UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Miss Grace Bushnell, a Conservatory pupil, has gone to her home at Eugene for a week's recreation and visit.

A base ball club has been organized, and for several successive evenings of late interesting games have been played.

A very quiet and appreciative audience was present at the recital Wednesday evening, which was presented very nicely in every particular.

Rhetorical work for the students below the third year classes, was held Thursday, with some very good essays and declamations rendered in the various session rooms.

V. B. Smith, of Shedd's Station, entered school Monday. J. E. Bartel, a former student of Willamette, who has lately finished a course of study in medicine at Columbus, Ohio, is visiting friends at the school.

Prof. Van Scoy made arrangements with the captain of the Manzanillo, for an excursion Saturday, and a limited number of tickets have been sold. The trip will, no doubt, prove to be a very pleasant one, and serve to relieve the monotony of studying hard week after week.

Many of the students hardly realize that only twelve weeks are left 'til commencement. Some of the more studious are making vigorous efforts to have their work ready, and well prepared to pass all the closing examinations that will roll round sooner than they would wish.

A NEW VENTURE.

A Salem Photographer Makes Larger Improvements and has Secured an Expert Operator.

T. J. Catterlin, the enterprising photographer, to meet the demands of his growing trade, has built a two story addition to his gallery, and employed Mr. J. H. Brown, late of St. Paul, who has come to this coast to remain a year for his health. He is an expert artist and holds several medals for posing, from the finest artists in the country. He is an artist of twenty-five years experience. There is no climbing of stairs and every thing is now in better shape than ever before to do better work at bedrock prices.

After a twenty-five years experience in this line of work competition is defied from any house on the coast. They guarantee all their work and invite the people to take a look through their studio.

Profit in Sheep.

The Independence, Iowa, Journal says: "Mr. Ozias has a flock of about one hundred and fifty head of Lincolnshire sheep—one of the very best flocks in the West—and he says there has been no year during the time he has kept sheep when they have not paid 20 per cent more profit than any other stock kept on the farm. The average clip of wool from his flock for several years has been thirteen pounds per head. He sells no lambs; the wethers are all kept until after the first shearing and then sold for mutton, while the ewe lambs are kept to increase the flock. His sheep are yarded every night, and in all the fifteen years he has been in the sheep business he has never had a sheep or lamb killed or injured by dogs or wolves. He believes that on any farm of 100 acres, that is fenced for sheep (three barbed wire with two plain wires below will do) fifteen or twenty sheep can be run with other stock at a net profit of the entire income from the little flock, as during summer they will pick their living from the weeds and grass left by the cattle or horses, and the weeds they destroy and the fertility they add to the farm will pay for wintering them. In Mr. Ozias' opinion, a flock of sheep is the farmer's best banker."

A man who has practiced medicine for 40 years ought to know salt from sugar, read what he says: TOLLEDO, O., Jan. 10, 1887.

Messrs F. J. Cheney & Co.—Gentlemen:—I have been in the general practice of medicine for about 40 years, and would say that in all my practice and experience have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by you. It has proved itself to be a wonderful and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that I would not cure, if they would take it according to directions.

Yours truly, L. E. GORSHUCK, M. D. Office, 215 Summit St.

We will give $100. for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured with Hall's Catarrh Cure. Taken internally.

F. J. CHENEY & Co Props, Toledo O. Sold by all Druggists, 75 cents.

Why Suffer With the Remedy at Hand? Gentlemen: I have been a great sufferer from sciatic rheumatism for five years. A portion of that time have been confined to my bed. Have been treated by the best physicians without relief. One day I saw the fourth bottle of Hubbard's Rheumatic Remedy and directly it will work a permanent cure. It acted upon the liver and regulated my kidneys and digestive organs immediately, and has done me more good already than all the other medicines I have ever taken. I cheerfully recommend this medicine. Mrs. ALICE HENNINGSON, Altona, Mich. Sold by South & Belier.

Excitement runs high in this city over System Builder, as everybody is using it for Catarrh of the Stomach, Constipation—Dyspepsia, Impure Blood and to build up the system—it certainly must be an excellent preparation, when everybody speaks so well of it. dewey bones, and uttered a deep thunderous growl at the sound. From the distance the echo of voices reached him—careless laughter and stray sentences here and there. "It's Belton and Ralph Wier, coming back to the inn after their day's shooting," he thought. "If I could only get word to them!"

He tore a leaf from his pocket-book, scribbled a line or two on it as well as he could in the uncertain dusk, and, wrapping it around his watch, flung it as far as his aim could reach toward the swamp. "Matters are getting serious," he said to himself. "If I don't get word to them soon, the mischief will be done."

