NICELX TAKEN IN.—Bill White, of Aumsville, and Ciel Nash had a slight altercation at 2 p. m. today.

Words over a bed led to blows and in the first round one of the gentlemen was knocked through a large plate of glass, when Sheriff Croisan, who was standing right there reached through the opening and marched them both off to the cooler.

CHILDREN'S DAY.—This religious anniversary was made much of last Sunday as usual at the Presbyterian church.

Dr. Gwynne preached a sermon to the teachers. In the evening the children had the entire program. The performance by the infant class was especially attractive.

MORE CONVICTS.—Chas. King, the Smithfield shotgun thief, who was sentenced to one year, and Geo. Williams and Thos. Martin, who broke into a car at the Eugene depot, sentenced to terms of two years each, arrived at the pen yesterday in charge of Deputy Sheriff H. J. Day and J. W. Cherry, of Lane county.

SCATTERED THE BERRIES.—Jeff Pooler's team took fright this morning in the rear of a grocery and ran up the alley, scattering a few crates of strawberries right and left, breaking up the wagon and then tearing down Front street. The horses were uninjured.

WORKING HOBOS.—This morning ten tramps and prisoners were at work hauling rock and breaking them to improve Salem streets. These men are under good discipline and performing useful work.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.—Chas. Tasker was arrested this morning for striking S. B. Catterlin, the real estate man. He pleaded not guilty, and will have a trial at 2 p. m. After a hearing before Recorder Goodell Tasker was fined $5 and costs.

KINDERGARTEN.—Miss Orville Ballou of Chicago concluded her first term of kindergarten work in Salem this morning. The school has been very successful and the system is slowly winning its way in Salem as people become acquainted with its merits.

COUNCIL.—The regular meeting of the city council occurs tonight. The rooms were thoroughly cleaned up and put in order and paving will probably receive another whirl.

ALWAYS THE LEADER.—M. T. Rinehart is the leader in everything. He has today the first fresh peaches, apricots, plums and everything in the fruit line.

THE WOOL CROP.—This year's crop will be a success. Clean goods and low prices have largely increased the trade at the Salem Woolen Mill Store.

JUST RECEIVED.—Another full line of new shapes at Chas. Calvert's.

That Jeff Davis Portrait.

The following self-explanatory letter was received by Hon. A. Bush of Salem:

LITTLE ROCK, June 8, 1891.

DEAR SIR—Your favor of 5d ulato at hand to day. The picture of George Washington still hangs over the speakers' stand in the hall of the house of representatives, where it has so long been; in the same hall is found the picture of Gen. Grant, and across a hall in the senate chamber hangs the picture of Abraham Lincoln. The picture of Jefferson Davis was placed in the hall of the house, but, the impression that the picture of George Washington had been removed from the hall, is all wrong. The people of this state have been abused, maligned and slandered about this matter. If somebody desires to witness the devotion of the people of Arkansas to the memory of Washington, let a quarter of a million of men attempt to come and take his picture from its place in the hall of the house of representatives. I shall cheerfully serve you when I can.

Yours Truly, Ben B. CHISM, Secretary of State.

Are You Going East?

If so, be sure and see that your tickets read via the "North Western Line." The C. St. P. M. & O. Ry. This is the great short line from St. Paul or Duluth to all points east and south. Their magnificent track, peerless vestibuled dining and sleeping car trains, and their motto, "always on time," has given this road a national reputation. All classes of passengers are carried on the vestibuled trains without extra charge. All ticket agents sell tickets via this line. Ship your freight and travel over this famous road. W. H. MEAD, Gen. Agt., No. 4 Wash. St., Portland, Or. A. J. LELAND, Trav'g Agt.

LOOK HERE.—Any person who buys a lot from me this week, I will make a present of a new suit of clothes, or to any lady I will give a $10 dress. Monroe Nye, the real estate agent, over Boothby & Co.'s clothing store. 68-1f

STORY OF AN EX-BRAKEMAN.

Driven from His Position by Horrors Incident to His Calling.

