and which is never displayed except in his honor. The flag is a dark blue, with a white eagle with outstretched wings and holding a shield in its claws. Above this eagle and between its wings are seven white stars and beneath it, half on each side, are six more, the thirteen being emblematical of the original States. This same design was the official flag of President Washington and it has not been altered to the present time.

A Turtle That Eats Plank.

A turtle weighing eighty eight pounds was caught in Walnut creek, Henry County, Ga., by a party of fishermen. Its head was as large as a dog's and when cut off snapped in two an inch plank which Mr. McKibben placed in its mouth. Its shell measured twenty-eight by nineteen inches and will hold water.

Citizen—So you think of locating here? Physician—Yes. I thought some of practicing among you.

Citizen—See here, young man, there's a good opening here for a man as understands his biz, but we don't want no practicing, or experimenting—doctoring's what we want!

Many tired women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here or there and in this way they all present, alike to themselves and their ever-going and indifferent or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he prescribes his pills and potions, summons them to be sick, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some womb disorder. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his "practice" until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine, like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have removed the disease, dispelled all these distressing symptoms, and instituted comfort instead of prolonged misery.

It is the only medicine for the weaknesses, injuries and painful derangements peculiar to women, sold by druggists under a positive guarantee that it will give satisfaction in every case, or price paid for it will be promptly refunded.
