

the major's notes for $450, and has held them for nearly a year. The total sum due by him to clerks and messengers can only be estimated at present, for since Assistant Secretary Bussey made so bold a stand in his defense the employees are afraid to enter complaint. The quiet methods of Acting Secretary Chandler will bring out all facts. Major Barker also stands indebted to book-makers on the turf for quite an amount. The book-makers, however, refuse to give the exact sum, inasmuch as they are not courting any publicity just now.

BISHOP OF MASSACHUSETTS.
NEW YORK, June 6.—Twenty-eight dioceses out of fifty-two have voted for the consecration of Philip Brooks as bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts. As soon as the Massachusetts diocese receive formal notice from the necessary number of standing committees its officers will communicate with Bishop Williams, presiding bishop of the Episcopal church of the United States, and he will ask seventy-four bishops to say yes or no to the question of Brooks' consecration. He ought to get an answer within two weeks. Dr. Brooks' friends think now that, by the middle of this month it will be definitely known whether or not Dr. Brooks is to be bishop of Massachusetts.

REGIMENT OF BICYCLES.
NEW YORK, June 6.—Colonel Austin, of the Thirteenth regiment, in Brooklyn, is making arrangements to organize a new corps to be composed exclusively of wheelmen. In his letter to the adjutant general he has asked permission to enlist a company to be specially organized as a bicycle corps, and instructed in reconnaissance duty and in signal corps work. He says: "I hope to demonstrate by the time of the next encampment of the command that the work performed will show the wisdom of permitting such an organization in the practical work which such a company can perform." The bicycle is extensively used in military organizations in Europe and Canada.

COLLEGE FRACAS.
BELOIT, Wis., June 6.—There was much excitement yesterday over a fracas of college and academy students Wednesday night, which resulted in an incident riot. The senior academy class was to have an annual banquet, which event for years has been the occasion of more or less of a muss. Usually the members of the banquet class are kidnapped by other classes, or otherwise detained from participating in the festivities. Last night some of the college and academy men made a charge on the banquet class. One student was shot in the side by another, but the wounds are not dangerous. Windows were broken in the hotel, where supper was to be served. The toast master was taken from his home to the banquet hall under a guard of police. There are several bandaged heads at recitations today.

The number of ships on the way here is larger than is usual at this time of the year. By October there will be plenty of them. Crop reports from the Sacramento valley are very good but reports from the San Joaquin valley are not very encouraging. There is a general feeling that wheat will bring a good price this year."

HORRIBLE CASE.

WATERLOO, Iowa, June 6.—Yesterday afternoon, while Joseph Brannon, aged nineteen, was at work for a farmer living near Washburn, three tramps called at the house in the absence of the family and demanded something to eat. Brannon refused the request telling them of the absence of the family. The refusal angered the tramps and they assaulted the lad by throwing him to the ground and castrating him. The wretches will undoubtedly be lynched if they are captured.

A few days since the firm of Gibbons, McAllister & Co., of which Mr. Marden is a member, stored in this barn twelve hicks and one buggy in crates. These were entirely destroyed. The loss is about $2,000; no insurance. The origin was undoubtedly incendiary. The nearest occupied building was 100 feet distant.

A DOUBLE MURDER.

SPOKANE FALLS, June 6.—Passengers in from Coulee City bring additional particulars of the double murder near Waterville on Wednesday. Four brothers named Von Bowen, Germans, young men and unmarried, occupied two homesteads fifteen miles northwest of Waterville, on the Columbia river. Two of the brothers had lately arrived from Germany. The murderer was named Robert. He committed the crime with a shot gun, and is still at large. The remaining brother, who can speak very little English, carried the news to a neighbor, who rode that night to Waterville. The sheriff left at midnight with a posse in pursuit of the murderer, but so far nothing further has been learned from the scene.

SPOKANE FALLS, June 6.—Still later particulars from the scene of the Big Bend tragedy state that the murderer is still at large and that the third brother has committed suicide. The two older brothers, John and Jake, had been on bad terms for a long time and quarreled over a division of stock. Henry was plowing with a horse belonging to Jake, who came up and demanded the animal. A quarrel followed, during which John rode up on his horse. Peter heard the shots and turned to the scene to find one brother dead and the other mortally wounded. Jake confessed the killing and rode away, leaving his shotgun and revolver on the ground with every chamber empty. It is now learned that Jake was wounded when he left, and some think he that afterwards fell from his horse.

NOT SCHWEINFURTH.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Schweinfurth, the Rockford "Messiah," who has been worrying the people of Kansas City so much of late, left there last night for Chicago, and incidentally Mr. McCartney, of California, who much resembled Schweinfurth, and who was travelling East with his daughters, had a very exciting experience. He had been observed about the city yesterday, and was quietly trailed by some people who supposed him to be Schweinfurth, and when he started for the Kansas City depot last night, with his daughters, word quickly spread about that the Rockford man was leaving town with two Kansas City females. A crowd of infuriated citizens hastened to the depot, and when the McCartneys arrived in a carriage, a rush was made for them. McCartney was considerably surprised at the hostile demonstration, but promptly whipped out a young cannon and ordered the crowd to stand back. Then he explained to them who he was, whereupon one of the leaders of the mob told him they had confounded him with Schweinfurth, and the crowd dispersed. All this time, it is said, Schweinfurth was snugly ensconced in a berth in a sleeping car, listening to the tumult outside.