"I was a brakeman on the Harlem road before I entered the ministry," said a well known Brooklyn preacher to me, "but it was only for a little while. It proved to be a horrible calling. It was only a few days after I had been installed in my position when I received the first shock to my nerves. We were just on the point of crossing a small bridge that spanned a shallow stream of water when I heard the whistle blown for 'down brakes.' 'I put on the brake as hard as I could and then looked ahead of the train. I was just in time to see a man running for his life across the bridge on a narrow board footway. The train was slowly losing its momentum, but it was too late to save the man from death, for just as he had about reached a place of safety the engine hit him and he was knocked over into the water.

"When the train had been stopped we went down and recovered the poor fellow's corpse. His skull had been cleanly split in two and the water had washed out his brains. The body was placed in the baggage car, on which I worked, and I was forced to gaze upon the ghastly spectacle until we reached the next station, where the dead man was turned over to the authorities.

"As if that were not enough to produce a lasting horrible impression upon my mind, I received another and perhaps more frightful shock two weeks later. It was on the same bridge. I again heard the dreaded signal for 'down brakes.' This time I put all the strength I could command into my effort and keyed the brake up to the last notch I was able to force it to. The next instant the chain broke, and the train, which was gradually being halted, bounded forward with new impetus and another man was killed.

"It seems that he had tried to save himself by clasping his hands over one of the ties and hanging below the train until it had passed. He had succeeded in locking his hands around the timber, but did not have time to duck his head before the cowcatcher struck his neck, cut off his head close to the shoulders and tossed it into the water. When we went back to recover the body we found, to our surprise, the headless corpse of the man with his hands still linked in the grip of death around the railroad tie.

"That settled it with me, and I resigned my place forthwith. I have not touched a brake since that day."—New York Herald.

Sorting and Cleaning Wool.

The wool comes into the mill dirty, greasy, burry, sometimes washed by the farmer, but generally just as it is sheared from the sheep, a filthy and unwholesome thing, giving little sign of the beautiful, white and flossy substance into which it is soon converted. It must first be sorted, each fleece containing from six to eight qualities of sorts, which the careful manufacturer separates, devoting each quality to the purpose for which it is best suited. No skill in carding, spinning, weaving or finishing can possibly produce a soft or fine piece of goods from a coarse, hard fiber.

When a woolen thread is to be spun to the length of 15,000 yards to a pound, or in the case of a worsted thread to twice that number of yards to the pound, everything depends upon care in the selection of the fleeces upon which the sorting. The sorts are impregnated with a greasy substance called the yolk or suint, caused by the animal secretion and the perspiration of the skin, a compound of potash and animal fat, which must be completely eradicated. The elimination of the yolk, dirt and foreign substances common to all wools results in a shrinkage of from 50 to 70 per cent.—S. N. D. North in Popular Science Monthly.

The Balaful East Wind.

That wind from any one of the four cardinal or intermediate points should have a more depressing effect upon the human system than that from any or all of the other points seems like sheer nonsense. In these days, however, we cannot forego scientific testimony. Dr. Richards says: "That all nervous conditions in which, for want of a more correct term, we say 'the nervous tone is lowered,' are much intensified by the east wind. Indeed, the special action of this peculiar wind is to produce 'want of tone,' or debility. Under its influence almost all sick persons say they are depressed; they do not complain of reduced appetite nor of pain intensified, but they declare that they are rendered prostrate both in mind and body. In brief, if a single word were wanted to express the morbid effect of an east wind on a sick man that word would be 'prostration.'"—St. Louis Republic.

Helping the Recording Angel.

"Please light your cigar well before leaving, so that the recording angel will have less work to do," reads a sign posted in front of the cigar lighter in a tobacconist's store in Whitehall street. I asked the man behind the counter to explain the sign. "It means," said he, "that you should see that your weed is perfectly lit before you leave the store, so that you will not have to stop a man in the street and ask him for a light. Every man that hands his cigar to a stranger to pull at for fire is supposed to swear inwardly at the annoyance and the probable damage to his own sign. That makes work for the recording angel."—New York Herald.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that can conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited, and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring-time or, in fact, at any time, and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation permanently.