But the mischief had not been without its use. "Hello!" said Wier; "a shooting star!"

"A white bird!" exclaimed Belton, checking his long, swinging stride. "No, it isn't either; it's a watch with a letter wrapped around it."

And then, in the swampy fastnesses, by the light of a few matches, they deciphered the cry for aid which had come from the plump inn.

"Who-w-wo!" said Wier. "Let's go and shoot the dog."

"Let's do nothing of the sort," said Belton. "What would you see or poor old Wier, either—go by declaring direct war in that sort of way! Let's be polite or nothing."

And he fired his rifle three times in the air, a sort of signal recognition of his primed friends.

"What's that?" said Mr. Brown, who was computing the interest on a promissory note at the sitting-room table by the light of a kerosene lamp.

"I dunno," said Wier, "unless it's Deacon Hall shooting' ruses in his bedroom."

"Oh, Uncle Brown," cried Bella, with clasped hands, "I hope there are no burglars around."

"Never heard of such a thing in all Bean Hollow, my dear," said the old man.

In the dead of that same night, however, two masked men appeared mysteriously in Mr. Brown's bedroom.

"Your money or your life," said one.

"Miser, unhand your treasures!" shouted the other.

Old Mr. Brown lay quaking there, quite hopelessly, when, in an instant, a light form sprang through the open window, balanced on the sill, and then hastened to the rescue.

A brief scuffle ensued; but at last the masked burglars fled precipitately, Caesar barking wildly at their heels, and the man who had been the most in his effort to wreak his vengeance upon them.

"Young fellow," cried the old man, scrambling out of bed, "you've saved my life, beside the Government coupons that were under my pillow. What can I do to reward you?"

He was very pale and trembled violently. "I'd like something to eat, if you please, sir," said Wier. "To tell you the truth, I've just come out of the plumb inn."

"No, I know," said Brown, recovering himself a little. "You're the fellow that is in love with my Bella; ain't you?"

"I don't deny it, sir," said Wier, boldly.

"Well, you deserve her," said Mr. Brown; "and you shall have her. It was I that ordered the dog chained up to the plumb-inn. I meant to bark you if I could, but I've changed my mind. I should have been for you. Come right down-stairs this moment. Nothing in this house is too good for you!"

And he threw Wier's hand until it was soiled as it were grasped in an iron vis.

A strange midnight collation it was—the coffee and food, and biscuits and tongue, eaten with Bella nestling close to his side, and Mr. Brown heaping all sorts of indiscriminate delicacies upon his plate, while old Zerkiah's face glowed out of the darkness of the kitchen like a badly-lighted polyopticon. But a happy one—yes, a very happy one.

A constabulary force of Bean Hollow were promptly notified the next morning, and a search instituted, but to no avail. Nothing was ever heard of the two masked burglars.

But when Mr. Wier came back to the inn the following day, to order his portmanteau removed to the Brown farm-house, and bid his late colleagues adieu, he wrung Belton's hand alternately with that of Wier.

"I don't know how to ever thank you, boys," said he. "Not for the rescue from a rather sorry plight—brute force could have done that with a blow on the dog's head—but for the manner of it. I'm a great man in old Brown's estimation, and you think I am a hero. And it's all owing to you."

"Oh, don't mention it, old fellow!" said Wier. "How did you like me as a first-class burglar?"

"By the way," added Belton, "I've burned the masks. Circumstantial evidence, you know. They might get us into trouble."

"You'll invite us to the wedding, of course?" queried Wier.

"Oh, yes!" said Wier, blushing.

"And I may kiss the bride?" asked Belton.

"Of course you may!" said Wier.

And Belton observed, thoughtfully, that he considered that reward enough for any man.—Helen Frost Gates, in Boston Herald.

THE ORIGIN OF BOODIE.

It is probably derived from the old English word bottle, a bunch or a bundle, as a bottle of straw. The whole kit, and bunkum, 'thems' is a New England expression in common use, and the word in this sense means the whole lot. Latterly boodie has come to be somewhat synonymous with the word pile, a term in use at the gaming table, and signifying a quantity of money. In the gaming sense, when a man has 'lost his boodie,' he has lost his pile or whole lot of money, whatever amount he happened to have with him. The word may be a euphemism for the German word boetzel, a purse, and is a figurative sense money.

A Wonderful Miracle.

There is a wonderful miracle in Glacier Bay, Alaska, reflected from the glassy surface of the Pacific glacier. It is said that just after the change of the moon in June, soon after sunset and while the moon is climbing above the glacier, it is so distinct that a photograph is said to have been made this season by a resident of Juneau, who learned of the fact from the Juneau-Seattle News.