The Spring Medicine
The popularity which Hood's Sarsaparilla has gained as a spring medicine is wonderful. It possesses just those elements of health giving, blood purifying and appetite restoring which everybody seems to need in this season. Do not continue in a dull, tired, unsatisfactory condition when you may be so much benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood and makes the weak strong.

SCROFULA

That impurity of the blood which produces unsightly lumps or swellings on the face of the neck; causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; develops eruptions in the eyes, ears, or nose; causes phlegm or deafness; is the origin ofingles, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "Scrofula"; and fastens upon the lungs, causes consumption, and death. Being the most potent, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can SCROFULA Be CURED?

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, has proven itself to be a potent and powerful medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula or impure blood, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Every spring my wife and children have been troubled with scrofula, some breaking out on them in various places. My little boy, three years old, has been a terrible sufferer. Last spring he was a mass of sores from head to feet. I was advised to use Hood's Sarsaparilla, and we have all been cured. The result is that all have been cured of the scrofula, my little boy being entirely free from sores, and all four of my children look bright and healthy. W. B. ABBOTT, Passaic City, N. J.

WOOD FOR LOCOMOTIVE FUEL.

What Strikes the Traveler When He Rides Into Southern States.
Throughout the border states of the south the fuel for domestic use, as well as for running machinery, is wood. On all the railroads wood is used exclusively for firing the engines. Each tender of the engine is stacked high with short lengths of wood ready for use, which have been gathered from the immense piles that are seen at regular intervals along the lines.

Pine is plentiful in the coast states, and is the wood principally used. It kindles easily, as every one knows, and generates rapidly an intense heat, and still does not consume as quickly as it first appears. Passenger trains are frequently run from 117 to 129 miles on one cord of this wood.

The traveler on these roads is apt to find the thick black smoke from the rich pine thrown off by the engine equally as annoying and disagreeable as the sulphur fumes from the bituminous coal in common use on roads throughout the coal regions. Back from the smokestack is thrown a continual shower of sparks, making a pretty sight by night. These bits of fire, as a rule, die out quickly and do very little damage. But a spark may occasionally enter through an open door or window, and burn its way into your clothing or the cushions of the seat.

Another disagreeable feature attending travel on these roads is the dust you encounter at all seasons of the year. Close the windows and doors of the coach as you will, the white sand dust will enter the crevices and cover you from head to foot. Before you reach your journey's end you will likely find you will either be suffocated with the tar smoke of the pine fuel or strangled with the dust.

For this reason travelers once passing over southern railroads see the necessity of providing themselves well with linen dusters or traveling cloaks, as a double protection against sparks from locomotives and dust of the way-side.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

He Got His Pension.

The Americans do indeed honor their heroes, as the following story will show: For years a helpless, paralyzed cripple has sat by the wayside in Kennington, and there, supported in a wheel chair, he has gained a precarious living by the sale of bootlaces. Some four years back a local sympathizer interested himself in the old man and learned that he had served in the Federal army through the American war, and that his paralysis was the fruit of hardships he endured as a soldier.

Forthwith the sympathetic friend petitioned the United States minister and claimed some consideration for the crippled veteran. Failing to obtain immediate assistance, the case was stated and re-stated with dogged persistency, and the official red tape began gradually but surely to unwind. A threat was at last made that the paralytic should be wheeled to the door of the American embassy, when the United States authorities succumbed, and the old man has now "retired from business" with $400 "cash down" as "deferred pension," and thirty dollars a month for the rest of his life. He does not sell bootlaces now.—St. James' Gazette.

Bunco in Paris.

Paris' most popular bunco game is played thus: A well dressed stranger with a handbag hurries into a hotel restaurant near a railway station, eats a fine dinner, and engages the landlord in conversation. He praises the cooking, and after paying his bill promises to make the hotel his headquarters during his frequent visits to the city. As he opens the door to leave he calls back for the landlord's name. When the landlord gives it the stranger remarks, "Curious that is my name, too," asks the landlord to care for letters or packages to his address, and leaves. Letters come for the stranger, and are called for by "his valet." Finally a package comes, and is also carried off. That is all. The trick is up, and the landlord and tradesman who sent round the package may settle the loss as best they can.—New York Sun.

A Matter of Experience.

As they approached the tunnel the girl with whom the commercial traveler had struck up an acquaintance rose and took another seat.
"Why did you do that?" he asked reproachfully as the train came out again.
"Oh, I have been through it before, you know."—Philadelphia Times.

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver.
