For signing this "round robin" thirty-two men were tried and convicted, but were subsequently released by General McCook, who in a general order issued from the headquarters of the department of Arizona severely rebuked Captain Markeley for his treatment and for violating the regulations in permitting gambling in his company. In the letter asking for a court of inquiry, received at the war department, Captain Markeley denies the charge.

BOUND TO DIE.
NEW YORK, June 1.—About 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon a well-dressed man, about 32 years old, shot himself in Eighty-third street, near the East river. Policeman Mulhern called an ambulance, which took the man to the Presbyterian hospital. A bullet had entered between the sixth and seventh ribs, penetrating the left lung. The man's condition is not hopeless. He said that he was a Canadian by birth, and gave his name as Fred Howland. "Send for Mr. Gillespie," he gasped, "of No. 54 William street; he can tell you all about me." Howland said that he came to New York about a year ago and became a bookkeeper, residing on Fallside avenue, Spuyten Duyvil. He seemed intelligent and was well dressed. In a pocket was found a ticket for a watch pawned on May 20. The ball has not yet been extracted. "It's no use your trying to cure me," exclaimed the patient; "I'll only do the job better next time. I've two bullets in me already. I put them there three years ago." He could not be induced to assign any cause for the act, but it is believed that there is a woman in the case.

PITTSBURGH, June 2.—The annual convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers will open here today. So soon as the posts are abandoned they will be turned over to the secretary of the interior for disposition.

COLLAPSING.
Travelers Tales of the Decline in Booms to the North.

A gentleman right from there says there is not one-fourth the life and building in Spokane Falls this season there was last. The city is full of empty rooms, houses, offices and buildings and no property is selling. There are more arrivals here from Washington daily. At Port Townsend the collapse is complete. A Seattle man was in town Sunday who paid $1,500 for property just outside last spring. By face he could get $7,000 cash. Now he cannot sell for $500. It is thus nearly all over the Sound. It will take that region ten years to get over the present reaction. Salem men think Washington papers would be a good place to advertise the glowing realities of this valley.

Life's Tragedy.
HONDO CITY, Tex., May 27.—Manuel Gonzales, a young Mexican, owns a small ranch and has money in the bank. Antonio Monzoza, daughter of a neighboring cattleman, had promised to marry him, but she deserted him for Eduardo Valdez, who plays a 12 stringed guitar and says his father is a Hidalgo. Gonzales came to town yesterday and met Valdez in the street and plunged a hunting knife into his side. Valdez is dead and Gonzales is in jail.

The Tacoma News takes advantage of the tragedy to drop into poetry as follows:
ANTONIA MENDOZA, a mantilla'd Senorita,
Was loved and won by all who chanced to meet her.
But, in her train, the man who took first rank
Was Gonzales, a rancher, with money in the bank.
Until another came, and him she got a mash on.
Eduardo Valdez, interloper, now Gonzales lies in jail, Antonia lies all over.

It is guaranteed every time, or money refunded. Trial bottle free at Fry's Drugstore.

"I could Move the World
If I had something to rest my lever on," said Archimedes. Large bodies move or are moved slowly. But it is no impossible or even difficult task to render these small bodies, the kidneys, active when they are not. Don't try to do this with unmedicated, alcoholic stimulants. The experiment is unsafe. The safe, safe remedy is Hood's Kidney Pills. Which affords just the right amount of stimulus without overdoing the matter. Continued use of either the kidneys or bladder, it should never be lost sight of, are attended with grave results. Bright's disease, diabetes, and other ailments which affect the renal organs, have their origin in the kidneys. To overcome this is an easy matter at the outset. Not so later. Now is the time in a case of this kind. Frequency of the bowels, stomach and liver, rheumatism and malaria are remedied by the Pills.

A Miracle of the Nineteenth Century
Owing to a bad state of the blood, I have been afflicted with rheumatism for ten years. I have expended large sums of money for remedies recommended to me, and from using powerful liniments, my limp and knee had lost nearly all its strength. When I commenced to take Hood's Kidney Pills, I could not take one step without the aid of a cane. I can now move with ease, and walk without any cane. I am relieved of all my rheumatism and I might herald myself afflicted with rheumatism and other blood diseases, the merits of these wonderful medicines.

Future Demand for Wool.
Pacific Rural Spirit: It is not an uncommon thing to hear men say "the time will come when the wool business will be overdone." Going back to about the year 1860, we find that about 4 lbs of wool was then used to the person. The same calculation now reckons 6 lbs. to the person. We have a population of over 60,000,000. This number therefore, demands 360,000,000 lbs. of wool. Society is not stationary, but is increasing faster than at most any other time in the history of our country. Those who figure from the past now claim that at the end of 30 years the population of the United States will be at least 100,000,000. Supposing that 6 lbs. of wool will be required for each person they will need 600,000,000 lbs., or double the amount now used. The bright prospect for the wool grower as a producer of wool is not without other advantages. To meet the increased demand for wool there must be an increase of flocks, and when the fact is studied that a good grade will produce almost double the amount of wool that a native yields, it will be seen at a glance that there will be still a good demand for pure-breds. As to domain for profitable sheep husbandry, we are for a long time to come not limited. Again when the amount of wool that is produced within the thickest settled portions of the country referred to is calculated, it will be found that the people are producing but a few fleeces when they should be producing tons. With all this fine prospect before us, let no man think for a moment that the business is a chance one, or one that will take care of itself, or one that requires no intelligence. The man who reads and keeps himself informed as to fashions, which make demand, will, if he be informed as to how to properly breed so as to produce that which will be wanted, be the one that will reap the reward.

A man who has practice medicine for 40 years, ought to know what from sugar; read this he says:
TOLDO, O., Jan. 10, 1887.
Messrs. F. J. Cheney & Co. have been in the general practice of medicine for many years, and would say that in all my practice and experience have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence as your own Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times, and with wonderful success. I would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions. Yours truly,

THE EGGS OF MURDER.

How They Are Scattered About by Thoughtless and Callous Men.

"The causes of capital crimes," said a Tombs lawyer to a party of friends at a restaurant table the other night—"that is, the real and immediate causes—are frequently overlooked by juries. Just listen to that man at the table over there. Got a voice like a horse fiddle. He is letting the whole room know the list of hereditary diseases that affect his family. It would be a blessing to humanity if that man was shot dead as a hammer, yet his slayer would be charged with manslaughter and probably convicted by a jury of the crime. I tell you that the world of that curio will grate upon some ears in this room tonight, and will probably derange for the time being some sensitive physical organism, under the influence of which a vindictive act will be committed that will perhaps cause lifelong regret if not a punishment by law. A client of mine was once charged with murder in the first degree. The statement presented by the prosecution was that the prisoner had had a difference with an acquaintance. Two weeks afterward he met this acquaintance coming out of an uptown cafe after dark, drew a revolver immediately and shot him to death. The difference referred to was in itself absolutely trivial. It had resulted from an argument over the relative merits of Langtry and Mrs. Brown Potter. They had actually parted good friends, but their high words at one stage of the argument had been overheard.

"Now, on the night in question my client had gone into a restaurant for dinner. One of those creatures with the delicacy of a rhinoceros sat at the next table. He had been attached to a sheriff's office once upon a time, and immediately upon sitting down he began to tell the man near him of the hangings that he had witnessed and the details of the revolting crimes for which the prisoners had been hanged. My friend was at about the middle of his dinner. The words of the brute were like so many leaden balls dropping down into my client's stomach. He tried to continue, but he could not choke down more food. In desperation he called for a glass of brandy and then another glass, and before he left the place he had taken a half dozen large doses in quick succession.

"That morning in starting out he had put a revolver in his pocket, intending to sleep at the house of a friend in the country, the way to which lay through a lonesome piece of woods, which he would have to pass late at night. As he left the restaurant he thought of taking the train, and putting his hand in his overcoat pocket he found the weapon.

"Just at that very moment the acquaintance approached, and what really happened was this: My client went up to the other and said, 'Charley, I feel so desperately miserable that I almost could commit murder or suicide. See here, I have a pistol too.' In going to take the weapon from his pocket it became entangled in the cloth. An explosion followed and one of the men fell dead.

"I exhausted my powers of speech upon the jury, and after proving by hygienic experts how talk of the kind referred to would act upon a sensitive man, succeeded in securing a verdict of manslaughter. The man ought to have been acquitted."—New York Recorder.

Treatment of the Indians.
The historians of the conquests by Pizarro, Cortes and their contemporaries and successors have recorded events unsurpassed in bloodshed and cruelty, yet the fate of the Indians under the Spanish domination and under the influence of the Roman Catholic church is in marked contrast with that of the great tribes which aforetime inhabited the Anglo-Saxon and Protestant American States. In Mexico Indian blood courses in the veins of seven-eighths of the people; in Argentina the proportion is far less, it being in this particular at the other extreme among Spanish American states; but even here the Indian admixture is not only noticeable, but sufficient to influence national traits.

It may not be said that the Indians have been thoroughly Christianized by the Roman Catholic church in the Spanish Americas, but though many were slaughtered the race has been perpetuated, and has received religious ideas in advance of the former heathen rites. The Anglo-Saxon has disposed and destroyed the Indians without a protest from either the Protestant or Roman Catholic church, and the religious work in their behalf has been shamefully perverted compared with the Christian missionary work in behalf of heathens in remote and foreign lands.

Not to be Bluffed.
Railroad Official (breaking the news gently to wife of New York drummer)—Aleni! Madam, be calm! Your husband has met with a slight—that is to say, one of the drive wheels of the passenger locomotive struck him on the cheek, and—

Wife—Well, sir, you needn't come around here trying to collect damages. You won't get a cent from me. If your company cannot keep its property out of danger it'll have to take the consequences. You should have your engines insured."—Harper's Bazar.

Heredity.
"It is curious that so attractive a man as Browney never married."
"Family influence. All his ancestors for four generations back were backsliders, I believe."—Epoch.
